HOWELLS WAS HELD IN BAIL.

Scranton Man Given a Hearing at Wilkes-Barre.
The hearing in the case of W. H. Howells, of this city, charged with forgery, was held before Alderman Donohue, at Wilkes-Barre, Saturday morning. Howells is charged by Lydin E. Pinkham Medical company with imitating their goods and selling them under the false pretenses. Druggist W. D. White testified that Howells came to his place of business, and represented himself as a manufacturer of patent medicines, with an office in Scranton. He said he manufactured different kinds of patent medicines, and in going about the county would exchange with other drug firms for the Pinkham compound and the Peruna medicines. Mr. White purchased some goods from him, but his customers complained that they were not the genuine article. He therefore laid them aside and sold no more. Mr. White offered a bottle in evidence.
W. E. Campbell, proprietor of a drug store on West Market street, identified Howells as the man who went to his store and said he represented the Mary Williams Medical company, of Scranton. He told about the same story as White.
Mr. McKennon, an employe of the Pinkham company, showed the difference between the genuine and counterfeit medicine.
William Hershey, of Columbus, Ohio, an attorney, testified that Howells was from Columbus. He was partner with a man named Quackenbush. After he left that city his name was detected in the act of forging the circulars and wrappers of the Pinkham company. Plates and dies were also found in the house. The defense offered no evidence. Howells was held for jail under $500 bail. He was taken to jail in default of bail.

POLES DO HONOR TO COL. MILKOWSKI

Patriotic Celebration Given for Him Last Night in South Scranton, Followed by a Banquet.

The reception accorded Colonel Ziezenland and Milkowski, of Zurich, Switzerland, at the veterans' hall, on the evening of 1883, now on a tour through this country, in the Polish hall, Pittsboro avenue and Elm street, last evening, was a grand tribute to a grand old man, and it touched the old colonel deeply.
At 7 o'clock a large delegation representing the Polish societies of Northeastern Pennsylvania, headed by Lawrence band, escorted the colonel from the Hotel Terrace to the hall on Pittsboro avenue, which was beautifully decorated with American and Polish flags intermingled. As they reached the hall, the old warrior was greeted with a perfect storm of applause, which he acknowledged with a kindly nod and friendly wave of the hand. In the hall-way, on either side, were fifty little girls in white, and as the colonel entered the veterans' hall, the Polish national anthem, and presented him with bouquets. On a raised platform sat the speakers for the occasion, who were John Mondrach, Rev. Francis Hodur, John Kucki, S. A. Dangel, William Klareger and William Pazzkowski. The president, John Kucki, of Nanticoke, called the meeting to order, and welcomed their distinguished guest, to which Colonel Milkowski responded. He was greeted time and again with cheers as he spoke of the stirring times, in 1863, and encouraged the people to prove good citizens in the land of their adoption. The Brothers Reszke choir, of Nanticoke, rendered a selection, after which the Polish national anthem was sung with much enthusiasm. Rev. Hodur, John Mondrach and several others also followed with short addresses, after which there were songs and recitations.

LOQUACITY WRONG.

"But if you read farther on in Proverbs, you see 'But the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury.' Loquacity in this question is all wrong. Men should work, not talk. More than anyone else in stirring up all this trouble are those walking—I do not know why they might not just as well be called talking-men, who travel around agitating men's minds. This world has been built by work, not wind. No one wishes to muzzle men who want to discuss their rights. That has been tried in Russia and has led to the awful results we all know about. Here we let men 'blow it off,' but when they speak words that are violent, inflammatory and inciting to murder, then it should be considered a criminal performance."
"Now, regarding all these labor organizations, which will be in line tomorrow, they are all in line, proper, but I believe that being banded together as they are, all individualism is lost. Personally, I do not like to belong to secret organizations, and am a member of none. I think that they may do damage as well as good in this world, and I believe that their hands they have as evil effects as any despotism. I think that a man going into a secret organization is, to an extent, swallowed by it."
"It may be asked, 'What would you have for it?' I believe in faith in people, and have a great confidence in human justice."

IS AS GOD WANTS IT.

Dr. Giffin here read an extract from an article, the author of which advocated an equal division of property asserting that all men should be equal in that respect.
"This talk of equality," said Dr. Giffin, "is all nonsense. The world as God wants it is the world we ought to be contented with. All Americans are workmen. The rich man has to work harder to take care of his wealth than anyone on earth. Our original sin is not laziness; no; we are a people of activity, and we are moving the world, while moving ourselves. We have our small class of weary Wilkes, and, praise heaven, a still smaller class of titled heirs. But they are like the spots on the sun."
"I recognize the owners and proprietors as laborers, and to say concerning proprietorship that it consists in robbing and depriving others, is all wrong, and if a man is wealthy he has obtained it through his own endeavors."
The interests of proprietor and laborer blend. There should not be rivalry between them, but union.
"I have known many operators and owners, but I never knew any who are personifications of the selfish, mean and grasping qualities which the are pictured to be. The operators I know are men who are willing to listen to any sensible arguments and calmly reason. The tendency of the world is against men with money."

LABOR DAY SERMON BY REV. DR. GIFFIN

SPOKE OF RELATIONS OF CAPITAL AND LABOR.

Said He Was Startled and Saddened on His Return from His Vacation to Hear the Rumblings of a Prospective Social Storm—Today the Republic Unites in Honoring One Who Has a Right in the Hall of Fame—His Name Is Labor.
Rev. C. M. Giffin, D. D., of the Elm Park Methodist Episcopal church, preached an eloquent and most powerful sermon last night on "Labor Day." Spoke principally of the relations between Capital and Labor. He chose as his theme: "In all labor there is profit, but the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury."
"On my homecoming from my vacation," said Dr. Giffin, "I was startled and saddened to hear the rumblings of a prospective social storm. I always have a fear of anything of that sort. I am an apostle of peace and am interested in people living together in peace. I do not profess to stand here tonight and give advice, but I have often prayed that the great wisdom and intellect of this country might find some way of settling controversies between nations, and domestic troubles of this nature, without recourse to violent measures."
"In all labor there is profit." Of course, all men expect to have wages who toil. But what shall the wages be? There is the point that is forever in dispute.
"Any scale of wages which will stand the test of the Judgment Day, that will be a just scale."
LOQUACITY WRONG.
"But if you read farther on in Proverbs, you see 'But the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury.' Loquacity in this question is all wrong. Men should work, not talk. More than anyone else in stirring up all this trouble are those walking—I do not know why they might not just as well be called talking-men, who travel around agitating men's minds. This world has been built by work, not wind. No one wishes to muzzle men who want to discuss their rights. That has been tried in Russia and has led to the awful results we all know about. Here we let men 'blow it off,' but when they speak words that are violent, inflammatory and inciting to murder, then it should be considered a criminal performance."
"Now, regarding all these labor organizations, which will be in line tomorrow, they are all in line, proper, but I believe that being banded together as they are, all individualism is lost. Personally, I do not like to belong to secret organizations, and am a member of none. I think that they may do damage as well as good in this world, and I believe that their hands they have as evil effects as any despotism. I think that a man going into a secret organization is, to an extent, swallowed by it."
"It may be asked, 'What would you have for it?' I believe in faith in people, and have a great confidence in human justice."

Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine Made a New Woman of Mrs. Kuhn.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 64,927]
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I think it is my duty to write to you expressing my sincere gratitude for the wonderful relief I have experienced by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried different doctors, and used different kinds of medicine. I would feel better at times, then would be as bad as ever.
"For eight years I was a great sufferer. I had falling of the womb and was in such misery at my monthly periods I could not work but a little before I would have to lie down. Your medicine has made a new woman of me. I can now work all day and not get tired. I thank you for what you have done for me. I shall always praise your medicine to all suffering women."
—MRS. E. E. KUHN, GENMASO, OHIO.
"I have taken eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used two packages of your Sassafras Wash, also some of the Liver Pills, and I can say that your remedies will do all that you claim for them. Before taking your remedies I was very bad with womb trouble, was nervous, had no ambition, could not sleep, and my food seemed to do me no good. Now I am well, and your medicine has cured me. I will gladly recommend your medicine to every one wherever I go."
—MRS. M. L. SHEARS, GUY MARSH, MICH.
"First—Health. The homes of the laboring man now are huts, not huts and hovels. The people worst off in life are those who have nothing to do. Second—in labor there is the profit of health and sublime happiness to all who pursue it.
"In these days when a man's hand is soft it is considered almost a mark of dishonor. When the slaves were emancipated there were more than the black man set at liberty, for the owners let men 'blow it off,' but when they speak words that are violent, inflammatory and inciting to murder, then it should be considered a criminal performance."
"A modern author in a novel makes the statement that 'only in America is labor so theoretically admired and practically despised by the mob.' But it is only the American mob. The country admires and loves labor. Now let us do our utmost to put the laurel wreath on the brow of labor, not for the day only, but forever."

BELIEVES IN THE GOLDEN RULE

Address of Rev. M. L. Firor on the Strike Question.
Rev. M. L. Firor, in his sermon at the Calvary Reformed church yesterday morning, spoke about the strikes, which are at present threatening the mine operators of the valley, and spoke about "Genuine Christianity."
"But believe in the golden rule over life and deeds, and an application of the rule should be made in the existing state of affairs. The miners have stated their grievances, and until it is proved that they are overdrawn, they certainly are grievances. The operators should strive to put themselves in the miners' places, and look at the affair from their standpoint."
"These are no temporary grievances, but grow out of the conviction of the laborers that they are the cause of capital and they are getting their proper share."
"Unless Capital, which never should oppress labor, takes heed, there will be a storm, as terrible in its effects as the storm which drenched France with blood. This is shown in the prevalence of mob rule.
"If the miners strike, they should consider all the privations and troubles which their families must undergo, during its progress. And the operators should consider, also. Consider that the miners are part of the concern."
A conference should be held, at which both parties would give their own sides of the case, and then an amicable middle agreement reached."

RELIGIOUS NEWS NOTES.

The pulpit of Adams avenue chapel was filled yesterday morning by C. W. Kirkpatrick, and in the evening by Headmaster W. E. Plumley, of the School of the Lackawanna.

A NEW FROG PUT IN.

Improvement at the West Lackawanna Avenue Crossing.
A force of men was engaged yesterday morning to improve the crossing at West Lackawanna avenue railroad crossing. It was necessary to transfer passengers yesterday at the crossing on account of the changes being made. Cars will be running as usual today.
For some time the street railway tracks have been in bad shape, owing to the heavy traffic and constant wear and tear on them, but it is expected the difficulty of crossing the Lackawanna railroad tracks will be greatly lessened by the present change.
Heavy rails have been substituted for the lighter ones, and better connections have been made. The repairs will make passage over the rails much easier for the trolley cars and render the crossing less dangerous.

Face About!

There is no guess-work about the future condition of that man, who shall have determined on a course of SAVING—once a start is made. Two words tell the story—Save, and Have.
It is to have to have something substantial in an hour of real need; for such hours are often reached in every man's life. That man who never expects to see a day of want, is a man without ambition; and society has but little use for him. But the hopeful man—the striving man is certain to come out on top of all difficulty.
Never mind the past—face about! Quit being a spender and become a saver. There's no telling what the change of habits will do for you. And what'll show you how to begin—it's easy.

BRIEF MENTION OF MEN OF THE HOUR

REV. N. F. STAHL, FORMERLY CHAPLAIN OF THIRTEENTH.

Though No Longer a Resident of This City, He Continues a Scrantonian in Heart—Thomas E. Clarke, the New Superintendent of the D. L. and W. Company. Judge Howe is Going to Attend the Big Pow Wow of the Red Men. Desk Sergeant Bob Deiter.
Rev. N. F. Stahl, of Delaware City, Del., who has been spending a part of the summer in this city, where he served for many years as pastor of the Green Ridge Presbyterian church, is at heart a Scrantonian, no matter what city may claim him as a resident. The most vigorous years of his life were spent here, his closest friends are Scrantonians, and his acquaintanceship in this city and vicinity is as large probably as that of any man who ever made it his home.
As a pastor of a large and influential church, and a leader in many of the best of the good movements of the public nature, he came to be widely and prominently known, and then as chaplain of the Thirteenth regiment at the time when that post meant something more than an occasional ride in a parade, he extended his acquaintanceship into every family that had a member or friends with the soldiers—and that means a very large number of local families. All of the thousand or more boys who went out with the regiment came to be personal friends of the chaplain and to know him was to respect him. He made it a point to get into close touch with the men and his chief means of attaining this end was to do some kindness for them. In this way, the chaplain came to figure very extensively in the boys' letters to home, and thus he came to be known and dealt with as well as name in hundreds of households.
It is to be regretted that falling health compelled Mr. Stahl to relinquish his Scranton charge to Fred rest and then take up less exacting duties, but he has remained ever dutifully in the last few years, and may before long take up larger responsibilities. When he does, it is to be hoped he will find himself located in Scranton.
Thomas E. Clarke, the new general superintendent of the Lackawanna railroad, has been with the company less than three weeks and during that time he has witnessed several important changes in the working force of the road. The day he reached Scranton, Division Superintendent A. C. Salisbury resigned, and the new Division Trainmaster F. P. Hamilton resigned. Then followed the retirement of George E. Stoddard, chief clerk to Superintendent Salisbury.
Hamilton's place was filled by the appointment of E. M. Rine. Then followed the selection of D. O. Hahn to succeed Stoddard, and finally E. E. Vicker was selected to fill the vacancy as chief dispatcher, caused by Rine's promotion. Just at a time when Superintendent Clarke and his comparatively new force were beginning to know each other, and get the run of the division superintendent's office, E. G. Russell retired from the head of the various departments. The return of Mr. Salisbury will probably cause additional changes.
Thus far, Superintendent Clarke has proven himself a careful, painstaking and amiable official. He is easy to approach, full of business, gentlemanly in his deportment, truthful and popular with the employes of the company. Since he issued a personal invitation to the men to visit him at his office and become acquainted, a large number have complied with the request, and have gone away well pleased with their reception.
It is rather early to predict for Mr. Clarke a successful administration of the office of general superintendent of such an important railroad, but his past record can be taken as an evidence of his ability, then it is safe to say that he will prove the right man in the right place.
Alderman John T. Howe is a man of many characteristics, but if one starts to seek out every quality he would needs confine himself to a picking between the Grand Army and the Red Men. The judge is very enthusiastic about both these, and quite as enthusiastic about one as the other. Very few reunions, banquets or like gatherings of the old soldiers are held anywhere in this region without John T. Howe's attendance, and if the Red Men have any doings anywhere within reasonable distance, the alderman is a mighty uneasy man if he can't get there.
He expects to be very much in his glory next week for he is scheduled to attend the Great council of the Improved Order of Red Men, which opens one week from tomorrow in Milwaukee, Wis., to continue about a week. Pennsylvania has eight representatives in the great council, and Alderman Howe is one of them. It is one of the most important offices within the gift of the order and to be chosen to it is regarded as a signal honor.
The duties of a sergeant of the police are not of a kind conducive to sluggishness, and every which in most cases would tend to lead to avoirdupois and general freedom from care and anxiety. To most persons, the idea of the desk sergeant is a grim, forbidding-looking personage, much bedecked with brass buttons, with lines of care on his brow and mouth constantly puckered, while reflecting on the more villainous side of human nature.
To all such deluded individuals, a visit to the central police station and big, jovial, good-natured Sergeant Bob Deiter is a revelation indeed. Sergeant Deiter is a senior sergeant, and in addition to being one of the most reliable and shrewdest members of the force, is one of the biggest and most powerful. The arduous duties of desk sergeant are ably attended to by him, and in their execution he never fails to give satisfaction.
He is one of the most athletically inclined officers of the police in the city, and whether it be base ball or boxing, foot ball or cycling, is equally at home. While on his recent vacation he witnessed the big Fitzsimmons-Rubin fight, and since then has been more than ever an ardent follower of Lanky Bob.
Sergeant Deiter can play base ball himself, and in days of yore pitched games for the Policemen's nine, which caused "coppers" from Wilkes-Barre
