You May Spend All the Money

You please on handsome furniture, costly paintings, stately and other magnificent ideas, but if you take away softening influences and charming graces of appropriate draperies, the effect of all your collection of costly beauty would be so diminished as to become wearisome to the eye and a positive bore to the refined or sensitive mind.

Beautiful Draperies Are Not Expensive

This week we are making a practical demonstration of this fact, and the practical home maker, housekeeper, or cozy room or corner furnisher may learn much in a few minutes spent in our Drapery Department these days that all the reading and home study of a month could not impart. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. E. Attempt to Burglarize. Three burglars made an unsuccessful attempt to gain entrance to the residence of Mrs. William Davis, of Brick avenue, Sunday morning. They were fortunately discovered by a Mr. Williams, who resides on the opposite side of the street. Having occasion to remain up quite late, his attention was diverted to three men in front of the Davis residence, who acted very suspiciously. They finally went into the yard, and after trying to force some of the windows, he resolved that their mission was bent on no good.

He acted immediately and aroused a number of the neighbors, who, with the assistance of a shot gun, succeeded in putting the would-be burglars to flight. One shot was fired at the fleeing men, but it did not do any damage. The men were undoubtedly in quest of tax money, as John Evans resides with Mrs. Davis and is collector of the state and county tax for the First ward.

The council was organized in 1897, and in three years has had quite a rapid gain, with a total membership in good standing at the present time of sixty-one members.

The exercises were held in Germania hall, which was filled with the members of the order, their families and friends. After the literary exercises were over, Prof. C. Carpenter, formerly of the New York Herald, gave stereopticon views and moving pictures, which were of a high order, and were very entertaining.

The programme was opened with a prayer by Rev. P. P. Doty, of the Cedar Avenue Methodist church, who invoking the blessing upon the order represented, and also prayed that peace might be established between employer and employes throughout the coal region. A quartet, composed of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hewitt, J. W. Burkhouser and Mrs. W. K. Clearwater, sang with fine effect, "Come Where the Lilies Bloom So Fair." They received an encore.

Recitations were rendered by Miss Cora Young and Miss Romyne Spruks. Past Chancellor John Wolf then gave a short address on "The Aims and Advantages of the Order," and also thanked the members and friends for their kind support.

It still had one good wing and two feet, which it used to good advantage in defending itself. After a struggle, he captured the bird, which measured four feet from tip to tip.

BIG GOLD STRIKE OUT IN DENVER

Rich Bed of Ore Found Under Tabor Opera House—Recalls Sad Story of Former Millionaire.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Denver, Oct. 1.—A gold mine under the Tabor Opera House and the post-office. What a travesty of fate!

Senator Tabor, the man who built the opera house and gave the government the land for the federal building, died in poverty, wrecked by mining speculations after having made a fortune in mines.

A man boring a water hole in the alley between the two buildings struck ore this morning.

The five-inch pipe that sinks down into the bowels of the earth has hitherto brought up nothing but sand and mud, but this noon, to the amazement of the well men, some pieces of ore, with big yellow lumps in it, were carried to the surface.

There was a flutter of excitement among the well-worers, and John M. Mitchell, an old miner, who is employed nearby, was summoned and shown a lot of ore. He critically inspected the rock and pronounced it the richest peacock gold.

"There is a paying body of ore right under this alley and these buildings," he exclaimed. "I would not have believed it, but there's no mistaking the real stuff. This rock ought to go $1,000 a ton."

"It seems passing strange that Horace W. Tabor, the first of the great miners in Colorado, who died after losing his wealth, should have built an opera house over a bigger mine than he ever owned," said one of the federal officials.

The well men think that if a shaft is sunk near the well they ought to have a small portion of the profits, as through their efforts the discovery was made. It is astonishing to find a gold mine in the heart of Denver, but nothing is impossible in a mineral way in Colorado.

Property owners in the neighborhood are intensely interested in the result of the assays, which will determine whether it is advisable to sink shafts in the neighborhood and actively mine the earth. Lawyers are being consulted regarding the mining rights of city property owners and the possible extent of claims within the corporate limits of the city.

All sorts of rumors are flying about the well, and has been in rock about eight feet. This is the second attempt to sink a well in the alley. The first time the drill broke at a depth of 500 feet and a new hole had to be started.

DULUTH HAS AN IRON MINE. Workmen Strike a Deposit of Fine Ore in That City.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Duluth, Oct. 1.—Workmen engaged in making alterations in the First National Bank building, at the most important business corner in Duluth, today struck a deposit of fine ore under the corner of the building. The ore assayed sixty-five per cent. metallic iron, and it is said to be as fine as anything ever found in this country.

The vein that was found by the workmen was not large, but it appeared to be an outcropping of a larger deposit, and it is impossible to tell where the bed of ore reaches. It may extend up and down along the most prominent business street in town. It is in such shape that it is impossible to tell much about it except at present without making excavations that the owners of the building do not desire to risk at present.

Considerable interest is taken in the find for the reason that this point is situated eight miles from the nearest known iron deposits of the Minnesota ranges, and the presence of ore here has never been suspected. If the deposit should prove to be extensive, it throws the subject of iron developments wide open, and mining men will not undertake to say how great the deposits of ore under this county may prove to be.

HAZING AT OLIVET COLLEGE. Conceited Freshman Held Under Town Pump and Soaked.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Olivet, Mich., Oct. 1.—A freshman was hazed here last night for the first time in years. The youngster had been making himself generally disagreeable, airing his vast knowledge and instructing the upper class men.

His fall came when a crowd captured him and took him to the pump near Parson's hall. He was then blindfolded and securely held over the pump, while willing hands worked the handle.

Not appreciating the momentous occasion, he sang during the early part of the ordeal, but when cold water ran out of his pants legs his song ceased.

BIG NEW RAILROAD IS NOW ASSURED

WILL BE A STRONG RIVAL TO THE UNION PACIFIC.

The Line Will Run from Salt Lake City to the Coast—Senator Clark of Montana, Chief Promoter—A Monopoly Will Be Broken and Vast Inland Riches Will Be Developed.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Chicago, Oct. 1.—Senator William A. Clark, the most trusted millionaire of Montana, improved "the shining hour" yesterday by consummating plans for the building of the Los Angeles and Salt Lake City railway. Senator Clark has been staying at the Annex since Thursday last, ostensibly to consult with the Democratic national committee, but he remained over yesterday purposely to meet and consult with certain Salt Lake City capitalists and Los Angeles personages, who arrived here Friday night. Another chief promoter is R. C. Kerens, of St. Louis, who, as Republican national committee man from Missouri, is just now a permanent fixture at the Annex.

Senator Clark yesterday admitted the truth of the story, but said that the consultation had not determined upon any finalities and that the facts were not yet in a state for publication.

The new Los Angeles and Salt Lake City railway absorbs the franchise and property of the Los Angeles Terminal company. This provides for the entrance of the new railway into the southern California metropolis. The Mormon church, which is the power behind the throne in Salt Lake, has practically promised a terminal site in the Utah capital, and Pioneer square, a tract of ten acres in the center of the city, will be turned over to the railway for its stations and freight depots.

Between the termini the whole unopened southern route, from the Sierra Nevada will be pierced through one of its southern passes and the supremacy of the Southern Pacific railway, hitherto unchallenged on the Pacific coast, will be effectively broken.

The death of Col. F. Huntington removed the last obstacle to the success of the Clark-Kerens syndicate.

Plan Vast Developments. The construction will require $25,000,000 in expenditure. But merely will the trend of commerce be changed in new directions thereby, but the syndicate has in its eye a vast commercial development. Southern Utah and eastern Nevada contain coal and the best iron ore, besides the precious metals. The region will name day be the Pennsylvania of the West. Said R. C. Kerens last night:

"We contemplate a second Illinois steel works there. We mean to make the iron and steel for the entire Pacific west. Surveys have revealed the richness of the country through which we shall pass in the useful sense, and we purpose to establish great smelters and metal works."

Senator Clark has great mine holdings in the regions and last winter he made a journey through Utah and Nevada especially to inspect them and to estimate their possibilities.

The region is also one capable of indefinite development agriculturally. The Mormons are largely interested in the proposed railway, and they are most highly skilled in the art of irrigation. It is their people whom most largely are expected to avail themselves of the agricultural expansion the railway will make possible, and what they have done for northern and eastern Utah they may be expected to do for the new region.

California, however, will be most immediately affected. The monopoly of the Southern Pacific will be at an end, at least for Los Angeles. That city, made the terminus of a great continental railway system, will more than ever be assured of an immense commercial future. Despite the fact that its port of San Francisco is but an open roadstead, Los Angeles will be bound to become the Pacific outlet for the southwest, since San Diego, fine as is its harbor, is too far south, just above the Mexican border. The federal government, too, is improving the artificial harbor at San Monica by great works.

STERNBERG'S OPINION. Admits That Drunkenness Has Diminished on Account of Canteen.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Washington, Oct. 1.—The following was made public today at the war department:

War Department. Surgeon General's Office, Washington, Oct. 1, 1900. To the adjutant general of the army.

Sir: My attention has been called to a published statement attributed to the army canteen. I presume this statement as published is practically what I said some years since when interviewed upon the subject, although I do not at present remember to whom it was given. I did not at first look with favor upon the proposition to sell beer to soldiers at army canteens. That opinion was not based upon personal observation, as I had not been situated at a military post since the canteen was established. Owing to the general consensus of opinion among line officers and medical officers of the army who have had ample opportunity to observe the effect of the army canteen upon the habits of our soldiers, I am obliged to admit that, from a practical point of view, it seems to have accomplished very desirable results in reducing the amount of drunkenness in the army and the disposition on the part of the soldiers to leave their stations for the purpose of obtaining spirituous liquor.

Very respectfully, George M. Sternberg, Surgeon General, United States army.
