The junior member of the firm, while comparatively new in the business, has shown himself to be well versed in life insurance affairs.—Insurance Press.

THE MAYOR WILL VETO.

He Refuses to Approve of Settling with Dyer and Saul.

Mayor Moir will refuse to sign the resolution, recently passed by both councils, directing the city solicitor to settle the claims of ex-Patrolmen Dyer and Saul against the city for salary claimed to be due them from the date of their removal by the mayor up to the time of the confirmation of such removal by select council.

The resolution provides that a settlement be made in the sum of $180 each. The mayor assigns two reasons for his refusal to sign the resolution. The first is that it provides for the settlement of two claims, whereas only one exists. He points out that Patrolman Saul was the only one who brought action against the city to recover the salary claimed to be due him.

The mayor also believes that as an appeal has been taken to the Supreme court from Judge Archbald's ruling in favor of Saul that no action should be taken by the city until such time as an opinion in the matter is handed down.

He will send in a communication tonight in vetoing the resolution.

GRASS HELD FOR COURT.

O'Brien and Levy Claim Prosecution Did Not Make Out Case.

Alexander Grass, a Penn avenue junk dealer, was last night arraigned before Alderman Millar on the charge of receiving stolen brass from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company and from the Scranton Railway company, and was held for court in each case.

No direct evidence was produced by the prosecution to show that the brass journals, cable wire, etc., found in Grass' possession were stolen from the companies, and on this point Attorneys Joseph O'Brien and Ralph Levy, who represented the defendant, asked that the case be dicharged. The prosecution was looked after by Attorney C. P. O'Malley.

The claim put forth by the defense is that Grass bought the brass from parties to whom the companies had sold it as being worn out and useless. Mr. Robinson, one of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western witnesses, on cross-examination by Attorney Levy admitted that it was possible that the journals and other Delaware, Lackawanna and Western brass had been sold, together with the larger part of the railroad engine to which they belonged.

Master Mechanic Mullen, of the Scranton Railway company, declared that the springs, trolley and bound wire found at Grass' place were identical in appearance with a quantity stolen from the barns on Linden street. He admitted, however, that the company had sold on various occasions worn-out fixings to Mr. Schriever, a junk dealer, from whom Grass purchases supplies.

COMPLAINTS MADE ABOUT CHICKENS

Board of Health Is at a Loss to Know What to Do in the Premises.
Report of Food Inspector.

The subject of chickens was discussed at last night's meeting of the board of health. Complaints about noisy barnyard fowl have been heard around city hall for a week past. One fussy old gentleman even invaded Mayor Moir's office to tell his honor about his neighbor's chickens.

Considering that there was a general agitation of the question, Health Officer Allen decided to report it in his own characteristic style and did so in this manner:

More complaints have been recently made than ever about chickens. It is said that the odor arising from the coops "is unbearable" and that the vocal efforts put forth during the night by these birds is described as "maddening" and "conducive to suicide."

I believe there is more truth than poetry in these statements but as the local board of health is like the Berks county justice who could find "no law against chickens." I don't know what we can do to prevent people from keeping them until there is some specific law. It is not much satisfaction to know that these offenders die young. If there can be a chicken and cow law that would regulate this business, a great many persons would be happier perhaps.

The board coincided with the doctor's ideas, but took no action on the matter.

In the other part of his report the doctor announced that there had been during the month forty-nine complaints and thirty-eight nuisances abated. Seventy-four rooms were disinfected. He said that there had been nineteen cases of typhoid fever, but that, as many had been contracted outside the city, it would be unfair to call the disease epidemic. The number of cases was small for this time in the year, anyway.

The food inspector reported having made 457 store and market inspections and 237 milk tests. The average per cent. of butter fat found was 4.20 and of total solids, 13.31. He destroyed fifty-eight quarts of milk and 500 muskmelons. The superintendent of the crematory reported having burned 4,860 barrels of garbage, twenty animals and thirty tons of coal.

Plumbing Inspector Monies reported having condemned two plumbing jobs because the regulations of the board had not been lived up to and reported a nuisance in the shape of an open sink at the corner of Ninth and Robinson streets. The last matter was reported to the city solicitor to compel the property owner to connect with the sewer.

Permission was granted John W. Kirby to erect a slaughter house on the South Scranton Flats between Delaware and Hudson tracks and the Lackawanna river.

The board decided to grant a request made by the authorities of the Home for the Friendless to have that institution fumigated. It was decided to inspect the water shed of the Spring Brook Water company next Saturday morning.

TROUBLE ON PENN AVENUE.

Angry Italian with a Knife Arrested by Patrolman McColligan.

About 1 o'clock this morning Patrolman McColligan noticed a commotion on Penn avenue and found a man making frantic efforts to board a Lackawanna avenue bound Carbondale car. Two Italians were close on the man's heels, and one of the duo held a villainous looking knife in his hand.

The conductor and passengers aided the man on board and Patrolman McColligan made for the two pursuers, who took to their heels. One of them was arrested by the bluecoat and taken to the central station.

The trio, pursuers and pursued, came from Raymond court.

RAIL MARKET IS ACTIVE.

Local Mills Secure a Large Order and Expect More.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company has divided a 25,000-ton contract for steel rails between the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company and the Pennsylvania company at Steelton. The Pennsylvania railroad expects to place orders for 150,000 tons this week and a good sized portion of it is quite certain to come here. The contract price for the Reading order is $26 a ton.

The opening up of the steel works can be looked for any day.

DAY OF ATONEMENT WAS WELL OBSERVED

ALL DAY SERVICES CONDUCTED IN SYNAGOGUES.

Jewish Residents of Scranton Spent Yesterday in Prayer and Fasting in Observance of "Yom Kippur" One of the Holiest Days in the Hebrew Calendar—Services Were Conducted in the Linden Street Synagogue by Solomon Foster of the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati.

The Day of Atonement was strictly observed throughout the city yesterday by the Jewish residents, and everywhere places of business kept by Hebrew proprietors were closed, and work of every nature suspended until the following day. All of the Scranton temples were thronged yesterday with the devout, who earnestly communed with their Creator from 10 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening, offering up prayer and pleading for forgiveness for past transgressions.

The holiday began practically at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, and during the twenty-four hours in which it was celebrated, a severe fast was undergone by the members of the Hebrew congregations, who endeavored in this way to partially show their penitence, and by undergoing this physical discomfort give visible evidence of the fact that it way a day of atonement.

The Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur, is one of the two most solemn and awe-inspiring festivals of the Jewish religion. It is a day given over entirely to a review of the actions of the past year, and of the forming of resolutions for a better and purer life. It is a day of penitence and self-denial, of repentance and self-abnegation. As the last of the ten holy days, of which Rosh Hashonah, or New Year, is the first, it brings to a close the ten most sacred periods in the Hebrew calendar and, with New Year, is the most generally observed of any of the holidays.

A CRUCIAL DAY.

No matter how lax the Jew becomes in the observance of his religion, when these two days arrive, they find him at the temple, prayer book in hand.

The contrast between the two days is a wonderful one. New Year, regarded as it is to be of equal importance with the Day of Atonement, is observed in an entirely different manner, it being one of the most festive periods in the year, a time, in fact, of mirth and merry-making, while the sombre Day of Atonement is celebrated in an entirely different manner, being more of the Biblical sack-cloth and ashes style.

Solomon Foster, of Philadelphia, the student at the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, who was in charge of Tuesday night's services and also of the New Year's ceremony, was in charge yesterday and conducted the difficult services in a most able manner. He delivered two sermons, one in the morning and one during the afternoon. In the course of his address, in the forenoon, he said:

The burden of the song of life is man's craving for happiness. It is the universal need of the human soul. However much human efforts may differ in kind, they meet together on the path that leads to happiness. "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." That hope, the yearning for better things, the search for happiness, rules the world. From the lowest to earth's noblest sons the attainment of happiness is the goal of every endeavor. According to his nature and environment man defines his idea of happiness. The hard-worked laborer, whose mind has become deadened by the sharp struggle for existence looks forward a year to extra day's rest from work; it is his happiness. The school boy hears with nervous excitement the sound of the bell announcing the close of school.

SEARCH FOR HAPPINESS.

The philanthropist finds happiness in yielding to the prompting of his nature to spread joy among others. A physician is happy when by his skill and service he can benefit his fellowmen. A minister gives his life to the work of helping and inspiring all who call on him. According to our needs each of us searches for happiness.

Bust whatever may be their professions or occupations, men cannot find that happiness in their work itself. Everything depends upon the motive, everything depends upon the unselfishness, his spirit in his work, whether he be happy or not. The nobler the work the unhappier the man if his spirit is not in it. In this sense can we understand how positions cannot honor great men, but that great men honor the positions they fill. A physician may be a criminal if his love be not in his duty, if he has no sympathy for his fellow-men. A minister degrades himself if his work be measured by selfish deeds. On the other hand, the most undesirable work of the humblest man may be ennobled if the worker feels his work be good for men. It is the spirit of the worker and not the work itself that helps men advance.

My friends, on this sacred day we are met together, the representatives of many professions, of many occupations in life, to appear before our Heavenly Father to beseech Him for his blessings to make up happy. We have looked into our hearts and realize our many faults and shortcomings. We confess to our God our sins and pray for His forgiveness because we have learned to know that the consciousness of guilt destroys the happiness for which each of us is craving.

The only sin that man can commit is a failure to perform the work which he knows is not wrong in a spirit which he knows is right. The physician's work, the merchant's work, the laborer's work are all important; all are noble when the worker's spirit be noble. The only unhappiness that man can feel when he trusts in God comes from a disregard of a noble spirit. * * *

Now, Oh God, we turn to Thee for an answer. In anguish of spirit, ashamed because of our sins against Thee, we thought to flee, like Jonah, from thy presence, turning elsewhere to escape Thee, oh God, Our Father, take us under the shadow of Thy wing. Console us, Oh God, for we are weak and sinful. Teach Thou us what shall be our penance in order to stand before Thee cleansed of our sins, purified of our transgression, that we may again be happy and at peace with Thee and our fellow-men.

HEAVENLY PARDON.

"As he is let man return and atone for himself. With all his sinfulness let him return with Me and be healed and comforted," saith the Lord. Now we find the balm and comfort that our souls need. With the eternal, long-suffering and abundant in mercy and truth, shall we be at peace at last. God hears the supplications of every man wearied and worn though he be by suffering and misery, when he calls upon the Lord in truth. God has promised us, as the Talmud says, that the just and righteous among men are not as acceptable with Him as the repentant sinner. He knows our weaknesses and shows us sympathy, God knows our temptations and pardons our sins, if we return with Him in truth. * * *

He concluded with the following fervent prayer:

Oh, Heavenly Father, we pray unto Thee, now from the depth of our souls, to ask Thee to create within each of us a new spirit, that each of may turn with Thee and become Thy loving and obedient children. We pray, Oh God, that Thou wilt teach us to become holy, as Thou art holy. Help us now in our work that whatever we may do, whatever we may speak, whatever think, shall be noble, shall be true, shall be clean and virtuous. Amen.

In the afternoon his sermon was somewhat along the same lines, and in conclusion he referred briefly to the fact that his visit to this city was in the nature of a home-coming, he having formerly lived here, and that he fully appreciated the general hospitality of the congregation.

He told of the pleasure it had afforded him of presiding in the same temple which he had attended in his boyhood days, and brought his address to a close with a graceful farewell.

BAPTISTS TO BUILD HANDSOME CHURCH

Trustees of the Penn Avenue Baptist Church Directed to Purchase the Reddington Lots on Jefferson Avenue.

Another beautiful church structure for Scranton is a probability of the near future.

At a meeting of the Penn Avenue Baptist church members, last night, it was decided, by an enthusiastic and unanimous vote, to purchase the Reddington lots, corner of Jefferson avenue and Mulberry street, for a site for the new church building, which for a long time they have had in contemplation.

How soon the new church will be built is not definitely known, but it is confidently hoped by the members that another six months will not pass before the plans will be under way. It is the intention that the new structure will be among the first in the city in size, beauty and convenience.

The site is 90x160 feet, facing Jefferson avenue, and costs $16,000. The trustees were directed to buy them before the fifteenth of the present month, the time when the option expires. Rev. R. F. Y. Pierce, D. D., the pastor, who presided at the meeting, expressed great gratification at the unanimity of the church body in favoring this site and its immediate purchase.

The present church property will be sold. It is a very valuable holding and it is expected will be readily disposed of at a figure that will go a good way towards helping build the new church.

STABBED HIS WIFE.

Jealous Indiana Husband Attempts Murder with a Butcher Knife.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press.

Bedford, Ind., Oct. 3.—In a fit of jealous rage Jesse Peters tried to murder his wife by cutting and stabbing her with a large butcher knife. She escaped from him before she was seriously injured and took refuge at a neighbor's.

The police were sent for and when the officers appeared Peters cut his own throat from ear to ear. It is thought he will recover, as he did not sever the jugular vein. He worked in the Hoosier quarry and was a peaceful citizen. No cause is known.

UNKNOWN ASSASSIN'S WORK.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press.

Mifflintown, Pa., Oct. 3.—While reclining on a chair beside an open window last night at his home at Oriental, Juniata county, Adam Goodling was shot through the mouth by an unknown assassin and instantly killed.

On Sunday Mr. Goodling was heard to remark that he had but two enemies in the world, one of whom he was terribly in fear.

COURT HOUSE NEWS NOTES.

E. J. Ehrgood, charged with assault and battery, entered bail in the sum of $500. C. M. Lancaster is his bondsman.

David J. Davis, charged with making threats, was admitted to bail in the sum of $200 yesterday. His own recognizance was taken.

An appeal was taken yesterday in the case of William Baylor against Loren G. Stephens. The case was tried the week before last before Judge Albright and a verdict returned in favor of Baylor. Stephens has taken an appeal.

Hugh and Ann Lally, through O'Brien and Martin, have brought suit against the Scranton Railway company for damages because of injuries sustained by Mrs. Lally through the company's alleged negligence.

Sarah Frey, through Attorney H. S. Alworth, presented a petition to Judge John P. Kelly yesterday asking for a writ of habeas corpus. She alleges that she is unlawfully confined in the county jail and that there is no evidence on which she can be held. Judge Kelly granted the writ and made it returnable Oct. 6 at 9 a. m.

Dr. J. F. Saltry, jail physician, yesterday called the attention of the court to the fact that Kate Kane, who is now in the county jail, is insane. She was committed on Sept. 28 by Justice of the Peace Krotzer, of Dunmore, for being drunk and disorderly. The court made an order that the woman be removed to the insane department of the Hillside Home.

W. J. Marvel, formerly of Wilkes-Barre, has taken charge of the Central Market, corner Penn avenue and Spruce street, formerly occupied by C. A. Bechtold. Mr. Marvel is now in New York making selections of fixtures and first-class stock. Friday morning he will open up with the nicest display of fresh fish, oysters, clams, poultry, game, fruit and vegetables that has even been exhibited in this city. **

DINNER AWARDED A SIX CENT VERDICT

HUGHES JURY ASKED TO BE DISCHARGED.

Judge Archbald Refused to Grant the Request and Subsequently a Verdict for $1,312.50 in Favor of Hughes Was Returned—Mrs. Evans Was Awarded Her Wedding Presents—Suit of George Cooper Against the City of Scranton Is Still on Trial.

When court opened yesterday morning, the case of H. Dinner against Mrs. Mary A. McAndrews was resumed and the testimony of James Devers, the witness who was in Wilkes-Barre Tuesday, was heard. During the afternoon the jury returned a verdict which failed to correspond with certain questions Judge Archbald required the jurors to answer, as to the manner in which they arrived at their verdict. He sent the jurors out again to prepare a verdict that would be consistent with their findings and they returned one in favor of the plaintiff for six cents.

In the case of Reese Hughes against the city of Carbondale, which was given to the jury at adjourning hour Tuesday, the jury yesterday at noon returned a verdict for $1,312.50 in favor of the plaintiff. During the morning the jurors asked to be dismissed from further consideration of the case, saying they could not agree. He sent them back and told them to try to reconcile their differences and subsequently they agreed. The jury stood eleven to one almost from the time it retired.

In the case of Mrs. Mary L. Evans against Otto Stander and others, an interpleader, no evidence was offered upon the part of the defendants and a verdict for the plaintiff was returned. Mrs. Evans was a member of the firm of Brink, Evans & Company, which failed. An execution was issued against Evans and his household goods were levied upon. Mrs. Evans claimed a number of articles as her property, saying they were wedding gifts. A sheriff's interpleader was the result, and yesterday a jury said the goods belonged to Mrs. Evans.

After that case went to the jury, the trial of the case of George Cooper, the West Side contractor, against the city of Scranton, was taken up. Cooper owns a block of ten houses on Eighth street, between Lackawanna avenue and Linden street. He alleges that the grading of Linden street threw the surface water on to his property and greatly damaged it so that its rental value is not near so great as it used to be.

Cooper had concluded his testimony when court adjourned. He is represented by Judge E. N. Willard and Attorney C. P. O'Malley, and the city by City Solicitor Vosburg.

In No. 2, before Judge Edwards, the entire day was taken up listening to evidence for the defense in the case of Charles Liebenstein against Jonas Long's Sons. The evidence was for the purpose of showing that Liebenstein did not properly perform the duties of the position of superintendent of the defendants' large store in this city. The case is being tried with great vigor on both sides.

D. and H. Passenger Sues.

A suit in trespass was begun in the United States circuit court by Mr. and Mrs. John Cheevers, of Olyphant, to recover $25,000 damages for injuries which Mrs. Cheevers is alleged to have sustained while alighting from a Delaware and Hudson train on the evening of January 19, of this year, on her return home from a journey to Carbondale.

She avers that sufficient time was not allowed her to alight, and as she was in the act of stepping from the bottom step to the station platform, the train suddenly started and threw her to the ground between the side of the cars and the edge of the platform. As a result of being dragged some distance in this confined space, she claims she suffered three broken ribs, an injured spine and other internal hurts, besides severe bruises to her head and shoulders. She has suffered intensely ever since and is still confined to her bed.

Joseph O'Brien and M. J. Martin are the plaintiffs' attorneys.

Effort to Revoke Licenses.

At the instance of the Men's union, rules were yesterday granted upon three hotelkeepers to compel them to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked. The rules are returnable to argument court. The hotelkeepers are:

Edward J. Jifkins, Penn avenue and Centre street, Scranton, charge, keeping a disorderly house, which is frequented by disreputable persons.

Jennie E. Brink, Sixth ward of Dunmore; charge, selling on Sunday.

Flora Johnson, Sixteenth ward, Scranton; charge, selling on Sunday.

A rule was granted on Joseph Moore, constable of the Twentieth ward, to show cause why he should not be removed from office for failing to report violations of the liquor law that occur in his ward.

Brennan Wants His Pay.

A suit to recover over $500 alleged unpaid salary, as instructor, has been commenced by Joseph E. Brennan, of Carbondale, against the Fell township school board.

Mr. Brennan resides in Carbondale, but is principal of the Vandling school. According to his allegations, he was engaged in September, 1897, for a period of three years, at a salary of $85 per month. For a time, Mr. Brennan declares, he received his salary with some regularity, but later payments were made to him somewhat on the instalment plan until there is now due him $566.33.
