

WEST SCRANTON

MUSICAL FESTIVAL ON LABOR DAY

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF DEWI SANT LODGE OF IVORITES.

Will Be Held in Mears' Hall Monday Morning, Afternoon and Evening—Prizes Offered and Competitive Numbers—Surprise Parties on Hyde Park Avenue and Decker's Court—Several Funerals Today and Tomorrow—Other News Notes and Personal Paragraphs.

The principal attraction in West Scranton on Labor Day will be the estab- lished at Mears' hall under the aus- pices of the Dewi Sant Lodge of Ivorites. Three sessions will be held, morning, afternoon and evening, and at each the programme will be of suf- ficient interest to attract large as- semblages.

The chief choral competition will be on "Ye Haf," the most famous selec- tion ever written by the lamented Gwynn Gwent. This will be for a choir of not less than seventy-five in number. The prize will be $100 and a chair to the successful conductor. The second highest prize offered is $35 to the choir of one congregation for the best rendition of Gounod's "Praise Ye the Father."

The third highest competitive prize is $20 for juvenile choirs of not less than thirty in number nor over 16 years of age. A special prize of $50 has been offered for the best Welsh competition in memory of the late Benjamin Hughes. This effort is not to exceed 200 lines. The other com- petitive prizes range from $1 to $5, and are for solos, duets, quartets, recitations, essays, reading, etc.

Another feature of the estab- lished will be the competition for tenors on "Our Admiral" written by John Cou- ler Morris and set to music by John E. Lewis. The selection for alto, "He Was Despaired," from the Messiah, is one of the most beautiful composi- tions ever rendered in an estab- lished, and will undoubtedly prove one of the best numbers on the programme.

T. J. Davies "Out in the Deep," for soprano, is also a pleasing number and will be rendered by some of the best singers in the estab- lished. The humorous numbers, the solo for per- sons over 45 years of age, in which the singers select their own pitch, the impromptu readings and speeches and the impromptu reading of music at first sight, will also prove a source of much amusement and at the same time bring out some hidden genius. The musical adjudicator will be Professor Iorwerth T. Daniels, of Utica, N. Y., and Hon. H. M. Edwards will adjudicate the compositions. Rev. H. H. Harris, of Taylor, will decide the winners in the recitation contests and Mrs. Ivan James will furnish the prize bags. Mrs. D. B. Thomas, the tal- ented accompanist, will assist the singers. The general admission for the three sessions will be 75 cents.

GATHERED IN SOUTH SCRANTON

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC OF JUNGER MAENNERCHOR.

It Was Held at Central Park Garden and a Feature of It Was the Sing- ing of a Number of Prominent Mu- sical Organizations—Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. Has Returned. 'Possum Found in the Sauquoit Silk Mill—Progress of Work on the Sewer.

The Junger Maennerchor's picnic is a thing of the past; the Saengerfest still lives in the impressions of those who heard that wonderful blending of well-trained German voices.

The picnic was a big af- fair would be putting it extremely mild. To say that it was an immense affair would be coming nearer the mark. All day and especially toward the afternoon and evening large crowds entered Central Park Garden, where the picnic was held, and by 8 o'clock the park presented an animated and varying picture. There were the indispensable refreshment stands, the irrepressible "three shots for 5 cents" and every other kind of amusement. The seats were marked by the harmonious blending and the rich, mellow tones of the singers.

The following societies rendered their numbers exceedingly well: Wilkes-Barre Concordia, Scranton Saengerfeste, Liederkranz, Arbeiter Verein, St. Mary's Glee and Dramatic club, Harmony Quartet club and the switzer Maennerchor. There were over 500 people in attendance.

After the Saengerfest the young members of the different societies stamped to the dance floor with their sweethearts and sisters and danced until the early hours of the morning, the full Ringgold band furnishing the music.

'Possum in the Mill.

Yesterday morning as John T. Sullivan, a night watchman in the Sauquoit silk mill, was making his rounds and flashing his lantern here and there, he saw something white crouching in a corner of the carpenter shop.

He came up closer and stirred it with a stick and peered at it. No sooner had he stirred it when the animal showed fight and was making things exceedingly lively when Mich- ael arrived and John and Arthur, other watchmen, appeared on the scene.

"'Tis a cat that's chasin' him," said John.

But it was no cat, as they all saw, and it took those three men three hours of hard work to capture that white animal. It was a very fat possum and how it ever got in the mill is a mystery.

The animal will be donated to the park commissioners and will soon be one of the sights of the park zoo.

ing negroes from crawling under the tent, and they saw an opportunity to make a little money for themselves on the side. They were able to work out their scheme through the fact that they were favorably stationed for it. One was on the outside at the connection between the main tent and the menagerie, and the other on the in- side, within the connection.

"Among the vast crowd of negroes hanging about the show was a large number who had come to town expect- ing to get in for 10 or 25 cents. The outside canvassman gave out a quiet tip that if any one had any change in his pocket by giving it to the right person, he could get into the show at cut rates. They began to crowd around him, tendering varied amounts of money from 1 cent up to 45. He ac- cepted all tenders. He told them that he would have to put them in one at a time. He did.

"The inside man was waiting for them. Just as soon as a black head would appear under the canvas he would grab it, drag the rest of the per- son owing it inside and shove him out on the other side of the narrow connection. From here it was a long way around to the man who got the money. If one of the dupes found his way back, which was uncertain, and wanted his money returned, he was promptly shoved into the canvas again and just as promptly kicked out on the other side. It was a kind of an endless chain.

"Why didn't the two men let them stay in? Well, old Adam Forepaugh was about, and if he saw an unusual number of negroes in the tent he would at once have made the rounds to find where they were getting in. That was why. The show was about half over that night when an unearthly racket started at the connection. A minute or two passed and we saw two can- vassmen running for life around the hippodrome track with an angry crowd of negroes after them. The audience enjoyed it immensely. Thought it was part of the show. We knew different. A lot of us jumped in and headed the negroes off. That gave the canvass- men time to escape. After we learned the cause of it we regretted our inter- ference. We lost two promising can- vassmen at Lexington."

LIFE.

If some were sick, and some were sad,
What service could we render?
I think if we were always glad
We scarcely would be tender.

Did our beloved, never need
Our patient ministrations,
Earth would grow cold and miss indeed
Its sweet consolation.

If sorrow never claimed our heart,
And every wish were granted,
Patience would die and hope depart,
Life would be disenchanted.

DUNMORE DOINGS.

Robert Scott Seriously Injured by Falling from a Scaffold in the High School Building.

Robert Scott, the painter, sustained injuries yesterday morning which may result seriously and which will keep him confined to his home for some time. The accident happened about 10:30 o'clock, while Scott was engaged in painting the ceiling of the new room recently added to the High school building, on Apple street.

In some manner the scaffolding on which the painter was standing gave way and precipitated him to the floor below, where he fell heavily on a pile of scantlings. Those hearing his cries went immediately to his assistance and Dr. Arrival was summoned. Upon the arrival of the doctor it was suggested that he be removed to his home, but the injured man suffered so much pain when he attempted to move that at his request he was al- lowed to stay in the school building.

Later he was removed to his home, where he is resting as easily as medi- cal attention can make him. It is thought the injuries are of an internal nature.
