WEST SCRANTON

SONG SERVICE AND SERMON

IN JACKSON STREET BAPTIST CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Dr. de Gruchy Spoke of the Mission and Magnitude of the Baptist Church in America-God Needs Effective Men and Women in the Church-Ordination of Rev. E. A. Boyl as Pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church-Notes and Personals.

The auditorium of the Jackson Street Baptist church was crowded last evening with an audience that taxed the large seating capacity of the church. The services were the first of a series of popular meetings, which will be conducted by the pastor durwinter months, and proved to be highly interesting in every respect.

The choir, under the direction of Prof. Lewis Davis, sang anthems and materially assisted in the service. The half hour song service was one of the most attractive features of the evening, the rendition of "Sweet Rest at to the tune of "Suwanes River," being particularly helpful. Dr. de Gruchy took occasion to remarks of the mission of his church, in view of the reopening, after its renovation, and said:

"Our mission becomes distinctive nomination and therefore represent distinctive principles. We are sons and daughters of Bible-loving scions, men who loved the truth, we are descendants of the nobility of the past." In bringing before his congregation the magnitude of the Baptist denomination, he said the church has 3,820,000 members in the United States, and there are no babies either. There is 45,000 churches and 30,000 ordained ministers, seven theological seminaries, twenty-seven educational institutions for women, fifty-seven academies, thirty-six universities and col-loges and 130 newspapers.

"Our mission," he said, "is that we stand so that every man on earth can worshsip God according to the dictates of his own conscience. Our hope in the future lies in influencing loyalty to the truth. Our mission is the mission of Jesus Christ to men and women of the West Side."

In closing, he added: "Be loyal to the word of God, be loyal to the principles of the past, for the victory of the principle and truth Gods needs effective men and women, and may in the exercises. The pastors expected are Rev. E. J. Morris, of Wilkes-Barre; Rev. Ivor Evans, of Nanticoke; Rev. R. J. Reese, of North Scranton; Rev. Jenkins, of Rendham; Rev. Stacey, of Lansford; Rev. Mathews, of Plymouth; Rev. Elliott, of Carbondale; Rev. A. W. Dowding, of Edwardsdale, and Rev. Luke, of Carbondale. Rev. Boyl accepted a call to the Plymouth church on July 1, 1899, and came iere from Clare, Mich. He has completed a three years' theological course in Oberlin college and is a graduate of western school of oratory. During his short residence in West Scranton he has endeared himself to his congregation, and his ordination is looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure.

The Right Thing Has Been Found-A Scranton Citizen Shows the Way.

Once more we are indebted to a Scranton citizen for a public statement that throws more light on a subject of ever-increasing interest. People have been deceived by false misrepresentations from time immemorial. No wonder they are skeptical of all claims endorsed by strangers, residing in far-distant parts of the Union. It is no longer necessary to accept such endorsements, for local citizens are giving their testimony, and 'tis an easy natter for any reader to investigate the correspondence.

Mrs. Margaret Moses, of 1602 Washburn street, Hyde Park says: 2For a number of years off and on I had at-tacks of dull pain and weakness in the small of my back, stooping or the least exertion increased it, and at imes I was unable to work and had to have the services of a doctor. REVOLT OF CRIMINAL INSANE PATIENTS

Six or Eight Keepers Overpowered and Twenty Inmates of Mattewan Escape.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 21.-There was a revolt at the Mattewan State hospital for the criminal insane at 6.30 o'clock tonight, when six or eight keepers were assaulted and overpowered by about twenty insane patients. Some of the patients escaped and seven are still at large. One or two of the keepers are badly bruised as a result of the assault. After the patients had been given their usual Sunday night supper they were taken back to their apartments in company with the keepers. Among the number were fifteen or twenty who slept in one of the large corridors, this being necessary on account of the cramped condition at the institution. In this hall with the patients were six or eight keepers, who sat on their chairs watching the inmates as they walked up and down the hall in a restless manner. There were no suspicious movements on the part of the patients to indicate that they had been planning a revolt of any kind. They looked as they always did, first at one keeper and then at another, but the keepers did not think that there was any trouble in the minds of their twenty prisoners. Suddenly, and without warning, each keeper was attacked simultaneously by two or three patients and heavy blows fell on the heads of the surprised attendants. There did not seem to be any leader of the revolt, and while the patients were assaulting the keepers they would gaze at each other occasionally, as if waiting for the word to make the break for liberty. The keys held by the keepers were soon taken from them and a rush was then made for the door leading from the hall into the dining room.

As the patients rushed through the dining room each of them picked from the table a heavy plate or cup or bowl to use as a weapon in case they were overtaken by the keepers. The lights were still burning in all the departments and the insane mob had clear sailing. From the dining room they went through to an adjoining room, the doors of which were unlocked, and then into the long hall leading to th rear entrance. The patient in advance of the others was nervously fingering over the bunch of keys as he ran, looking for the key to the rear door. The keys were well known to them and the rear door was unlocked without much loss of time. With a wild yell the mob rushed out of the narrow door, fighting with each other as they went, each wanting to be in the lead and to reach the outer gate first. Through the yard they ran like deer and crowded around the big gate in the wall while one of their number was turning the key in the lock, When the gate was thrown open, they rushed out of the yard, fairly tumbling over each other in their anxiety to be free

In the meantime the keepers who had been overpowered and who had rapidly recovered from the surprise given them by their assailants, soon sent in an alarm to the main office. Joining the other keepers they saw the paients running across the hospital farm back of the main building. A hot pursuit followed, in which all but seven of the patients were captured. Dr. Allison immediately notified the police department of the escape of the patients, and it is believed that they

"Do you see the choochoo, baby?" she said. The little man looked first at her, then at the engine, with a troubled look on his little face—then he asked, gravely: "Do you mean the locomotive?"

"I wish you would get me a new baby brother, mamma," said 4-year-old Margie. "Why, dear, what do you want with one?" asked her mother. "I want him to wheel around in my doll car-
