FITZ IS A LOCAL FAVORITE.

Great Delight in Scranton Over the Cornishman's Victory.

The returns from the Fitzsimmons Ruhlin fight were received in several of the central city hotels last night and watched with eager eyes by hundreds of admirers of the noble art of self-defense. Lanky Bob was everywhere the favorite and when the news came of the awkward-looking Cornishman's knockout blow, pandemonium broke loose. Several large bets were made, Fitz being the favorite, small odds.

Fitzsimmons is probably one of the most popular fighters in the ring to-Scranton, His last defeat wilted his laurels somewhat, but last night's victory gives him back his prestige and the generally expressed wish last night around town was this time maul him viciously and regain the championship of the world.

LACKAWANNA UNION IS ORGANIZED

ACTION TAKEN BY MINE WORK-ERS LAST NIGHT.

In Mears' Hall the Men Employed in and About the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Mines Decided to Form a Union of Their Own. Committee Appointed to Draft a Constitution and By-Laws-Addresses Made by Maurice Walsh, T. C. Davis and Joseph Seward.

Despite the intense heat there was good-sized crowd of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western mine workers at the mass meeting in Mear's hall last night. It was decided to organize the Lackawanna union, an organization to be restricted in its membership to men employed in or about Delaware, Lackawanna and Western collieries between Taylor and Dickson City. A committee on constitution and by-laws was appointed and as soon as it is ready to present its report another mass meeting will be called to set upon it.

After that the work of organizing union at each colliery will be taken up. It is understood that no person who is under 16 years of age will be permitted to join the union. Speeches were made by a number of the workmen last night, the tenor of which indicated that the men are opposed to strikes and believe that more good can be accomplished by a straight-forward and sensible presentation to their employers of any grievances than by recourse to strikes or like forms of coercion. Last night's gathering was notable from the fact that it was made up largely of men who have reached the meridian of life or who have passed it: men who have labored in and that he would again meet Jeffries and about the mines for years and have undergone all the ups and downs connected with the life of a mine worker. They were men whose countenances showed that they are thinkers and whose general appearance and demeanor gave the observer an impression of industry and thrift.

TENOR OF SPEECHES. From the speeches they made it was plain that they have given serious consideration to the conditions surrounding anthracite coal and that they feel that they are better qualified to deal with questions that arise here than men who are allied with the commercial rival of anthracite coal. The meeting was called to order by Arthur Lewis, who is employed in the Brisbin mine, and Howell G. Reese, of the Hyde Park mine, was secretary. In opening the meeting Mr. Lewis said he presumed it was unnecessary to state the object, but that there might be no understanding about the matter he would say that they had come together to hear the report prepared from the reports of the committees that had polled the men employed at the various mines as to what they thought about the advisability of organizing a union of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western mine workers in accordance with the terms of a motion passed at the last meeting.

He suggested that it would be well to form a permanent organization and by unanimous consent he was named as agked the woman her name. At first willing to believe that it was someleries. It showed that 2,643 were in favor of forming the Lackawanna union and 1,021 were against that pro-

There was discussion as to whether 2.643 represented a majority of the men employed in and about the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western mines hereabouts. One of the speakers said: 'More than 2,600 of us have said that we want such a union. I an't see that anything else is to be done but to proceed to organize in accordance with the wishes of these 2,600. If there are others who do not care to join us well and good. That is their privilege."

MOTION ADOPTED.

A motion was made to form the Lackawanna union and it was adopted with but one dissenting voice, a man who said he thought the matter ought to be more fully discussed before being voted upon. A following motion also adopted was that a committee of seven be appointed to draft a constitution and bylaws. This committee consists of William G. Howell, Thomas J. Morgan, Michael J. Gallagher, Vaughn Richard, William H. Parry, Thomas E. Davis and Michael J. Hogan. On this committee are representatives of the different sections covered by the

"In the soft coal regions," he said, "there has been nothing but coercion on one side or the other for years past. If you get something from a man by force you are apt to lose it soon or its equiva-

What is the course of wisdom? I leave it to yourselves to answer. We want to be able to go to our employers and talk to them like men and as men, and I am in favor of anything that helps to bring that condition of affairs about."

OTHER SPEAKERS.

Thomas C. Davis, of Taylor, made one of the calm, dispassionate speeche for which he is noted, in which he counselled the men to act with wisdom n all they do. They had made a good beginning and he trusted that each step to follow would be marked by like Joseph Seward, of North Seranton robust, vigorous tasker, who raid he has been a ming worker since he entered the breaker as a boy, commend-ed the idea of a Lackawanna union. He deplored the rumors of strikes now abroad, which, he said, are causing great uneasiness among merchants. 'We don't want a strike," the speaker declared, "and this union will be a protection against a strike and all the misery that would follow it. We have organized to give us an opportunity of trying to adjust certain grievances. for I think that we can do that better than men who come to us from the west.

At the conclusion of his remarks the meeting adjourned to reconvene at the call of the chairman.

Moses Taylor Hospital. Miss Elizabeth Steinback, of 347

Brook street, South Scranton, died at the Moses Taylor hospital yesterday morning, of burns received Monday, July 30, while she was building a fire. Miss Steinback was engaged in making a kitchen fire, when suddenly her clothes were in a blaze and before she and her mother could extinguish them, terrible burns were inflicted.

She was removed to the Moses Taylor hospital, and remained there in a dull, semi-conscious state, and her recovery was despaired of from the first. Her remains were yesterday restreet. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. Services in St. Mary's church, and interment in No. 5 cemetery.

IT IS NEARING THE MARK.

This Is the Time to Do Something for the V. M. C. A The Young Men's Christian association building fund is steadily climbing towards the $200,000 mark. Notwithstanding the heat and the absence of many business men from the city, additions are being made to the subscription lists daily. Since August 1 nearly $2,000 has been added to the total, which now reaches $197,637. This leaves but $2,363 to be secured in order to completely equip the building. Those who have promised to "do something" for the Young Men's Christian association building should announce the amount of their gift at once, that this deficit might be re-moved. Thus the conditions of the large subscriptions would be met, and the trustees could let the contract during the present month.
