THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Oct. 24.—Today's broad and active market and the wide fluctuations in prices offered excellent opportunities for speculation and all classes of professional operators were very busy all day. When the very active buying demand had been pretty well satisfied and many of the professional traders had sold out and taken their profits, they took advantage of the soft condition of the market due to large holdings of stock having passed to weaker hands to put out short lines for a time. The resulting decline in prices increased the pressure to realize and the market closed active and weak at a level well below the opening. The general feeling was that the day's market consisted of the strength of the transcontinental group of railroads lying beyond the Missouri river. Many rumors were about the day's market, with some stating the buying of these stocks, Northern Pacific and Great Northern were sold to realize on an enormous scale and the feared stock, with the exception of a brief interval, was held below his normal level all day, but the other members of the group were held up during the day. There was a very large speculation also in Pennsylvania and the great activity in the stock market during the early part of the day. TEARS. Many a woman has periodic crying spells. She meets her husband with eyes red and swollen and she cries out: "What has happened?" "Nothing," her wife replies. "I don't know what it is, but I just had to have a good cry." Men don't have crying spells. It would seem therefore that an affection confined to women must have its cause in the womanly nature. There is no doubt that a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organs, is in general responsible for feminine nervousness and hysteria.
