Came Here to Lay a Proposition Before the Convention of Car-

penters and Joiners.

The United Brotherhood of Carpeners and Joiners will continue holding their bi-ennial convention in this city throughout the week, and Thursday the last sessions will be held. Yesterday afternoon a large number of the delegates attended the miners' mass meeting at Throop and several othes visited Wilker-Barre and were shown around the Luzerne city by the ocal reception committee. Saturday afternoon the delegates marched in the miners' parade, and Saturday morning regular session was held from 8 o'clock to 12 o'clock. committee of two from the Amalgamated Wood Workers' union were present at the convention and Saturday night conferred with a special committee regarding certain difficulties which have arisen between the two associa-

In this instance there was a misuntaken into account when the men talk derstanding existing between the unions for the following reason; 1.1 one parts of the country the Wood Workers' scale of wages is not as high as that of the carpenters and joiners. In several cases the wood workers have been accused of doing carpenter work for this reason

A committee of which J. R. Miller, of St. Louis, a member of the executive board was chairman, was appointed by the chair to inquire into the matter and at Saturday night's conference between the representatives of the two unions everything was amicably settled.

The committee on amendments to the constitution completed the rendering of its report and suggested several by crocker, Scott and Tagnart. The minor changes in the brotherhood law. The convention referred the report back to the committee' for several small changes and will formally acept it today or tomorrow.

At today's session Scoretary-Treasurer P. J. Maguire, of Philadelphia, will present his annual report. The proposed change in the manner of electing delegates to the national convention will be discussed today, and it will be decided whether to continue the present mode of representation, or to hold state conventions annually, and these steet a certain number of delegates.
