

LACKAWANNA COUNTY.

CARBONDALE.

COMMON COUNCIL MEETING. The lower house was in session last evening and in just one hour it cleaned up all the business transacted by subject council Monday evening. Everything was concluded in except the ordinance making an addition to the first sewer district. That was referred to the proper committee. New resolutions were adopted as follows: That the city engineer put battle avenue in perfect condition. This answers the purpose of the resolution Mr. Mannion failed to get through the upper house Monday evening. That engineer notify water company to cut down water pipes which project about a foot above the surface on Carden avenue. That Ninth avenue be graded from Main to Park street. In explanation of this, its author, Mr. J. J. Nealon, said $500 had been appropriated for the work two or three years ago and only $146 had been expended. He thought as many ill-natures are anxious to seek out their taxes they should be given the opportunity. Mr. Smith, of the Fifth ward, called attention to the fact that appropriations not used during the fiscal year for which they are made revert to the general fund and as there is at present no appropriation for their taxes he thought they had better go slow. Mr. Nealon thought it could be safely left to the discretion of the city engineer, and the resolution was finally adopted.

DIED WHILE SEEKING HEALTH.

Mrs. Charles Hoffman, of Buffalo, who came here some weeks ago to visit her brother, Bernard Murphy, at White's station, died at the latter's home early yesterday morning. Mrs. Hoffman had been in ill-health for some years, and came to this place to recuperate. Deceased was well known to many of the older residents. She was born in Honesdale, fifty years ago. She was a consistent Catholic and a woman of exemplary character. She is survived by her husband and one son, James. The funeral will be held on Saturday morning, leaving the house at 9 o'clock. Services will be held in St. Rose cemetery.

OCTOGENARIAN DIES.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Yesterly died at the home of her son, George Davis, Mail carrier, of Seventh avenue and Spring street. Deceased was born in South Wales, eighty years ago. She was a widow. Her major portion of her life was spent in this city. Many fine traits characterized Mrs. Davis. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

J. B. Shannon was in Wilkes-Barre on business yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bigart are visiting relatives in Wayne county. Miss Annie Chilton is visiting her brother, Henry Chilton, in Chicago. Misses Sarah Burr and Lucy Westlake have returned to Rye seminary. D. W. Humphrey has gone to Michigan to visit relatives. Dr. Moore Crago will go to New York next week to practice dentistry. Miss Gertrude Gallagher, of Fallbrook street, went to Philadelphia yesterday. J. C. Hartwell, one of the proprietors of the News, is spending a few days in this city. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dow are spending the week in Honesdale. Saturday afternoon at Alumni park, the Commercial Institute foot ball eleven will meet the Jermyn team. Eighteen applications for membership were considered by the executive committee of the Young Men's union at their meeting last evening, and will be reported favorably at Friday evening's meeting of the union. All ladies who are interested in the work of the Florence mission are invited to attend the meeting to be held in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The work of installing the new machinery in the Carbondale gas works is now under way and cheaper gas in this city will soon be a reality. The roofing of the building has been completed and bright new ventilators surround the ridge, so that the building has quite an imposing appearance.

The great success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the treatment of bowel complaints has made it standard over the greater part of the civilized world. For sale by all druggists. Matthews Bros., wholesale and retail agents.

PECKVILLE.

A very pretty morning wedding took place Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McPeck, of Brook street, when their daughter, Miss Elizabeth E. was united in marriage to Ernest O. David, of Blakely. Promptly at 12 o'clock to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss David, a sister of the groom, the bride, leaning on the arm of her intended husband, and preceded by the ushers, Messrs. Joseph Fuge and Fred Berry, entered the parlor, followed by the officiating clergyman, Rev. A. D. David, a brother of the groom. Rev. David, assisted by Rev. Gendall, then united the couple, using the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of dove-colored silk and lace and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and maiden-hair fern. After sumptuous refreshments had been served, Mr. and Mrs. David left for New York city, where they will spend some time. Upon their return they will reside in Blakely. The presents received were many and valuable. Both Mr. and Mrs. David are popular young people and have the best wishes of their many friends. The following guests were present: Mrs. J. J. Berry, Fred Berry, Mrs. Mary McPeck and children, Mrs. E. H. Houch and children, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. White, Scranton; Rev. A. D. David, Miss Flora A. Sanford, Thompson; Dr. and Mrs. Graves, Jermyn; Leonard Kelly, Jr., Oliphant; Mr. Oliver David, Miss David, Miss Alice David, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Berry, Blakely; Mrs. J. T. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. William Page, Joseph Page, Mrs. C. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Page, Miss May Jenkins, Rev. Mr. Gendall, Peckville; Mrs. R. Hoel, Miss Amanda Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Irwin. Peckville board of trade held a meeting in Odd Fellows' hall Wednesday evening. There were about thirty-three members of the board. It is hoped that all citizens who wish for the welfare of the borough will attend these meetings of the board and lend their aid to a worthy organization. E. S. Peck, of Scranton, was a caller in town yesterday. D. H. Bassell, of North Main street, is not expected to live. Mr. Bassell is about 70 years old. Squire S. W. Arnold, president of the Peckville Rod and Gun club, accompanied by Secretary Miles H. Johnson and Bail Carrier Joseph R. Bell left yesterday for Elk Lake, Wayne county, where they will spend several days as followers of Isak Walton, fishing in the waters of Elk lake. Constable William Goyno, a member of the club, returned recently from a fishing trip on the Delaware river near Lordsville. The catch made by Mr. Goyno was enormous. The squire and his trusty companions are expected by the club members to return with a large catch when a fish supper will be served to the club members and their wives.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

An Unpleasant Experience of Two Little Jermyn Girls Yesterday—A Whelmin Painfully Injured—Other News of Interest. Bessie and Helen, the two young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Silas B. Hill, of Third street, had a thrilling experience yesterday afternoon and their escape from serious injury is a matter of which the children are very proud. The children were returning from the country and were driving a young horse. The animal is usually very quiet and safe to drive, but as it had not been exercised for two or three days, it was yesterday afternoon restless. Coming down the steep mountain side, the colt began to buck and the girls lost all control of him. Down the steep mountain side he sped unchecked, the two thoroughly frightened girls expecting at every moment to be thrown from the carriage. John Cain was coming up the mountain with a loaded wagon and, seeing the danger, pulled his wagon across the road, which had the effect of checking the runaway, and as the horse was about to pass him, Joseph Tenby, who was riding in the carriage, caught hold of the horse's head and quickly stopped him. Both girls were overcome with fright and they had not fully recovered last evening. Thomas Hochstadt, of this borough, who was returning from the country on his bicycle, was quite painfully injured in endeavoring to assist the girls. He observed their dilemma just after they lost control and endeavored to ride past the horse and head him off. In attempting this he was thrown over his wheel and struck Mrs. Hill's head. The child was cutting his nose and lip and knocking out two of three teeth. On his arrival home he was attended to temporarily by some of the members of the First Aid society and later by Dr. M. J. Shields, who had to employ several stitches in closing the gash in his lip. The news in last evening's papers concerning the probability of an early settlement of the strike caused general rejoicing among the people of the town and, while a few were inclined to hope for no good to be true, the general opinion was that the report was correct. Mrs. Walter Baker and family desire to express their heartfelt thanks to their kind friends for the assistance and tender expressions of sympathy shown them in their recent bereavement. Miss Minerva McLaughlin has recovered sufficiently from her recent illness to leave the hospital, of which she has been an inmate for several weeks, and on Wednesday was brought here to her home. Mr. and Mrs. James Harris and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Waters and family, of West Mayfield, returned home from Lake Chapman yesterday, where they have been camping. In a suit filed in court against the borough of Jermyn, which has been occupying the attention of court for the past three days and which necessitated a large number of our citizens having to go down as witnesses, judgment was yesterday rendered in favor of the borough. It is understood a rule for a new trial has been granted Mr. Stocker, who last evening said the case would certainly be tried again. Thomas M. Davis is in Clifford, where he has an option on a seventy-five acre farm which he expects to purchase before returning. Fred White, of Blakely, is a visitor here. Miss Bertha Russell, of Moosic, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hakeslee, of Main street.

OLYPHANT.

Miss Lizzie Deakin entertained a few of her young friends at her home on Delaware street, last evening. Games, music and other amusements were greatly enjoyed by those who composed the gathering. At a seasonable hour a dainty collation was served by the hostess. The guests consisted of Miss Lena Akery, Miss Kennedy, Barbara Patton, Rev. Mr. Akery, Bertha Walker, Joseph Parry, George Patton, Elmer Adair, Harry Walker, Arja Adair and Henry Deakin. Frank Jones, of Lackawanna street, has returned from a trip to West Virginia. A covenant meeting will be held in the Blakely Baptist church next Wednesday evening. Mrs. John Barrett and Mrs. Synnott, of Blakely, spent yesterday at Hartford Falls. W. L. Schlager, of Scranton, was a caller in town yesterday. Miss Dora Levy, who has been spend-

TAYLOR NEWS.

Yesterday's Mass Meeting—Poor Exhibition of Base Ball—Faggot Social—Personal News. The mass meeting in Everley's grove yesterday afternoon was attended by about 1,500 people, and was full of enthusiasm. President John D. Jones was chairman of the meeting and the speeches were by Secretary Dempsey and Rev. James Walker. The Reds, the home team, were again badly defeated yesterday afternoon on the home grounds. Gallagher, the Old Forge pitcher, was engaged to do the work in the box on the home team and proved an easy mark for the visitors. His support was certainly the worst ever seen on the home grounds. They could not hit the opposing pitcher, only at intervals, and it was the exception that the club had a three and two base hits to his credit. The work of the visitors was glib-edged. The score was Browns, 10; Reds, 5. The batteries were: Reds, Gallagher and Gendall; Browns, Gray and Quinn. Mrs. E. Nicholas, of West Scranton, visited relatives here yesterday. A tea and faggot social will be held at the Welsh Congregational church tomorrow. Supper will be served from 5.30 to 6 p. m. The proposed entertainment and ball of the Taylor Home company, No. 1, which was to be held on October 9, at Weber's rink, has been postponed for an indefinite period, owing to the present strike. The Taylor, Payne and Holden colonies of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company will be paid for the month of September tomorrow night. Night school in this borough will open on Monday evening. This affords an opportunity for the laboring people. Mrs. Earl Browning, of Bellevue, was the guest of relatives in this place yesterday. Invaluable Commandery, No. 253, Knights of Malta, will meet in regular session this evening. E. S. Reynolds, of the Lincoln Heights, called on friends here yesterday. Mrs. William M. Evans is visiting in Dover, N. Y. Mr. Taylor and granddaughter, Miss Florence Tidd, of Main street, are visiting relatives in Stroudsburg. Washington camp, No. 492, Patriotic Order Sons of America, will meet in their rooms this evening. Rev. Thomas Bateman, of Providence, will preach in the First Congregational church, of North Taylor, at 10.30 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Sunday next.

THEATRICAL.

ATTRACTIONS THIS WEEK. Lyceum. FRIDAY, SEPT. 28—"Prisoner of Zenda." Academy of Music. ALL WEEK—The Aubrey Stark Company. "The Greatest Thing in the World." Some actresses win admiration, others compel admiration. Mrs. Sarah Correll McMoyle is one of the exceptional individuals who draw both. She won and compelled admiration last night at the Lyceum as Mrs. Virginia Bryant in "The Greatest Thing in the World." It might be said here that the long and arduous title of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone of all dramas. Mrs. Bryant is a woman with two sons. The eldest is somewhat wild and given to drink and his mother is filled with grief and sorrow. The younger son, who is a man of dissipated habits, his father, who is the cheering gas. To strengthen and support him against temptation she shows the love of the play refers to love, the corner stone