Wall Street Review.

New York, Ang. 10.—Yesterday's dead level of stagnation in stocks was slightly relieved by one or two features in today's market. Strength in special cases had a sympathetic effect in the narrow general market and earlier weakness was overcome but the advance generally stopped short at about last night's level. The settive stock was sugar which rated above last night's level all day on operation by recent hull managers in the stock. There was no news to explain the movement, but the stock became fairly active in the latter part of day, and rose is over night, at which price it closed. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was inclined to advance on renewed promises of the early appearance of the annual statement and of rumors of change in the control of the active management. There was continued buying of Chicago and Northwestern after a slight preliminary reaction, the stock rising 1% over last night, while the prefered gained 2½ over the last sale on a single transaction.
