VARDON WENT OVER THE GOLF COURSE

Was Getting Acquainted with the Links Preliminary to Today's Exhibition—Men He Will Meet.

What promises to be the most brilliant golf week in the history of the Scranton Country club will open today with the Vardon exhibition match. Not even the most devoted agriculturalists in this section have prayed for rain with more intensity than has the Scranton golfer for the past few days. Therefore, the little down-pour of yesterday has done a world of good to the Country club course, and has gladdened the hearts of the greens committee to a corresponding degree.

Last year we had a visitation of fog for the tournament, an immemorial damper for Scranton. This year there is a strike, while the prospect of links parched and dusty loomed gloomily before the local players. The rain has changed all that, and today will probably see the largest gathering following the match that has ever been apparent in this region.

The tournament preliminaries practically began yesterday, when Mr. Vardon went over the course in a foursome with C. S. Cox, of New York, against Clayton Dixon, of Philadelphia, and J. H. Brooks, of this city. The former won, four up. The match was played simply that Mr. Vardon might so round the links and become, to some degree, familiar with his work of today, which will be tremendous in the heavy handicap of playing two to one against four of the best golfers of the Scranton Country club. In the round robin, he made some drives which fairly took away the breath of the onlookers, so wonderful and so accurate were they. He plays a phenomenal long shot, having almost superhuman strength in his massive wrists and hands. Ordinarily enough, he laps the latter in the grip on his club and seems to gain some additional force by this method.

Mr. Vardon's victory last week in Chicago makes him, for the fourth time, champion of the world. Three times having won this distinction in England, and once in America, the greatest record held by any golfer. He is about 33 years old, and started life on a farm at Ganton, England, where he and his brothers had a golf course. From Ganton to world's champion is a big stride, but that is what this muscular young man has accomplished. Perhaps his chief aid to success has been a miraculously true eye, which never misleads him in a match. The house medal received at Chicago is an exhibition of Flory & Brooks. The morning match of eighteen holes will open at 10 o'clock, when Mr. Vardon will play the best ball of T. H. Watkins or A. Z. Huntington. In the afternoon at 2.30 he will play a similar match against J. H. Brooks and F. C. Fuller.

Not only the Country club members, but the public is invited, to witness the great exhibition match. A fee of $1 will be charged adults; 50 cents for those under 15. James Blair, Jr., is in charge of the admissions. Messrs. Huntington and A. H. Storrs constitute the press committee.

The entries for the open tournament are coming in rapidly, more than thirty-five are already numbered and the entries for the tournament and greens are numerous. Eight beautiful cups and two magnificent golf pipes are offered as prizes, and are in the window of Flory & Brooks. The first pair of contestants will start off the links at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Tonight the tournament committee and greens committee will pair the players. The committee consists of Messrs. J. H. Brooks, chairman; J. H. Torrey, James Blair, Jr., and A. H. Storrs. The best sixteen scores will be entitled to qualify for the Country Club, of Scranton, cup. The second sixteen scores to qualify for the consolation cup.

Table d'hôte dinner will be served every day at the club. The entertainment committee will serve tea this afternoon. Entries for the tournament will be received by the secretary, A. G. Hunt, until 6 p. m. Friday. Last night J. H. Brooks entertained at the Scranton club several men from out-of-town who have entered for the tournament. Among those were: Mr. Vardon, Messrs. Cox, Warren and Brokaw, of New York; Hubbard, Hare and Dixon, of Philadelphia.

Fall Display of millinery at S. C. Ward's, 116 Washington avenue, on Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Ward given her patrons the advantage of a month's stay in New York. Of course, this is foreign to the public, as the milliners of this town only make a stay of three days in the city. VERY BUSY DAY IN CRIMINAL COURT

TWO OF THE MEN'S UNION CASES WERE TRIED.

Pleas of Guilty Were Entered in Four Others and the Defendants Were Sentenced to Three Months Each. The Sensational Ames Case Is on Trial Before Judge Archbald in the Main Court Room—Judge Love Reprimanded Jurors in a Liqueur Case Who Ignored Evidence.

The October term of criminal court, which will prove perhaps the most important ever held in this county, opened yesterday with a rush. Judge R. W. Archbald is presiding in the main court room; Judge Cyrus Gordon, of Clearfield county, in the Superior court room, and Judge John G. Love, of Centre county, in No. 2.

The liquor cases in which Robert Wilson, the agent of the Men's union, is prosecutor, occupied considerable of the attention of the court. In the afternoon, a jury was being called for No. 2 to try the case of the commonwealth against Anthony Dunleavy, when a mild sort of a sensation was caused. There were not enough of jurors of the regular panel left to make up a jury, and the court, as is the usual custom, named a half dozen of the spectators in the main court room as talesmen.

Attorney Joseph O'Brien, who was defending Dunleavy, would have none of these. He charged that most of them are professional talesmen, who are noted for their verdicts for the commonwealth and he demanded that the sheriff draw the talesmen. This was agreed to and Sheriff C. E. Pryor drew a new set of talesmen.

DUNLEAVY ON TRIAL.

Dunleavy was then put on trial before Judge Love and Messrs. Keene, Reed and Dodge, agents for the Men's union, testified that on June 22 and 23 last they purchased for Dunleavy a grocery store, not a speakeasy, he said. The case was submitted to the jury without argument on the charge of the court, just before court adjourned. The prosecution was conducted by Colonel F. L. Hitchcock and Attorney E. E. Beers, counsel for the Men's union.

The first of the Men's union liquor cases to be put on trial was that wherein Mrs. Catherine Cannon, of 417 Chestnut street, was the defendant. The evidence that liquor was sold without a license, and this evidence is not challenged, nor is there anything offered by way of contradiction by the defense. It seems to me your duty is plain. You ought to have no difficulty to agree. You may retire again and I might say to you I will not discharge you in a case of this kind."

Pleas of guilty were entered in the following Men's union cases: Thomas Coyne, selling liquor without a license; Robert Wilson, prosecutor. Sentence, $500, costs, and three months in county jail.

James J. Gettings, West Scranton, selling liquor without a license, Robert Wilson, prosecutor. Sentence, $500, costs, and three months in county jail.

Michael Thornton, South Scranton, selling liquor without a license, Robert Wilson, prosecutor. Sentence, $500, costs, three months in county jail.

John Edwards, Luzerne street, selling liquor without a license, Robert Wilson, prosecutor. Sentence, $500, costs, and three months in county jail.

Thomas Norton, M. H. Linnen and Hugh Price, Carbondale men, charged with selling liquor without a license, by Constable Henry H. Pierce, did not appear and capias were issued for them.

THE AMES CASE.

Before Judge Archbald in the main court room the case of Dr. C. R. Knapp, of Forest City, charged with adultery by E. F. Ames, was put on trial just prior to the adjourning hour. The case is one that caused a profound sensation hereabouts several months ago.

Dr. Knapp was a prominent physician of Forest City several months ago and E. F. Ames was the banker of the village. It was noticed that the doctor was very attentive to the banker's wife and that sometimes they were away from home at the same time. On one of these occasions they were traced to this city and found occupying the same room at a hotel here.

The arrest of Mrs. Ames and the doctor followed and both were indicted. When the case was called yesterday it was proposed to try both at the same time, but Attorney John F. Scragg, who, with Attorney L. P. Wagonmaster represent the doctor, objected and was ruled by the court that they should be tried separately. Mrs. Ames then retired from the defendant's table. She is a slight, pale woman with a red face, distinctly out of keeping with quarter sessions court. She now lives at Wilkes-Barre. Her husband has retired from the banking business and now lives at Waymart. The district attorney will be assisted in the trial of the case by Attorney Joseph O'Brien and Attorney T. D. Shea, of Nanticoke. The work of taking testimony will begin this morning.

ory case was heard. The defendant is William H. Reighard, of Ninth street, and the prosecutor Mrs. W. B. Duggan, agent for the board of associated charities. The charge against Reighard is that on Aug. 17 he had his 10-year-old daughter, Lulu, remove her clothing until she was entirely nude, and he then whipped her with an instrument of torture made of strands of copper wire, which he welded with such vigor as to cut the child's flesh in a terrible manner.

Mrs. Reighard, the girl's stepmother, afterwards applied turpentine to the wounds as an ointment, which caused frightful suffering. The beating is not denied by the father, but in extenuation he says he was enraged over the conduct of his daughter with her brother. He had warned and chastized her several times, he said, for immoral acts, and on the night in question, when he returned home, he heard of acts by the child so revolting as to decide him to take heroic measure and in his rage he inflicted punishment upon the child.

The case was on trial when court adjourned. The audience that heard the sickening testimony was made up largely of women.

BAILS FORFEITED.

J. R. Roberts, the young man who is charged with having attempted to assault Alice M. Sweeney on the boulevard one night several months ago, did not appear for trial and his bail was forfeited and a capias issued for him.

Charles Miller was the first person put on trial before Judge R. W. Archbald. It is charged that on August 16 last he struck Steve Morkofski in the face with a beer glass, cutting him badly. Miller was convicted and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and spend thirty days in jail.

THE TAPPAN CASE.

Warren Tappan was next put on trial, charged by his wife, Elizabeth Tappan, with having assaulted her at their home in Carbondale, June 27 last. The Tappans have been married forty years and their union has been blessed by twelve children. One of them is Lizzie May Tappan, a gorgeously bejeweled young woman, who was on the stand yesterday as a witness for her mother.

Miss Tappan attained some distinction notably several years ago through the exhibition of a young man of Carbondale of what purported to be a photograph of her in the nude. It was claimed that the photograph was made by grafting the head of a photograph of Miss Tappan upon the body of a nude figure. Wallace McMullen, a prominent young man of Carbondale, was arrested on the charge of exhibiting this photograph and was convicted.

The troubles of the Tappans seem to have been caused by the attention of Tappan to a Mrs. Henry Gilbert. Mrs. Tappan said her husband, on the day in question, picked up a butcher's knife and threatened to cut her with it, and then laying that down, grabbed a ham bone and struck her several times with it and bruised her severely. Lizzie May Tappan corroborated her mother and said that her father frequently threatened to kill her mother, saying he was tired of her and wanted to get rid of her. Several letters were produced, which it was alleged Tappan wrote to Mrs. Gilbert.

MADE DENIAL.

When he went on the stand, he denied having written the letters in question and as to the assault, denied having used either the knife or ham bone against his wife. He admitted having struck her, but he apologized for this. The trouble between her, he said, was not due to Mrs. Gilbert, but to his wife's extravagance. She was constantly running him into debt. He denied very positively having purchased shoes for Mrs. Gilbert. The latter for several years was a tenant in one of Tappan's houses in Carbondale, and now resides in this city.

Mrs. Tappan was recalled to the stand in rebuttal, and told of the relations between her husband and Mrs. Gilbert. On one occasion, when Mrs. Gilbert lived in Carbondale, she found her husband in the former's bed room. Tappan jumped through a window and

EVERHART CASE MAY NOT BE TRIED

HE HAS BEEN RELEASED FROM THE COUNTY JAIL.

Bail Was Fixed at $800 Yesterday and This Was Furnished—Father Dislikes the Idea of Seeing His Son Go to Prison and Will Give Him an Opportunity to Make a Fresh Start—Common Bail Allowed in the Branch of Promise Case Begun by Miss Williams.

Edwin E. Everhart will in all probability never be tried on the charge of conspiring to kill his father, Dr. F. Everhart, who lives of Franklin avenue near Spruce street. Everhart was yesterday released on bail and will join the United States marines. Today he will leave the city for one of the marine mustering stations. He will probably be sent to the Philippines.

The case against Everhart was at the head of the list for yesterday in criminal court, and when it was called Attorney T. H. Burns, who represented young Everhart, asked for a continuance. He said Everhart was in jail since his arrest and had been without means to employ counsel or summon witnesses. He had only been called into the case recently and was not prepared to go on with the trial at this time. Judge R. W. Archbald allowed the motion for a continuance and later Everhart entered bail in the sum of $800 before Judge John P. Kelly and was released. M. P. Flynn became his bondsman.

Everhart has been in the county jail since June 22 last, when he was arrested on the charge of hiring John Lewis, of North Scranton, to kill his father. For weeks prior to that date Everhart had been drinking heavily, and had become estranged from his father over his connection with the Rinsland divorce case, in which he was named as the co-respondent.

HE WAS DESPERATE.

He had reached his last dollar, he saw no means of replenishing his pocketbook, and in this dilemma he hired Lewis to kill his father, Dr. Everhart, and he became estranged from his father over his connection with the Rinsland divorce case, in which he was named as the co-respondent.

Everhart gave Lewis minute instructions as to the manner in which he would be best enabled to get into the Everhart residence to commit the murder, and as a reward gave him a note for $5,000.

Lewis was not prepared to engage in such a desperate enterprise and informed the authorities with the result that Everhart was arrested. The accused presented a neat, well-groomed appearance when brought to court yesterday morning with a batch of other prisoners by Warden Simpson, of the county jail. His term in prison had wrought a great improvement in his personal appearance.

Dr. Everhart was in the court room earlier in the day, but left before his son came in with the string of prisoners. It is the father who has made it possible for the son to again breathe the air of freedom. Greatly as he was hurt and humiliated by the youth he could not steel himself to the point of sending his own flesh and blood to prison.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT.

Before the criminal case was considered the court heard arguments on the question of admitting Everhart to common bail in the breach of promise case, begun by Miss May Williams, the divorced wife of City Assessor Phil. Rinsland, who alleges that Everhart in New York promised to marry her.

Attorney M. J. Martin appeared on behalf of Everhart and Attorney A. V. Vosburg for Miss Williams. Attorney Martin alleged that the action could not stand for the reason that under the act of 1815 a person divorced for adultery cannot marry again during the life time of the person from whom she was divorced. Miss Williams having been divorced on that ground could not enter into a compact to marry anyone.

It was also alleged that the papers were defective inasmuch as they spoke of the plaintiff as May Williams in one place and May Rinsland in another. On this ground, Judge Archbald declared the papers defective and granted the motion for common bail or in other words released Everhart on his own recognizance.

The following address to the citizens of Scranton has been issued by the executive committee of the Men's union: To Honorable Citizens, One and All: The courts are now dealing with special cases which vitally affect the honor of our city and the well being of every one of its citizens.

In bringing certain law breakers to the bar of justice, the Men's union has assisted the municipal league in its noble and disinterested work. Its executive committee now bespeaks your aid. The court room is likely to be thronged with the guilty and the innocent alike. The influence of such a counsel, witness and juror is not for righteousness. The best citizenship should be represented there. Citizens of sterling worth who have bewailed the degraded condition of our city, and who have applauded the initiation of efforts to enforce the laws, should indicate their present interest by being in the court room whenever they can, as these trials go on.

To good men, good laws and their enforcement are a part of their business. Let us support the laws and those who justly administer the same. Today and thereafter these cases are being heard. Signed by the executive committee of the Men's Union of Green Ridge.
