MR. CONNELL AND THE STRIKE.

Testimony of Fred Dilcher, National Organizer of the United Mine Workers.

If any further testimony should be wanted to down the campaign canard that William Connell had incluenced his coal company to stand out against a settlement of the miners' strike, it will be furnished by two unblased witnesses, whose word cannot be doubted and whose interest in the matter can only be that which any fair minded man would evince when called upon to see justice done a maligned neighbor.

The witnesses are Nicholas Burke, a member of the executive board of district No. 1, United Mine Workers of America, and M. E. Sanders, city elitor of The Truth. Their testimony is to this effect. Just before his departure from Scranton National Organizer Fred Dilcher, who is conceded to be President Mitchell's right hand man, was seated in the headquarters of district No. 1, at 215 Lackawanna avenue, when a committee of Connell Coal company miners came in on some matters concerning their local union. During the course of the conversation ome mention was made of William Connell by one of the committee, whereupon Organizer Dilcher, address-ing the committee, said: "Boys, let me tell you something that may interest you. If it wasn't for your boss, Mr. Connell, the strike wouldn't be'

This circuit. will be rendered, after man I arraign, Fellow workmen, in order to meing. lar business is from a wrong done me by the Frank Spencer has unjustly grabbed my property and holds it today. I will give the facts and you can judge for vourselves.

In 1892 ! bought this property on Jackson street from Mrs. Mett, contracting for house and lot at $1,500, agreeing to pay $200 per year, That I paid for four years, $1,200. I did not borrow any money to purchase this property, I lived in the house for four years, paid, as stated above, $1,200, on the original contract. I pulled down the old house and built a block On February 8, 1897, I borrowed about $26 or $2,700 from Mr. Sponcer, That time Mr. Spencer requested me to bring to his attorney's office my old contract, that I paid $1,200 on, and turn the contract over to him. His attorney drew a new contract up on the following conditions: That I was to pay $200 per year and me receive the cents, $23 a month. The contract was drawn by Mr. Spencer's attorney, Horace E. Hand, myself and wife signed same, agreeing to pay $260 per year. The attorney stated that he had not time then to give me a copy of the contract, but that he would send it to me in the course of a tew days. He gave me a temporary lease for that time and when he would send me the contract, I was to return the lease. This was February S, 1897. From that day to this I have never received the contract. I have tried many times, but always have been put off. Can you credit this? It's true and to my sorrow, that's part of what Spencer has done to me; kept my contract and then the property. In April, 1897, I moved away to Key-ser avenue, not driven away as the Scrantonian says I was. As evidence, I rented the houses and collected rents from Feb. 8, 1897, until July, 1897. The Scrantonian says I collected rent for four years, when it was not four months. In August, 1897, my wife and myself. in the absence of Mr. Spencer, who was in the South at this time, turned the rents over to Miss Barclay, Spencer's sister-in-law, to collect, with the understanding the rents were to be applied on the mortgage, as per contract. Spencer has collected the rents from August. 1897, until now, at the rate of $27d yer pear.

My contract calls for $250. Now Mr. Spencer knows that he has no $3,500 mortgage on that property. I have offered Mr. Spencer $2,700, not as a bluff, and sent a man to appraise the property. Spencer wanted $3,500 for $2,700 and three years' rent. I made him another offer of $2,700 cash and a man to go my bond. That he would not accept. Friends, foes, fellow workmen, citizens and received and control of the public the truth of these statements, and challenge any our to contradict them. Also, to show you that I am not a defamer of an ionest man's character, but an honest exposer of a man who is running for a public office and whom I consider not a ut and proper person to hold office.

THE FOXES IN THE VINEYARD

ADDRESS BY DR. WARFIELD AT

The President of Lafayette College Yesterday Officiated at the First and Second Presbyterian Churches Alternating for the Morning and Evening Services with Rev. Dr. C. L. Thompson, of New York-Dr. James McLeod Addressed the Lafayette Students at Easton.

Rev. Dr. James McLeod of the First and Rev. Dr. Charles E. Robinson of the Second Presbyterian church did not occupy their pulpits yesterday, but gave them up to Rev. E. D. Warfield, D. D., LLD., president of Lafayette college, and to Rev. C. L. Thomp-son of New York, secretary of the Home Missionary board. Dr. Warfield spoke at the First Presbyterian church in the morning and gave an interesting address, taking as his theme, "Moses enduring affliction with the people of God, rather than enjoy the pleasures of sin; and Dr. Thompson officiated at the Second church.

In the evening Dr. Thompson gave very stirring address at the First church, about the Home Missions in the northwest and Alaska. His talk was of a very thrilling and interesting nature and created a profound impression on all who heard it. Dr. Mc-Leod was in Easton, and yesterday morning addressed the Lafayette students. The evening services were conducted by him in an Easton church. Dr. Warfield spoke last night at the Second church, He was introduced to the congregation by the pastor, Dr. Robinson, and gave a splendid ddress on "Foxes in the Vine-yard." Dr. Wartield is a tall, stately-looking man, with a short silver beard, and the general appearance of a scholar. In the beginning of his address he referred briefly to the great song of songs, from which he took his theme and expressed his admiration of the rythmic poetry and beauty of the

How lovely are the pictures drawn in it, that in particular of the Spring in Judea, with its wonderful detailed description. You get a beautiful picture of the little things which make up the grand whole, and which together present a grand view of life. "By the providence of God man has been made above all other created beings, and since the creation he has wonderful strides. He has grown from a pigmy into a giant and in the wishes of his heart from a Noble deces are done, and abundant crops are raised to satisfy hunger. And, looking superficilly at these conditions, one might say, "Do not our feet once more walk amid flowers? Are we not again in an Eden?" Alas, how different is the man studied as an individual from the man studied in he aggregate. The pictures are presented to us of grand, noble manhood. of great deeds down in the past and we are inspired and edified by the example of such. But these were not men who took it for granted that life was only of ease and comfort. They were men who recognized the fact that human life is God's greatest creation. They were men who gave back such an account of their stewardship to the Lord as be has the right to

Some claim that men should love others more than themselves, but the gospel teaches reasonably that we love others as ourselves. Man's first duty is to himself There are many little things upon which we can wreck our lives, many little foxes in the vineyards. Among these is indifference to what is good and a tendency to evil. Indifference to the service of God is a very great obstacle in the path of human rectitude. Indifference to prayer, either public or private, oftimes results in the acquiring of bad company. BOY KILLED BY

A STREET CAR

Nine-Year-Old James Fiorito's Life Crushed Out on North Main Avenue Near Jones Street.

James Fiorito, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fiorito, of 901 Jones street, had his life instantly crushed out yesterday morning by a trolley car on North Main avenue, near the corner of Jones street. The lad was playing in the street in company with a number of companions, about 11.50 o'clock, when Car 313, in charge of Motorman E. T. Horton and Conductor L. E. Bunnell, came along, bound for the central city. The motorman slowed up as he neared Jones street, thinking that a man, who was approaching, wanted to catch the car. In this he was mistaken, and he turned the power on again after passing the corner. The boy thought the car was going to stop and dashed across the street right in front of it. He was thrown to the ground and in an instant the car had passed over his body, despite a desperate effort on the part of the motorman to stop the car. The body was wedged under the wheels very tightly, and it was some time before it could be removed. It was frightfully mangled, the head being nearly severed from the trunk and the chest being frightfully torn, in addition to a fracture of the skull. Death must have been instantaneous. The remains were removed to Jones' undertaking establishment.

NOVARITSKY'S BACK BROKEN.

He Fell Down an Embankment Saturday Evening.

Coroner Roberts made an investigation, and, while the general indications pointed to death being caused by an accident, the fact that the man was well dressed and that his pockets were empty, led him to conclude to hold an inquest. On the lining of the coat across the

CHINA AS SEEN

SPOKE IN ELM PARK CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

Is the General Missionary Secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Missionary Society—He Told of the Many Excellent Traits Possessed by the Chinese and Expressed the Opinion That the Recent Outbreak in the Empire Was More Anti-Foreign Than Anti-Missionary.

Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard, of New York city, general secretary of the missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church in this country, gave two splendid addresses on missionary work yesterday in the Elm Park church. In the evening he gave a talk on missionary work in China, which was listened to with intense interest by one of the largest congregations ever beginning his remarks he made a pass-ing reference to the obligations which the United States has taken upon herself in the far east. Referring to the two Sundays on which Dewey smashed Montijo's fleet and on which Cervera's battleships went to pieces he said:

"I, for one, thank God that when George Dewey had finished his work in Manila harbor he stayed there. I consider these two Sundays the greatest missionary Sundays in the nineteenth century, because on those days were removed the obstructions which had prevented 10,000,000 people for centuries from a knowledge of the true gospel of the Lord Jesus."

Regarding China, he said, in part: "We must be fair with China and ust now there is danger of being unair. I think that during the Chinese rouble the administration has shown just now there is danger of being unfair. I think that during the Chinese trouble the administration has shown great wisdom, it has held a steady hand and the policy adopted by this country has done more to control the policies of the European states than any other influence."

SIZE OF THE EMPIRE. n described at some length the bus size of the Chinese empire great population, now estitated to the world to deal with,"
"We can't turn our backs that it holds no interest for He then described at some length the tremendous size of the Chinese empire and its great population, now estimated at 450,000,000. "This is a great problem for the world to deal with." and say that it holds no interest for

He described the great religions of China, Buddhism and Confucianism. "If these religions could ever uplift the Chinese or bring them to a higher civilization they surely would have done it after all these centuries. The intelligent Chinaman will tell you that the Chinese nation today has its face to the past and its back to the future.

"Yet, the Chinese are a wonderful people. One Chinaman is worth six Malays. They are the largest property owners in Singapore, Java, Sumatra and all the surrounding islands and they are the most valuable people dwelling there. They are self-supporting. Did you ever see a begging Chinaman in this country? Did you ever see a drunken Chinaman in this country? No, you never did, but you've seen drunken Germans, Irishmen and Americans. "The Chinaman has physical qualias have the other civilized nations they would be able to face and cope with the whole world. If China could in twenty-four hours be lifted up on the same plane as the European nations, as far as military and naval prowess goes, the allied forces would pe out of China in no time.

WOULD BECOME MIGHTY. "But China is hopeless because she is helpless. A few men have been making an effort lately to get out of the rut, but it isn't much use. Give her the advantages of Christian civilization and the Chinese will become a mighty people. I do not hesitate to say that in the recent trouble the Chinese had just cause for great provocation."

Dr. Leonard then detailed at length the various parts of China already grabbed by the European powers "They have succeeded in carrying off so much territory along the seacoast that China today does not own a single one of her important seaports. What would we have done in this country if the European nations had come over here and began taking our seaports' We'd resist with all our power, wouldn't we? "If it's wrong to steal American territory, it's just as wrong to steal Chinese territory. The powers have been guilty of a great wrong in taking this territory from China."

At this point the doctor referred to those people who maintain that the missionaries have an easy time. "This rouble has opened their eyes," said he, 'and has demonstrated that missionary work is not a trifling thing but a calling which requires sublime courage. "Some people say, let's withdraw, Suppose that in the first century the early Christians had become discouraged and had decided to give up preaching the gospel. If they had the Christian civilization you and I are now living in would have never existed. The Chinese are not close seaoners. They say the missionaries came first and the gunboats afterwards.

WAS AGANIST FOREIGNERS

"I have said it before and I say it again. The Boxer movement was not one-tenth as much anti-missionary as it was anti-foreign. The dowager empress, a wise old lady and as treacherous as she is wise, saw a revolution against the Manchu dynasty brewing and she turned it against the foreigners to divert it from herself and the

The Chinese Christian has always shown himself to be true. In all this trouble there is not one recorded case of a single one who denied Jesus Christ. Not two per cent. of the converted Chinese have ever gone back on their religion. They never go back on their missionaries, either, and often give up their lives for them." Dr. Leonard then stated that the Methodist church had not lost a life in the recent trouble, not a single mis-sionary or even a child being killed. I'wo hundred thousand dollars worth of property belonging to the church was destroyed, however.

"We expect to enter upon the new missionary year," said he in conclus-ion, "with our forces all in their places. Shall we retire, you ask? No. never, as long as the great commission reads Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to all the people.'

OBITUARY.

Thomas E. Dezn, a brief mention of whose death was made in Saturday's issue, was born t Danville, Pa., on October 22, 1873. He was admitted to the Montour county bar in 1895 and practiced very successfully at Danville up to the time of his death, which occurred at 11 o'clock on Friday evening last, caused by neuritis or inflammation of the covering of the nerves, after an illness of about two months. The original cause of the malady which was not considered alarming until a few nours pre August during a camping expedition, when the carth was wet after a severe storm. About two years ago, owing to the illness of his father, Perry Deen, perhaps the best known iron man of this region, he took up his father's business and had carried it on very successfully ever since. He was a great political speaker of no ordinary ability and has done much excellent service for the Republican party in Montour county.
His death was a severe shock to numberless friends, many of whom are in this vicinity, w lew enjoyed a greater degree of popularity and sincere respect than the young man whose carrier of great promise is thus early ended. He was possessed of integrity of purpose which seemed singularly in keeping with an unusually handsome personality.
