The prisoners acted in a very disorderly manner and abused the of-ficers so roundly that they were each fined $3 ic; but he showed me a letter that was convincing. It came from a reliable correspondent in Germany, inclosed the fellow's photograph and gave his complete record. He was a Thomas Finnerty, who was discovered drunk and celcep in the Delaware, Lackawanna and secret agent of some note. Luckly he hadn't been taken into full confidence, so he had learned nothing worth telling, and while the others were debating what to do with him, he suddenly took the alarm and decamped between suns. Had he remained, he would undoubtedly have met with an accident, and I suppose would have been an accessory before the fact. That was one case that came under my personal observation. "The Russian secret police have al-On another occasion a Russian spy came here to locate a couple of Nihilists who had been journalists in St. Petersburg.
