MISS COGHILAN IS COMING.

Will Be at the Lyceum Next Thursday Night.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 3, 1900.

To the Patrons of the Lyceum Theatre:

Messrs. Delcher and Hennessy beg to announce the first appearance here of Miss Gertrude Coghilan in Thackeray's masterpiece, "Vanity Fair," at the Lyceum theatre on Thursday evening, November 8. Miss Coghilan will be seen in the character of Becky Sharp and Mrs. Rawdon Crawley, and a delightful performance is promised to our patrons.

The production is on an elaborate scale being correctly staged as to costuming and detail; in fact, it can be safely pronounced as one of the principal theatrical treats of the present season.

What the Eavesdropper Heard.

Mrs. Whatever—"Why, what handsome frames you have for those etchings, you must have paid a good price for them at the Griffin Art Co." Mrs. Prudence—"Not at all, they are selling moulding as low as 5c a foot and make the frame for you absolutely free of charge, these cost but little more." "Yes, with ready-made frames they are just as reasonable."

From Cause to Effect.

THREE GREAT MEETINGS HELD

VOTERS OF SOUTH SCRANTON TURNED OUT IN FORCE.

Listened to the Issues of the Campaign Discussed in Corcoran's, Callery's and Battle's Halls by Hon. W. L. Connell, Hon. C. P. Malley, Hon. F. W. Fleitz and P. F. Loughran—Congressman Connell Was Expected but Was Not Well Enough to Attend.

What is ordinarily accredited to be one of the strongholds of Democracy, the Twentieth ward, was last night the scene of three of the largest and most enthusiastic Republican rallies that have marked the present campaign.

The rallying points were Battle's hall, on Prospect avenue, corner of Elm street; Corcoran's hall, Cedar avenue, and Callery's hall, on Pittston avenue, near the city line. Each of the halls is of very respectable dimensions, but none of them was capable of seating the crowd of speakers, who heard Republican doctrines expounded and show their loyalty to the party which changed that expansive ward from a pasture field to one of the busiest hives of industry in the United States.

Hon. William Connell was advertised to be one of the speakers, and much disappointment was evidenced by his former neighbors that illness prevented him from being present. The disappointment, however, was made up for in a great measure by the presence of his nephew, Hon. W. L. Connell, ex-mayor of Scranton, who was born and bred in that locality and who is proudly claimed as one of the Twentieth ward lads.

Other speakers who were heard at one or the other of the meetings were Hon. Charles P. O'Malley, former representative from the Fourth Legislative district; Deputy Attorney General Fred W. Fleitz, Attorney P. F. Loughran, Hon. John Scheuer, Jr., representative from the Second district and candidate for re-election, and Hon. W. K. Beck, former representative from the Third district and candidate for register of wills.

THREE MEETINGS HELD.

Messrs. Fleitz, O'Malley, Connell and Loughran spoke at Corcoran's hall; Messrs. O'Malley and Beck, at Battle's hall, and Messrs. Fleitz, O'Malley, Connell, Loughran and Scheuer at Callery's hall. The meetings were held simultaneously. By turning the speakers in carriage from one hall to the other it was possible to keep Republican eloquence on tap continuously at all three places from 7.45 until nearly 11 o'clock. The forest band played for a time in front of each hall early in the evening.

At Corcoran's hall the chairman was Charles W. Simmel, James Shorter was chairman of the meeting at Callery's, and on the stage with him were Thomas Griffiths and Peter McCarthy. Hon. Alex. Connell was chairman of the meeting at Battle's hall.

Every issue of the campaign was intelligently treated by the speakers, and at each meeting their arguments were listened to with close attention. That the sentiments they expressed met with the hearty approval was evidenced by the most enthusiastic plaudits. At Callery's hall a crowd of boys, from whom Hallowell had not suppressed the mischief in their make-up, annoyed the speakers at times with indiscriminate and ill-timed shouts, but the adult portion of the audience decried the interruptions and the archers subsided. The closing end of the speeches was an exhortation to set aside party prejudice, study up the men and measures that are before the people in this campaign, and vote for that which will bring the greatest good to the greatest number.

GROWTH OF THE WARD.

In his speech at Callery's hall, Mr. Fleitz drew attention to the wonderful industrial growth of the Twentieth ward, and asked if it was not true that the very principles which Bryan has said would send the country to the den of devils have not been responsible for the Twentieth ward becoming one of the greatest industrial wards in any city in the United States. His reference to the past William Connell had played in the upbuilding of the city in general, and the Twentieth ward in particular, was received with the most enthusiastic applause.

Ex-Mayor Connell's popularity among his old time playmates was evidenced by the big reaction he received at each of the places he spoke. He addressed his hearers from the standpoint of a business man and urged upon them the extreme importance of studying the issues of the campaign with a practical eye. He conveyed the regrets of Congressman Connell at his inability to be present and bespoke for him in the coming election the same consideration given him two years ago when the Twentieth ward voters paid such a fine tribute to the man whom they so generally revered as a man, a citizen and a friend.

Mr. O'Malley and Mr. Loughran went extensively and interestingly into a discussion of the main issues of the campaign and addressed themselves particularly to the younger men who are hesitating as to which party they will cast their vote with. "Cast your vote right next Tuesday," said Mr. O'Malley, directing his words to the young men, "and years from now when McKinley is given a place in history alongside that of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, you can look back with pride and say, 'I cast my first presidential vote for that man.'"

Mr. Scheuer among other things made a reference to the strike and said it was an evidence of the benefits of Republicanism for under a Democratic administration, with its army of unemployed, a successful strike would be an impossibility.

Mr. Scheuer was given a very flattering reception at each of the meetings.

GREAT MASS MEETING.

Held by the Republicans of Clark's Summit Last Night.

There was a very enthusiastic Republican mass meeting in Schilling's hall at Clark's Summit last night which was presided over by N. F. Davis, who opened the meeting with a short address that aroused the enthusiasm of the audience.

The speakers of the evening were Arthur Dunn, C. S. Oliver and John M. Harris.

The latter spoke for about an hour and held the close attention of the audience. He devoted his attention mainly to the national issues.

A number of resolutions were given by the Schubert quartette which were applauded to the echo, and compelled to respond to numerous encores.

FATAL RESULTS OF EXPLOSION OF GAS

IF BRYAN IS ELECTED.

Thirty Thousand-Dollar Order Received by Harvey Silk Company Will Be Void.

As an instance of the paralysis of business which the business men of this country believe would follow the election of William Jennings Bryan as surely as the day follows the night the fact may be mentioned that the Harvey Silk company, of this city, has received an order for $30,000 worth of silk, contingent upon the re-election of Mr. McKinley. Speaking about this yesterday, Alfred Harvey, senior member of the firm, said:

"Yes, it's true that we have received an order for $30,000 worth of silk from the Liberty Silk company, of Paterson, N. J., with the express provision that they will take goods only in the event of McKinley's election and will leave them on our hands if by any possible chance Bryan should be elected.

"That's only one case out of many. Orders are being everywhere placed with manufacturers with the understanding that they are not to be filled if Bryan is elected. Why is this? you ask. I'll tell you. It's because the business men of this country are men of sound sense and realize that the election of Bryan would mean a paralysis of the industries of this country.

"Personally, I don't think our friend Bryan has a ghost of a show. I've just returned from a trip through the west and I met many men who were ardent Bryanites in 1896, who are with McKinley this year, heart and soul. In my opinion McKinley is going to carry California, Idaho, Nebraska and several other states in the far west which are generally conceded to Bryan."

Middleton died at the Hahnemann hospital, and Russell's life passed away at his home, where he was removed immediately after the explosion.

Middleton was thirty-six years of age, and is survived by a wife and two children. Russell was about fifty years of age, and a miner for many years. The funeral of Middleton will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence, with interment at Lackawanna.

The accident which bore these fatal results occurred Thursday afternoon, while the two men were working together in one of the Marvins chambers. An amount of accumulated gas was fired by the flame of a naked lamp. Both men's burns were chiefly about the head and breast.

BIG MEETING IN AUDITORIUM

LARGE AUDIENCE LISTENED TO ELOQUENT SPEECHES.

The Orators of the Evening Were Hon. S. S. Vreeland, W. Gaylord Thomas and Mayor James Moir.

The Mayor Paid a High Tribute to the Men Who Compose the Republican County Ticket—Able Address of Mr. Vreeland—Discussed National Issues.

North Scranton was again the scene last night of a big Republican mass meeting, and the enthusiasm displayed was just as great and just as spontaneous as it was two weeks ago, when the opening gun of the campaign was fired in that part of the city.

The meeting was held in the Auditorium and was attended by over 1,000 voters, who listened with great interest to the excellent addresses delivered by Hon. S. S. Vreeland, of New Jersey; Assistant District Attorney W. Gaylord Thomas and Mayor James Moir. The chairman of the evening was Thomas Morgan, one of the leading Carbondale, which deserves much at our hands, and for the last three years has paid strict attention to the duties of his position, and to nothing else. He ought to get three years more and he will.

DANIELS IS POPULAR.

Tommy Daniels you all know, because he's one of the most popular Western men in the county. He has administered the office of clerk of the courts ably and well and deserves another term. Then, there's Emil Bonn, a mighty sharp little fellow who is making a great fight. He was pitted against me once and it wasn't very nice, I assure you. If he is elected recorder of deeds, as I feel sure he will be, he'll do the recording himself and won't farm it out as others have done.

W. K. Beck, the Republican candidate for register of wills, is a most wonderful man. He's been defeated several times, but he always bobs up again and the time 1 time and he's bopped up to stay up. He is from the farming district, which receives very little recognition from the party, but which is deserving of it. The work of the candidate for jury commissioner speaks for itself.

The candidate for the legislature from this district, T. J. Reynolds, is a bright and bracing young man, who is deserving of your very warm support. It is extremely necessary that this city should be represented in the next legislature by a capable man, because much legislation affecting the city's interests must be passed and must be championed by a man with a level head on his shoulders.

In conclusion, I desire to impress upon you all the great and urgent necessity of getting out the vote and of doing all in your power to elect the entire Republican ticket. Devote the day to it, if you can, and if not, at least devote a part of it.

MR. VREELAND'S ADDRESS.

The mayor was followed by Hon. S. S. Vreeland, of New Jersey, a forceful and eloquent speaker, who held the close attention of the audience for over half an hour with his able presentation of the campaign issues. Among other things, he said:

The recent mine strike which convulsed this part of the country was a successful strike more because of the prevailing cool times, which are the direct result of a Republican administration, than for any other reason. If the operators had not been obliged to send coal to the great factories all over the country, if the majority of those factories were closed down, as they generally are during a Democratic administration, the miners might have got down on their knees to the operators and begged to have been taken back at the old wages to go to work.

Look behind every one of the false issues which the Democratic party has raised this year, and you'll find the silver lining of 16 to 1. There is only one real issue in this campaign, and that's the free silver issue. We have Mr. Bryan's own words. He said: "If any man believes in the gold standard, he shouldn't vote for me, because I will do everything in my power to overthrow it." That was in 1896, but the free silver plank is in the platform here at this year and Mr. Bryan is in honor bound, if elected, to carry out the principles laid down in that platform.

Mr. Vreeland at this point entered into a logical refutation of the free silver arguments of Mr. Bryan, and told of the dire results which would follow the adoption of any such financial policy. "Mr. Bryan might just as well say," said he, "that you can make a two-foot man into a six-foot man by act of congress as to say that with the ratio of 16 to 1 you can make good dollars in unlimited quantities out of fifty cents worth of silver." Continuing, he said:

If Bryan's sympathy with the yellow people 6,000 miles away is sincere, one would think that some little chord of affection in his heart would be touched at the spectacle presented by the Democratic party in the South, which is again seeking to put the shackles on the black man, for whose freedom you men, many of you, fought so bravely. They're limiting his power of suffrage so that he can't vote, but Mr. Bryan looks on and says nothing.

If you men of Lackawanna county don't give Mr. McKinley a big majority and re-elect Mr. Connell, I'll turn my back on you when I come again. Get the vote out and let this be one of the banner Republican counties of this great Republic state.
