FOUR MORE CHARGES MADE.

Abe Roos Again Arrested by His Young Brother.

The feud between the Roos brothers goes more or less merrily on. Abe Roos, the second oldest brother, and proprietor of the lunch wagon which it is alleged the youngest brother, Leo, aged 18, attempted to blow up with dynamite, was made defendant in four more cases yesterday at the instance of Leo.

Alderman Kelly, of the Eighteenth ward, held the defendant in $1,000 bail to answer for conspiracy, criminal libel, perjury and threats. A constable went the way to the county jail with the prisoner when a telephone message to Warden Simpson directed that when Roos arrived he should forthwith be taken to the court house.

Sergeant Fred M. Kohler, of Company F Thirteenth regiment, of which Roos is a member, was apprised of the arrest and at once took steps to prevent his comrade from going behind the bars. Colonel Watres was interested and he waited on Judge Archbald. The result was that Roos secured his release, Sergeant Kohler qualifying as his bondsman. Judge Archbald reduced the bail to $300 after Attorney Frank E. Boyle, consul for young Roos, explained the circumstances of the case.

Roos served with Company G, of the Eleventh infantry in Cuba and Porto Rico, and is now a corporal in the Thirteenth. Sergeant Kohler says he is a good soldier and that, as far as he has been able to learn, the boy is being persecuted by his brother.

Roos was arrested on four different charges last week at the instance of this same brother. Attempt to kill, larceny, threats and defrauding of wages were the allegations. He was held in bail on each charge. Roos says his two brothers are conspiring to ruin him. He brought the younger brother to this country about two years ago and gave him employment. He claims he also contributed $20 to help bring his older brother's family to this country. This $20 was the first money he received from the government while he was fighting in Cuba.

ROCK JUNCTION COLLISION.

Three Engines Badly Used Up on the Erie and Wyoming Valley Railroad—Fireman Swingle Hurt.

By a head-on collision between two coal trains near Rock Junction, above Dunmore, on the Erie and Wyoming Valley railroad, early yesterday morning, three engines and three locomotives were derailed and more or less damaged.

An east bound coal train drawn by two engines and west bound train of empty cars drawn by a single engine were allowed to come into the same block through a miscalculation of the signal man. He supposed the one train had cleared the block and signaled the other to come on.

The first engine of the "double-headed" had just cut loose and was hurrying ahead to make a flying switch between the train of empties, coming up grade, rounded the curve. Both engines reversed their levers and had the speed greatly slackened when the collision came. The loaded train, a few rods behind, could not be stopped before reaching the wreck and consequently there was a second crash. All three engines suffered the almost total demolition of their tenders, but neither shock was sufficient to seriously affect the locomotives.

The crews jumped and saved themselves, but Fireman Swingle was slow in getting off and, being thrown against the fire-box by the jolt, had his face painfully burned. In addition to this he unfortunately selected the embankment side of the track on which to jump and suffered a fall of nearly thirty feet, which left him with severe cuts and bruises.

The east bound train was drawn by engines Nos. 4 and 1, with Irwin Secor and Verne Tuttle as the respective engineers. Michael Kelly was conductor. The west bound train was drawn by engine No. 32, with John Marshall at the throttle. William Townsend was conductor.

Little or no delay to traffic was occasioned.

MINERS' MASS MEETING.

Held in Vacant Lots on North Main Avenue.

A large number of members of the local unions of the United Mine Workers of America assembled in the vacant lots opposite Clarke Brothers' stores, on North Main avenue, last evening, and for two hours listened to speeches by the organizers Fred Deitcher and Benjamin James. Their arguments were mainly along the line of the policy now being followed by the union.

Incidentally the speakers took occasion to ridicule the movement inaugurated on Monday evening to organize the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western miners. They counseled the men not to identify themselves with any organization other than the United Mine Workers.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE ENCAMPMENT

ADVANCE DETAIL LEAVES TONIGHT FOR MT. GRETTA.

It Will Be in Charge of Captain John W. Kambeck—Indications Are That the Coming Gathering of the Guard Will Be the Finest in the History of the National Guard of the State. Will Be Over Ten Thousand Men Under Canvas—Notables Who Will Review the Troops.

The advance detail of the Thirteenth regiment will leave tonight for Camp Hawkins, Mt. Gretna, to prepare the camp for the regiment which will arrive Saturday morning. The detail will be in charge of Captain John W. Kambeck and will consist of five men from each company. Assistant Surgeon George A. Blanchard will accompany the detail.

The indications are that the coming division encampment at Mt. Gretna will be the finest and most complete in the history of the National Guard of this state. This will be the first summer encampment since 1897, and since that last assembling of the state troops for regular drill there have been numerous changes. In 1898 the boys were called to Mt. Gretna, not for the purpose of mere routine drill, but for a more serious business of preparing for actual warfare.

The war with Spain has had the effect of making the National Guard of Pennsylvania a far more efficient body than it ever was before, and it could be put in shape for active service speedily, should the state be called upon again for volunteers. The total strength of the National Guard is now between 19,000 and 11,000 men. All the regiments are now organized on the three-battalion formation, similar to that of the regular army, and there would be no such difficulty as there was 1897 in providing an extra battalion for each command.

MAKE-UP OF REGIMENTS.

The twelve companies of a regiment carry three officers and 100 privates more than fifty men each, and all that would be necessary, should there be a war call again, would be to enroll men to meet the government quota of 100 men to a company.

The state equipments have been made to conform very closely to those of the United States army and all the commands have the improved pattern 5-caliber Springfield rifles, the next best arms to the government's Krag-Jorgensen. The standard of marksmanship has been improved and the commands are now required to qualify at least 75 per cent. of the membership at rifle practice.

It is estimated that there will be fully 10,500 men under canvas at Mt. Gretna during the encampment. The sites of the brigades are declared to be in excellent condition and will be located as follows: The First brigade, Brigadier General Schall commanding, will be located back of the hill and close to the state rifle range; Second brigade, Brigadier General Wiley commanding, will occupy the ground opposite Colebrook station, and the Third brigade, Brigadier General Gobin commanding, will occupy the land nearest the Mt. Gretna park station. The cavalry and artillery will be located near the camps of the Second brigade and railroad.

At the coming encampment it is ordered that the three artillery commands shall be detached from their brigades and formed into a provisional battalion. The four troops of cavalry, in a similar manner, shall go into camp as a squadron.

OPENS SATURDAY.

The boys will go into camp on Saturday, Aug. 4, and the first two days will be spent in putting things in order, which is not a light undertaking. On Monday following General Miles will pay them a visit and there will be a review. Governor Stone and his staff will be present and will remain all week.

On Thursday there will be a division review in honor of the governor, which will be the grandest turnout the guard ever had. Secretary of War Root and former Governors Pattison, Beaver and Hastings will be present, and many people from all over the state will attend.

At Lewistown in 1897 there were 8,400 men on parade, but at Camp Hawkins there will be 10,500 men under arms and in good marching order. Out of the entire guard there will be but one command to march to the camp, the Governor's Troop, which will leave Harrisburg on Saturday morning and will be in the camp about 4.30 in the afternoon.

The Pennsylvania railroad, which will have charge of the transportation of the larger part of the National Guard to and from the division encampment at Mt. Gretna, has made its preparations for this work. The transportation will be on a much larger scale than ever before, as the guard is considerably more numerous. The company, however, has made complete arrangements for the occasion and the movement of the troops will be with the usual promptitude and lack of friction.

NEW SIDINGS PUT IN.

The railroad company has had a number of new sidings laid near the spot where the camp will be situated and the capacity for storing cars has thus been nearly doubled. This was made necessary from the fact that the guard has increased in numbers and that facilities at Mt. Gretna were never adequate for a division encampment. The company had a force of men at work for several weeks preparing the encampment "yards" and now the track room is in shape for the reception of all the cars that can be possibly needed in moving the guardsmen to and from their place of a short period of practical soldiering. The movement of supplies to the camp is now in progress.

FORGOT HIS PROMISE.

Dominick Sultz Will Have to Spend Twenty Days in Jail.

Dominick Sultz is a boy of thirteen years, who has been in this country only a short time and talks very imperfect English. A week ago he was arrested for jumping on a Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train and was taken before Alderman Millar, where he pleaded that he did not know he was doing any harm, being ignorant of the laws and customs here. The alderman was so impressed by the boy's manner that he discharged him, after the youth had assured him

RECRUITS FOR THE REGULAR ARMY

MANY ACCEPTED AT OFFICE IN THIS CITY.

Most of Those Who Entered the Infantry Branch of the Service Were Assigned to the Fifth and First Regiments Which Are Now Being Recruited Up to the Full Standard. Both of These Regiments Are Destined for Active Service in the Philippines or China.

The men who are being enlisted almost daily at the United States army recruiting station on Wyoming avenue are in the majority of cases assigned to regiments which are under orders for active service. These regiments are the Fifth infantry at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, and the First infantry at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

One battalion of the Fifth has been stationed at Fort Sheridan for some time, while another passed through this city a few days ago on its way from Cuba.

The Fifth is not under orders for service in China, but it is the next thing to it. That is, it has been ordered to the Philippines, but accompanying this order is another directing that a stop be made at Nagasaki, Japan, for further orders.

This is taken to mean that the further orders will be to proceed to China across the China sea.

The First infantry is under orders for service in the Philippines without any stopovers on the way. The local recruiting officers report that a great many men come to the recruiting station and say they will enlist if they can receive positive assurance that they will be sent to China. As this cannot be done many go away.

Nevertheless the officers are more than pleased with their success in this city. Twenty-one enlistments were received during July, which is accounted a very good average. Since the station was established on April 1, seventy-seven men have been received into the army. The station will be continued here until October at any rate and perhaps longer.

The regiments to which the "rookies" are being sent have nearly the full quota of men in all instances, there being perhaps an average of about ten men required to fill up each company to the necessary war strength of 128 men. The addition of such a small percentage of new men does not therefore materially affect the strength of the regiment and the mixing of the new recruits with so many veterans gives them a more than unusually excellent chance to "catch on."

The names of the men from this vicinity who enlisted during July, and where they were assigned, were as follows:

THOSE WHO ENLISTED. Harry E. Brod, 153 Penn avenue, unassigned infantry, Fort Slocum. Frank Maddigan, Scranton, Fifth infantry, at Fort Sheridan.

Walter Bailey, Clark's Summit, Third cavalry, at Fort Myers. Lewis S. Benjamin, Clark's Summit, Fifth cavalry, at Jefferson Barracks.

William B. McMahon, 1022 Reynolds street, Fifth infantry, at Fort Sheridan. Taylor Dalton, Old Forge, Second artillery, at Fort Monroe.

Elvin J. Sampson, of Carbondale, Second artillery, at Fort Monroe. Harry T. Van Ripper, 602 Mulberry street, Second artillery, at Fort Monroe.

Thomas Brown, Forest City, unassigned infantry, at Fort Slocum. Evan Phillips, unassigned infantry, at Fort Slocum.

Robert E. Morlog, of 926 South Washington avenue, Fifth infantry, at Fort Sheridan. John Delaney, of Pittston, Fifth infantry, at Fort Sheridan.

John Freeman, of Throop, Fifth infantry, at Fort Sheridan. Robert E. Cannon, 413 Linden street, First infantry, at Fort Leavenworth.

Roy Keenan, of Scranton, First infantry, at Fort Leavenworth. John J. Sultz, of Hawley, First infantry, at Fort Leavenworth.

The men as soon as enlisted are given their transportation to which ever army post they are assigned and are allowed to journey off unaccompanied. It is very seldom, so the recruiting officers say, that the man doesn't turn up all right at the barracks.

BELIEVE THE STORY.

Local Lackawanna Officials Credit Story of New Route to Philadelphia—Reasons Why They Do.

Tomorrow, according to the stories sent out from New York and elsewhere, is the day on which the Lackawanna is to take charge of the operation of the Portland and Bangor road, but as yet no official notice of this has come to the local officials. Such notice, however, is expected at any time. The story that the Lackawanna's purchase of the Portland and Bangor is a preliminary step toward an independent Lackawanna route to Philadelphia is generally credited about the company's offices in this city.

"It is a plausible story," said one high official yesterday, "and I would not be surprised to see it corroborated before long. The North Penn is controlled by the Lackawanna people and it is only seven miles between the termini of the two roads. The men at the head of the Lackawanna are the kind who will not hesitate to build a seven mile stretch of road to gain such an advantage as this independent and short route offers. It will be well to keep an eye on Lackawanna operations in Northampton county."

At present the Lackawanna reaches Philadelphia by the Boulders and Philadelphia division of the Pennsylvania. It is a single track road and taps no cities of any importance that could not be served by the proposed new route. This, coupled with the fact that the latter route is very much the shorter, makes the story a very probable one.

THIEF CONTINUES HIS STRANGE OPERATIONS

Visited House of Thomas Sprague on Quincy Avenue Last Night and Thoroughly Ransacked It.

The same peculiar thief who entered the residence of D. J. Campbell on Monday night got in some more of his fine work last night, when the residence of Thomas Sprague, at 623 Quincy avenue, was entered and thoroughly ransacked. Nothing, as far as could be learned was taken.

Miss Grace Sprague was in the house at about 7.30 o'clock, and at that time nothing had been disturbed. She went out on the front veranda, where she remained visiting with a friend until 8.30 o'clock when she had occasion to go up stairs.

She found every bedroom on the second floor ransacked. The bureau drawers were all opened and their contents, including about six dollars worth of jewelry, were left undisturbed, the thief being evidently bent on securing money and nothing else. There was no money in the house, however, where he could lay his hands on it.

A search showed that entrance had been effected by means of the butler's pantry window. There was only a screen in this, and it had been removed. The silver table service, which was in the dining room, was undisturbed. Miss Sprague said she heard no noise, but that she noticed two strange men enter the court between the residence and that of F. L. Carr, about 8 o'clock.

Chief Robling and Detective Moir were notified and made an investigation of the premises. That the residents of the city are becoming alarmed at these repeated burglaries was manifested yesterday when several parties intending to leave the city requested The Tribune not to mention the fact, fearing that their residences would be visited during their absence.
