MIGLIN HELD FOR COURT.

"Moonshiner" Was Given a Hearing Yesterday.

Martin Miglin, the alleged manufacturer of "moonshine" whiskey, was given a hearing yesterday morning before United States Commissioner George D. Taylor, and was held in $2,000 bail for his appearance at the United States court, in Williamsport, next month.

The three witnesses examined were Deputy United States Marshal Lovry, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue W. D. Evans and Special Revenue Agent Newhard, of Philadelphia, all of whom testified as to the finding of the still on Miglin's property.

Miglin was represented by Attorney Cornelius Coomeys, while Mr. Newhard represented the government. The bondsmen were John Miglin, Joseph Karolla and Martin Welshanski, all of whom were rigidly examined.

BAUER'S BAND AT LAKE LODORE.

Will Render a Concert Next Sunday, Aug. 19, at This Beautiful Resort.

Bauer's Band will render one of its choicest concerts in the great white pavilion in the grove at Lake Lodore, next Sunday, the 19th inst. The programme will be varied to suit all tastes, and its melodies will be delightful as it rings from under the sea along shaped sounding board among the trees. Good catering will be guaranteed next Sunday. View the winding shore line of the lake and its charming scenery from a row boat or naphtha launch and thus enjoy one of the genuine pleasures of life.

The Delaware & Hudson railroad will run trains, leaving Scranton at 9 and 11:33 a. m., and 2:52 p. m., at greatly reduced rates from all stations. Great throngs are at the lake every Sunday.

A Progressive School.

We have just received a copy of the catalogue of the State Normal School at Bloomsburg, Pa. This school is recognized as one of the best in the United States, and as proof of this fact, draws a patronage that extends from Maine to California. In fact, we are informed several students from Japan and Porto Rico, and probably from other foreign countries will be in attendance during the coming year. This indicates that the school has an international reputation. This high standing is the result of correct methods and thorough teaching by college and university trained specialists. This school maintains, by charter privilege, as a continuation of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute, an excellent preparatory collegiate department and a music department, which has been recognized as being equivalent to a good conservatory.

Those who expect to attend school this fall, even if they have chosen their place of attendance, can learn from the Bloomsburg catalogue much that will be of advantage to them wherever they may go; and if they have not made a choice, they will do well to remember that no school is so good as the best.

THAT DISBANDMENT STORY.

Eighth Regiment Has Received Assurance It Is Not So.

According to the Pottsville Chronicle, Colonel Hoffman has received assurance that it has not been decided that the Eighth regiment is the one to be disbanded.

The article, after referring to the story printed in The Tribune, goes on to say:

"Colonel Hoffman and Major Holmes immediately started inquiries to learn, if possible, the truth or falsity of the story. Communication was opened by Chairman John T. Shoener with the adjutant general's office and General Stewart himself answered the phone and declared positively that there is no truth whatever in the rumor.

"He says it is absurd to take the newspaper rumors as fact, and both he and the governor have repeated that they know nothing whatever of such a movement, and that nothing will be done without full consideration and a hearing of the friends of the Eighth."

"If the regiment has any friends in the county this is the time for them to show their friendship and to turn every stone to prevent this threatened outrage."

As will be noticed, the adjutant general does not give any assurance that the regiment will not be disbanded.

DR. SITTERLEY HAS THE FLOOR

City Veterinarian Tells About His Part in the Horse Deal—$25 Joke on Finn.

At least one of the six horses belonging to the city and recently sold under peculiar circumstances, will be returned to the city if desired. That is the horse purchased by Dr. Sitterley, the veterinary surgeon, for $60. The doctor said to a Tribune man yesterday he had been very glad to get his $60 back, as he now realizes that the horse wasn't worth that amount at all, so he says.

The veterinarian says that he is not prepared to make a statement just yet as to his connection with the deal, but states that when he does make one he will be able to satisfactorily clear himself of all charges, and also at the same time let out a few things which are mentioned in this article. He could have had the floor and the free use of my voice for about fifteen minutes on Thursday night," said he, "and I'd have told them a few things that they couldn't answer.

MORE TO FOLLOW.

"There's no man owns a hair of my whisker, and I want that understood. My connection with this 'deal,' as they call it, was a perfectly honorable one, as will be explained later on at the proper time. I bought the horse for $60, paid the money to Cobb, and am sore of my bargain now. I'd willingly give the horse back if I could get my money. The man who could take those six horses out and get $250 for them would have to be a pretty good dealer."

Of course, as is usual in such cases, Mr. Vaughan's motives are already beginning to be questioned. The stories include everything from an alleged motive of securing Dr. Sitterley's place for a friend, to an allegation that he started the investigation to get even with Wade Finn for the latter's refusal on several occasions to report on the reorganization ordinance drawn up by Mr. Vaughan and Mr. Chittenden, and for his (Finn's) all round opposition to the plan of reorganizing the fire department. Mr. Vaughan laughs these charges off, however, and says that he was prompted solely because he thinks it time for the city to get the best end of the bargain when a horse deal is on. "They can't accuse me of any such charges as those," said he yesterday.

POOR EXCUSE.

The fact that it has been always the custom in the past for the purchasing committee of the fire department to consist of the chairman of both fire committees and the chief, to sell the old horses in the department, is no argument, Mr. Vaughan contends, to offer to show why this should be continued indefinitely. He believes that every time a new horse or horses are purchased that the old horse should be sold at auction to the highest bidder by a person duly authorized by council.

It is now contended by some that not only the sale but also the purchase of the horses was illegal, as their purchase was ordered by resolution and not by ordinance. The resolution read "pending the passage of an ordinance," but no such ordinance has as yet been introduced, let alone passed.

The reason advanced by those who sold the horses for their turning the money over to Cobb, instead of to the city treasurer, is that it was done so that the city might be saved the payment of six per cent. interest on this $250.

A few who are trying to make a joke out of the case say it is whimsical on their side that Mr. Finn didn't know until Thursday night that Morris V. Morris sold himself a horse for $25 and charged Finn $50 for another, and there are those who say that diplomatic relations between the two councilmen from the Second are likely to be broken off as a result.

SIX MONTHS TRIP AROUND THE WORLD

MR. AND MRS. RICHMOND ARE HOME AGAIN.

During Their Absence They Visited the Orient, Great Britain, and the Holy Land—They Drank Coffee in the Caverns Beneath the Sphinx, and Posed for a Photograph in Front of Cheops, the Great Pyramid—A Most Delightful Trip.

It is not often that two people celebrate the year following their golden wedding anniversary by a trip nearly around the world. Usually when a golden wedding day, it is after body and mind are enfeebled by the weight of years and the strenuous duties of life, and when an easy chair and the fire-side of home must form all their little world.

Not so with Scranton's eminent townsman, Mr. William H. Richmond, and his gentle wife. In June of 1899 they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage by a feat, day, to which friends far and near hastened with congratulations. Later they took a journey, embracing all the points visited on the wedding tour of their youth.

In connection with this, Mr. Richmond yesterday said, laughingly: "When we were first married, my wife was willing to follow me anywhere, even to the top of Bunker Hill monument, up which she lightly sprang fifty-one years ago. Last summer, when we went over the same ground, she utterly refused to go up these stairs with me. Why the other day she wouldn't even climb the 225 steps at Waterloo!"

Mr. and Mrs. Richmond and their two daughters, Misses Emeline and Clara, returned to Scranton on Sunday at St. Peter's when the Pope was borne past, and they gained a pleasant memory of the kind, noble face and its extreme gentleness.

Mr. Richmond, with forethought, took an American flag of goodly size in his luggage. After the fortnight's separation from the camping party, he, with his wife, was at Damascus awaiting the return of their daughters. The campers came in sight they were more than surprised and delighted to be welcomed by their own flag, and could scarcely believe their eyes, as they saw the brave folds fluttering from the staff at the distance. A scene of wild enthusiasm ensued.

NO WINE DRINKING.

When Mr. Richmond went abroad, many fun-loving friends, who were familiar with his strict teetotal principles, assured him that he could not live six months in Europe without drinking wine. Mr. Richmond is now quietly declaring with some glee, that neither he nor his family found it necessary to avert from their custom of taking no alcoholic beverages, and that they were able to get ice water with several cold stoppings places. "Real better water than we find at home, now," remarked Mr. Richmond reflectively, as he eyed with suspicion a dark complexioned fluid in a glass at his side. Among the souvenirs which Mr. Richmond had brought home is one of rare beauty and magnificence. It is a massive flat-topped desk, of olive wood from the sacred mount at Jerusalem, embellished with rich hand-carving and the most exquisite inlaid work, executed in intricate mosaics. A quaint and curiously carved chair accompanies the desk, which, together with a tabouret, comprise a unique set of library furniture. The desk has a marvelous luxuriance of grain and is susceptible of the highest polish.

BREAKER BRIDGE'S THIRD VICTIM

RIGHTFUL PLUNGE OF YOUNG WOMAN THROUGH TRESTLE.

Mrs. Pearl Watson Falls Thirty Feet from the Richmond Breaker Bridge, Where Two Persons Met Death a Month Ago—She Sustained Internal and Other Injuries, and It Is Doubtful if She Will Recover. Trestle Is Used as a Short-Cut by Pedestrians.

Mrs. Pearl Watson, of Throop, received injuries, which, in all likelihood, will prove fatal, Thursday night, as the result of falling through the Richmond breaker bridge, at Dickson City.

The accident occurred at exactly the same spot where William Clemen and Mrs. Jane Edwards, of Pottsville, met their deaths a month ago. Mrs. Watson falling through the same gaping hole in the ties.

Complaint has been made that in one month after two deaths occurred at the bridge, that the fault in the planking have not been remedied, and a repetition of the calamity prevented. While it is private property, the trestle is nevertheless frequently used as a short-cut by pedestrians.

Mrs. Watson had her left arm fractured in two places, and her right arm in one. Dr. Kennedy, of Dickson City, who is attending her, fears that she has also sustained serious internal injuries.

FELL THIRTY FEET.

The accident occurred about 10 o'clock. Mrs. Watson and a friend, Mrs. Franklin, also of Throop, were walking homeward from Dickson and had crossed the bridge safely, when they met a friend, Martin Judge, of the Throop household. They turned and walked back towards Dickson with him. When the reached the fatal spot, Mrs. Watson slipped and fell through the hole, striking on the Delaware and Hudson tracks below. As she fell she shrieked. The tracks are about thirty feet below the bridge. When Judge and Mrs. Franklin reached their friend, they found her unconscious, and blood flowing freely from her head. Dr. Kennedy was hastily summoned and Mrs. Watson was taken to the home of her brother, Elias Thomas, of Throop. She is a young woman, about 23 years of age, and possessed of a strong constitution, which is now standing her in good stead. Dr. Kennedy declared yesterday that she was in a very precarious condition and last night it was difficult to say whether there was any chance for her recovery. At frequent intervals yesterday she vomited blood and seemed to be in terrible agony. The hole in the bridge where the accident occurred is about eighteen by thirty inches.
