OBITUARY.

Mrs. Catherine Jordan, widow of the late Thomas J. Jordan, of Dunmore, died yesterday morning at the family home on Chestnut Street, at the age of 82 years. She was survived by two children, James and Louise. The dead woman was the mother of the late Thomas Jordan, who was a long time clerk at the Globe Warehouse. The funeral will take place Friday morning. Mass will be celebrated in St. Mary's church at 9:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the old Catholic cemetery.

Less than three years ago Dodd and Mr. O'Neill determined to delve deeper into the mystery, and accordingly, started a shaft eight feet square and dug down seventeen feet deeper than the original excavation. A portion of this work was done during the winter months and no inconvenience was experienced in any way whatever. During July and August two years ago the work was continued, and by the time the shaft reached thirty-four feet in all from the top of it became so cold that it was impossible to remain in the cave for any length of time, and the further progress of work had to be suspended.

During the hottest days in August last year the shaft was dug out to a depth of thirty-four feet, and on the sides it clings in bunches like huge stalactites in the ordinary cave. But perhaps the strangest part of the phenomenon is that it is only during the summer that cold prevails in this mine or that ice forms. This period extends from May to October each year, while during the remaining six months not a particle of ice can be found about the place. Repeated tests have been made, and it has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the most skeptical that such articles as potatoes and other vegetables, as well as live snakes, placed in the cavity on the evening of a very hot day, and left there during the night were taken out the next morning frozen. Other tests have been made with vegetables during the coldest winter weather. They were kept in the place for weeks at a time, and when taken out were as well preserved as though they had been stored in the warmest cellar, thus proving that the place is moderately warm during the coldest weather and excessively cold during the hottest periods.

During the hottest summer day, when the visitor steps through the outside door, the cold current of air coming from the mine turns his breath into a dense mist. At the northeast corner of the bottom of the mine was found a hole about six inches square, from whence issues by far the larger portion of the cold air current. It is impossible to hold a lighted match or other flame near this opening.

The general impression prevails among scientists who have carefully examined the place and its surroundings that a large cave or cavern exists underneath this ice mine. Residents of the neighborhood assert with positiveness that on frequent occasions during their recollection during the winter months they heard what at first sounded like the rumblings of distant thunder, accompanied by a mighty roar of wind. Although this occurred frequently many years before this ice mine was discovered, it was always considered by the inhabitants as a "winter thunder," but now they feel satisfied that the rumbling and roar of wind was from within the earth. In fact, they declare of often having been able to feel the ground on which they stood tremble to a perceptible degree.

A committee of professors has recently been appointed by the faculty to take charge of the system of debate for the upper classes. This committee is a permanent organization and will consist of the following members: Professor of rhetoric, professor of history, professor of economics, and instructor in elocution. The committee have arranged for three public debates by the senior class, the last of which is an honor debate, to which the preceding debates are to be preliminaries. For the juniors there are also three public debates, the last of which is to correspond with the junior class. This move of the faculty is received with great interest by all those who follow it, and it is indeed an important step as these debates in the future will form part of the regular college.

Last Wednesday the senior class held the first of these debates, the topic being "The organization of the United States." The following men were appointed to represent the class on the staff of the "Orange and Blue," the college weekly: Frank Anderson and Raymond Greene. The excellent winning of the "Orange and Blue" team has aroused great interest among the undergraduates. Never in its history has Bucknell had better prospects for a strong winning team. The work of the team at Cornell, last Saturday, fully justified the enthusiasm of the students, for the Cornell coaches unite with those of Bucknell in declaring the game close and well fought, and as well placed as the result of the game, defeating Bucknell by a margin of 6-0. The next important game is against Lehigh, at Lehigh field, on October 12. Bucknell defeated Lehigh last year, and an exceedingly hard fought game is expected. A large number of Bucknell men will accompany the team to Bethlehem on a special train which is to be run over the Reading railroad.

The freshman class have organized and elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Charles Shepard; vice president, Ira Shepard; secretary, Miss Williams; treasurer, Miss Fowler. The other officers are to be elected at a later meeting.

Franco Loomis, Ph. D., who holds the chair of natural history at Bucknell, sailed on the steamer La Lorraine for Paris September 29. Dr. Loomis intends to spend the entire winter abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Bunick, of Scranton, Pa., spent several days in Lowell last week at the home of Mrs. Wallis. Mr. Bunick was recently welcomed by his many friends in Lowell, where he is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

The following new men have entered the senior class: Charles Pearce, ex-100; John Van Buren, Charles Hanley, George Catterall, Otto Beckley, Percy M. Ballard and Harry H. Bogart. The foundation for the new central heating and lighting plant of the university is rapidly being completed. The building is to be 100x100 feet in dimensions and thoroughly equipped with the most modern appliances.

PERUNA HAS BECOME A HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY.

There is no other thing that the household needs worse than a good family medicine. There are a thousand and one little ailments that are sure to spring up which can be promptly relieved by such a medicine.

MRS. JULIA C. BROWN.

A family may have a good physician near at hand, in whom they have great confidence, yet a household remedy cannot be spared. A slight hoarseness, hacking cough, cold in the head, or catarrhal indigestion, for which no one would think of calling a family physician, may be promptly met and mitigated by a family medicine. Peruna has found its way into thousands of households. We are receiving letters from a multitude of intelligent women, North, South, East and West, who feel that they could not keep house without Peruna. Following is a sample of this kind of letters:

Mrs. Julia C. Brown, Secretary General Henry W. Lawton Circle, No. 27, Ladies of the G. A. R., of Peconica, Ill., writes:

The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"I have used Peruna in my home for the past four years and am thoroughly convinced that it is a reliable family remedy. If any member of the family feels badly, catch cold or suffer any physical ailment, Peruna brings us back to health in a few days. I find it splendid in cases of indigestion; or any irregularities of the stomach." Very truly,

MRS. JULIA C. BROWN.

MITCHELL DECLARES HIMSELF

operators just before the strike opened, regarding the strength of the United Mine Workers and how those claims are not heard of nowadays. "Let us go into the convention with a brotherly feeling," said he, "and do nothing that would tend to disrupt the union. Don't go back to work until we go back as we came out in District No. 1—as one man."

Fahey's Words of Praise.

District President Fahey spoke in the highest terms of praise of the way the men of the region obeyed the strike call. "Young Johnny Mitchell," he said, at one point in his address, "he was weaving for himself a crown greater than any king ever wore. We will place it on his brow as labor's greatest emancipator." Thunderous cheers followed this.

"If the anthracite men do not win this fight," he said in another place in his speech, "they will be slaves. Fight it now and win it." (Cheers.)

He grew very satirical in his reference to those who say to the miner, "We sympathize with you, but you won't get a gun, don't go on strike. Half a loaf, they say is better than no bread. A man who is satisfied with half enough to eat, half enough to wear and half-care for his wife and children is not fit to be an American citizen or a member of the United Mine Workers." If you do not stand out against his children being compelled to work till the blood comes out of their fingers, he ought to do his country the good office of going out in the woods and butting his brains out against a tree.

At the conclusion of this demonstration President Mitchell expressed himself as particularly gratified at the way the people of Scranton turned out to see the parade and the generous manner in which the business houses were decorated.
