WETHERBY-LINDSAY NUPTIALS

News has just leaked out of the mar riage of Miss Vina, the only daughter and child of Mr. and Mrs. James Lindsay, to Jerome L. Wetherby. Rev. Dr Whalen, of the Berean Baptist church, performed the ceremony. These es-timable young people were to have been married with a brilliant house wedding last June, but the serious illness of Mr. Wetherby made this impossible. Late last week his physicians urged him to accompany his parents to Florida for the winter, and as the party was to start on Saturday morning. there was time only for the most hurried arrangements; hence the quietness of the marriage and the presenc of only the two families concerned.

The groom left for Florida in his father's party Saturday morning, and as soon as it can be determined that the southern climate will prove beneficial to his health his bride will join him there for the winter. A large circle of friends will wish these young people life's best blessings.

CHARLES HAGAN'S FENCE LINE

The street committee of councils have viewed the strip of land in Campbell's lane that is under dispute and will render a report to councils soon. There is little doubt in the minds of some of the members that Mr. Hagan has not fenced in any more than belongs to him; in fact, he has reached the limit called for in his deeds, although the first maps of the city and original descriptions of boundaries are very imperfect. A curious misstatement in one of the earliest conveyances for the property was discovered in examining the titles. It is evidently a clerical mistake, as one of the lines is given as the Riverside gridiron yesterday, owfive feet, when it plainly should have been fifty feet.

PREPARING FOR BUSINESS.

The prospective end of the strike has lent a new lease of business life to the merchants of this vicinity. Activity of the past few days has been very marked. Traveling salesmen are again invading this territory, and already new stock is being shelved. Things are expected to start out with an impetus which will carry business up to the holidays with a rush that will more than compensate for the dullness of the past month.

TRANSPORTING WATER.

The soaking rain that came last night was more than welcome. While the city's water supply is adequate, reports have reached here from Greenfield. Clifford and Lenox townships to the effect that great inconvenience has been felt in those quarters. For more than a month many farmers have been obliged to transport water in milk cans from ponds more than a mile from their homes. Wells and springs were dry which had flowed without interruption for years.

The new ball field near Maple grove is a great attraction these days and the popularity of foot ball is plainly evident by the number who participate and those who assemble to witness the players. Winters, president: Elijah Stephens, vice-president: W. J.
