THINKS IT IS THE EIGHTH.

Captain Weaver Discusses the Reorganization Question.

Captain Peter Lyle Weaver, military editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, generally regarded as the most expert military writer in the states, has this to say regarding the contemplated reorganization of the guard:

"There is still another matter in which an attempt to cause trouble in the Guard is being made, and that is the comments upon the announcement that the Eighth infantry would probably be disbanded, it being stated by the enemies of the Guard that this regiment was to be wiped out solely for political reasons. This is another of those mischievous lies which should not be allowed to go without contradiction. The facts are that more than a year ago when the Guard was being reorganized, it was determined that the organization should approximate that of the army.

"There were fifteen regiments of infantry, twelve of which were composed of eight companies each, and three regiments had ten companies each. In addition there was a separate battalion and an independent company of infantry. The army system calls for regiments of twelve companies each, and four regiments to the brigade. To accomplish this and make the brigades in this state equal in units, and, also, more even tactical units, it was necessary to disband three regimental organizations. Geographical conditions were first considered, and then the efficiency of the regiments was taken into account.

"It was outlined many months ago that two regiments should be disbanded in the Second brigade and one in the Third brigade, thus allowing but four regiments in each brigade. The Second brigade of infantry in the First brigade was assigned to an eight-company regiment and the independent company was disbanded. One regiment, the Fifteenth infantry, in the Second brigade, was disbanded and the companies assigned to other regiments.

"Another regiment in that brigade is to go, and rumor places the Fourteenth as the one. Of course, a hard fight will be made by the regiment and its friends in the western part of the state to retain it, but if the Guard is to be put upon the proper tactical basis then all wire-pulling will have no effect, and the Fourteenth or one other command will be dropped.

"In the Third brigade it was predicted in the Inquirer more than a year ago that either the Twelfth or the Eighth would be wiped out, and it now seems to have narrowed down to Colonel Hoffman's command. It is sheer nonsense to claim that the authorities are actuated by mean political motives. Their course in the past has always been for the good of the Guard, and what is now contemplated is directly along the line of the greatest good for the body at large."

HIGH WATER RATES.

Mr. Costello's New Ordinance Based on Mr. Melvin's.

The ordinance establishing water rates for the city, and which was introduced in select council on Thursday night in J. J. Costello's, of the Third ward district, and which from the ordinance introduced last year by T. C. Melvin and which never got beyond the branch in which it originated.

Mr. Costello's ordinance is, to be sure, based on Mr. Melvin's measure, inasmuch as all the peculiar classifications included in the latter are also included in the Costello measure, but the rates fixed are, in nearly all instances, very much higher than in Mr. Melvin's.

In the first place, the rate for a dwelling house with a single family is placed at $6 instead of at $3.75, as in the original ordinance. The $6 rate is the one now in existence. The rate for each additional family of more than two persons is fixed at $5 instead of $2.50, and for additional families of two persons only at $3, instead of $1.25.

The rate for a hotel bar, with or without water, is $12, which is an increase of $4 over the figures in the Melvin ordinance. For a drug store counter fountain the rate is $10, instead of $2.50, while for barber shops the rate is $5 for the first chair, $2 for each additional chair and $3 for each bathtub. The Melvin rates for these items were $1.50, $1.75 and $3, respectively.

The rate for each tub in a public bathing establishment is fixed at $8 instead of $5, while a uniform rate of $12 for photograph galleries is provided.

The Melvin ordinance fixed the rate of bottling establishments from $15 to $50, according to size, but Mr. Costello believes there should be but one figure, and that this should be $50.

The meter rates for water in large quantities are the same which Mr. Costello brought in when he succeeded in amending Mr. Melvin's ordinance. They are as follows:

For a daily average of between 10,000 and 20,000 gallons, 5 cents per thousand.

For a daily average of between 20,000 and 50,000 gallons, 6 cents per thousand.

For a daily average of over 50,000 gallons, 5 cents per thousand.

Mr. Costello is especially sanguine about the ordinance, and says it will pass, but there are some who believe that in attempting to get it through council he is, in the language of the street, "up against it for fair."

ALLEGED CRUEL TREATMENT.

John Reighart Accused of Brutally Beating His Child.

Alderman Kasson Saturday issued a warrant for the arrest of John Reighart, of North Ninth street, who is charged with brutally beating his 10-year-old daughter, Lulu, with a braided wire whip. He will be given a hearing today.

The warrant was issued by Mrs. Duggan, agent of the Associated Charities, who was notified by some of Reighart's neighbors that the child was being brutally treated.

Mrs. Duggan discovered that Reighart was a widower with one child, Lulu, whom he married his present wife, who was a widow with a young boy. He made an agreement with her, it is claimed, that the girl should be chastised by him alone, and the boy by her.

The little girl misbehaved herself last week, and Friday night the father punished the child. He beat her with a wire braided whip, it is alleged, in such a way that the child's back, arms and lower limbs are now covered with welts and bruises.

Saturday morning the girl was treated to a turpentine bath to ease her pain, and the additional smart caused by the burning liquid, caused such shrieks from the child that the neighbors visited the house and learned the story.

Reighart is employed by Drayman Brown.

HE'LL GET WHAT'S A 'COMIN' TO HIM

SO SAYS MR. VAUGHAN OF DR. SITTERLY.

Says He Can Have All He Wants if He Desires to Take the Horse Deal on His Shoulders—Claims $170 Instead of $100 Was Paid for a Team and $35 Instead of $25 for Another Horse, and Wants to Know Where This Extra $80 Has Gone To.

"Dr. Sitterly says there's no man owns a hair of his whiskers," said Select Councilman D. W. Vaughan last night. "Well, if he wants to take this thing on his shoulders, he'll find out that he'll lose a whole bunch of hair before he's through."

Mr. Vaughan was in a talkative mood and was discussing the fire department horse deal, the investigation of which he has started. He is determined to get the report of the investigating committee recommending the removal of Dr. Sitterly, adopted by select council, come what may.

It will be remembered that the motion to adjourn the council was lost last Thursday night by a tie vote. Mr. Vaughan immediately moved that the report be received and filed and before any one realized the effect of this motion it was carried. Had any one raised a point of order, the motion could have easily been ruled out, inasmuch as the first adverse vote disposed of it.

No one raised the point, however, and just as soon as Mr. Vaughan gets a safe majority, and he says he can easily get one, he is going to move that the report be adopted. He is also going to fight Frank Cobb's bill, on the floor of the council.

This bill passed the auditing committee safely enough, but there is a clause in the rules of councils which provides for the consideration by council of any bill or bill, providing any councilman file a protest with the city clerk.

PROTEST FILED.

Mr. Vaughan filed a protest to Cobb's bill and it will accordingly have to be passed upon by council. He contends that the price charged for the horses, $200 each, is altogether too high and intimates that he knows what the extra charge was for. He contends that the talk of the council being to pay six per cent, on the account is all both and claims that no provision for any rate of interest was made.

"They can claim all they want to," said Mr. Vaughan last night, "that I want to put a man in Sitterly's place, but any fool knows there's nothing in the mayor's talk, and I don't think he would be inclined to consult me if he made an appointment."

"We've had just about enough of Dr. Sitterly, however, and the sooner the city is rid of his services the better for the city. He has been allowing diseased and worthless horses to creep into the fire department ever since he has been in the city's employ. Go around to the different horse houses and find out what a fine, high priced man he is. He has the ability of the various permanent men here."

"I had a little personal experience myself not long ago. I bought a horse from an auctioneer for $125 and after I had him out one day, I found that he had heart disease so bad that a veterinarian whom I called in said he might die any moment in harness. I took the animal back and got another in exchange."

"A little while later I learned that ex-Chief Walker had purchased the animal a few weeks before I had for his own use and the city had paid $210 for it. The horse had been subjected to a trial and an alleged thorough examination by Dr. Sitterly before it was purchased and had been pronounced O. K. by him."

CHIEF RETURNED HORSE.

"The chief, after using the animal a few times said that he was worthless and returned him, as I did, later on."

"I've got more sensations to spring in case they need any more. I think I can prove that $125 was paid for the Frank team instead of the $100 turned in to Cobb. The name of the man who bought that team is Brokenshaw, and he lives on Deacon street. I heard about this part of the deal, and, in fact, got my first intimation that there was a deal at all in a very peculiar way."

"One of the prisoners working on the chain gang on one of the roads told me that while at work he had overheard Brokenshaw's brother tell another man that his brother had just got a line on a fine team of horses which he had purchased from the city for $170 and that he had lent him $170 to pay for them."

"That set me thinking and I have since discovered other facts that would tend to prove this. Not only this, but Wade Finn told me last Thursday night that he had seen Dave Nichols pay $5 for a horse, whereas Frank Cobb says the councilman only turned $25 into him as coming from Nichols. Where did that extra $10 go to?"

OLYPHANT WATER SUPPLY.

Rumor That Gas and Water Company Will Control It.

There is a report that the Olyphant Water company, which has been purchased by the Scranton Gas and Water company. During last summer's drought the Olyphant company had trouble in furnishing the borough with sufficient water, and it is said, that in case the Scranton company should control, water mains will be laid from the Providence supply reservoirs to Olyphant.

The Olyphant company stock is held for the most part by the estates of the late James Jordan and James Lynch, and by John T. Richards, of this city.

President Scranton, of the Gas and Water company, neither denies nor affirms the report and declares that at present he has nothing to say on the subject.

CLERKS MUST BE TRADES UNIONISTS

ULTIMATUM OF CENTRAL LABOR UNION.

That Body Yesterday Afternoon Decided to Direct All Union Men Under Its Jurisdiction to Refuse to Purchase Goods from a Clerk Who Is Not a Member of the Clerk's Union—Arrangements for the Labor Day Parade Are Being Pushed Rapidly Forward.

The demure young shop girls of this city need not be a bit surprised a few days hence when they approach prospective male customers and ask them if they can show them anything, to have the said customers say: "Yes, you can show me your working card, certifying that you're a member of the clerk's union."

Now, if the girl is a real good girl and if she wants to make a sale real bad she will go down in her pocket and produce such a card, showing that "Miss Sadie Cash is a duly qualified member of Clerk's union, No. 41, and is to be recognized as such."

If the young lady can't show such a card and if she isn't a member of the union her lot will be hard indeed, for according to the officers of the Central Labor union, the customer will turn on his heel and walk out.

A clerk's union has been organized in this city since last winter, but has not been very successful inasmuch as the membership is approaching zero. Some few months ago the Central Labor union took up the question of boycotting those firms not employing union clerks and after giving it careful consideration took definite action at yesterday afternoon's regular meeting.

THREE BOYS CAUGHT LOOTING A STORE

Street Car Men Discover Them in Florey & Brooks' Establishment and Capture Them.

An attempt was made to burglarize Florey & Brooks' Sporting Goods store on Washington avenue, by three young boys yesterday afternoon. Two of the boys, whose names on account of their families, will be withheld, were caught in the act by some of the men employed at the street car barn, and taken to the barn where they were given a thorough scare, and then released with the warning that if ever again they were found in the neighborhood in a like act, they would be given a severe drubbing.

The attempt to enter the store was made at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At the rear of the second floor one of the panes in the window was broken. The boys, placing a long board against the wall and while the largest of the trio remained on watch, one of the others climbed up the wall by the aid of the board, and then climbed up to the window, using the iron grating of the window on the ground floor as a ladder.

He reached the window, unlatched it by putting his hand through the pane, and then sprang into the room and down the steps, opening the rear door and letting in his companions.

The two boys were in the building when the street car men, who watched the entire proceedings, made their appearance. The tall boy, who was acting as lookout, saw them as they approached and took to his heels, without giving his more unfortunate companions any warning.

The car men then entered the store and brought one boy out. They played Nemesis with a vengeance however on the boy who had committed the act. After his companion was out of the building they made boy No. 1 lock the door behind them, and then making his egress from the building in the same comfortable way that he made his entrance.

They then took the boys to the car barn, and there put them through a course of humiliating actions, after which they released them.

The police were very much chagrined that the boys' captors took the law into their own hands, instead of taking the offenders to the police station and letting justice be meted out to them in court.

It was learned by the guardians of law and order that before the boys attempted to burglarize Florey & Brooks' establishment they were seen tampering with the windows of a livery stable in the neighborhood. They were seen by one of the men about the place however and frightened away before they could effect an entry.
