

NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA

GREAT RALLY AT MONTROSE

THE LARGEST DEMONSTRATION SINCE GARFIELD CAMPAIGN.

Lieutenant Governor Gobin, Judge Jessup, A. J. Colborn, Jr., and Major Everett Warren Among the Orators—F. B. Jewett, the Fusion Candidate for the Legislature, Withdraws, Leaving Democrats and Insurgents Without a Candidate.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Montrose, Nov. 4.—The county mass meeting and rally held in this place on Friday was the greatest political demonstration witnessed in Susquehanna county since the Garfield campaign, twenty years ago. In size, in enthusiasm, in the speeches delivered, and in far-reaching effect, the demonstration was a tremendous success. The old town donned her holiday attire in honor of the occasion, the decorations being profuse throughout the borough. "Old Glory" floated almost everywhere, and the town was thronged with business places and private houses from which the printed faces of the Republican national candidates did not look out approvingly upon the proceedings. By 11 o'clock, the hour set for the first parade, the town was thronged with visitors, while the townspeople had turned out en masse to join in the festivities. From every election district in the county were delegations, varying in size from the half-dozen Republican voters from "Chocoma" to several hundred from the larger towns. Several prominent bands, many came with banners significantly inscribed, while nearly all brought cavalcades of "Rough Riders." On reaching town, each delegation was met by a committee of citizens, and one of his aides was immediately assigned to its proper place in line. Promptly at the hour appointed the parade moved from the court house square and as it traversed the principal streets of the borough, a spectacle was presented, but it paled in comparison to the gorgeousness of the torchlight parade at night, with its accompanying illuminations, fireworks, etc. Two monster meetings were held in the morning, one in the afternoon, and the other in the evening, at which County Chairman Ralph B. Little presided, and George H. Frazier was secretary. The building was far too small to accommodate the immense assemblage and hundreds were turned away, unable to gain admittance. Remarkably fine addresses were made in the afternoon by Lieutenant Governor J. P. S. Gobin and Judge W. H. Jessup, and at night, the addresses of A. J. Colborn, esq., and Major Everett Warren of Scranton, and a wind-up by General Gobin held sway. All the speeches were listened to with close attention and received with manifestations of enthusiastic approval. A very sensational climax was reached during the evening meeting, when, just after Major Warren had concluded his remarks, Chairman Little stepped to the front of the platform and stated that the next speaker would be a gentleman who had previously announced, but who had a message to deliver to the Republicans of Susquehanna county, and he took pleasure in introducing Mr. F. B. Jewett. Mr. Jewett was one of the Fusion candidates for the Legislature, being originally named by the county insurgents and afterward endorsed by the Democrats. His appearance took the people by surprise and it was anything but a cordial greeting that he was, at first, accorded, but he quickly turned the matter over to the Democrats. Then, in a few clear-cut sentences, Mr. Jewett explained how he had been misled into the belief that the regular Republican candidates for representatives were expected to vote for the Fusion ticket. He was not so misled, but he was misled to support reform legislation, and so he thought it his duty to withdraw as a candidate. He thanked his supporters, and asked them to join him in working to roll up an old-time Republican majority for the whole ticket. His remarks were greeted with tremendous applause by the stalwart Republicans present, and to the surprise and chagrin of the Democrats, Mr. Jewett's name on their column on the ticket, and it is now too late to get it removed. The insurgents have no candidate now, and the election of every Republican candidate in this county is assured.

Vote for William Connell for congress and sustain the administration which brought about good times.

TUNKHANNOCK. Special to the Scranton Tribune. Tunkhannock, Nov. 3.—The Wyoming Seminary second team and Tunkhannock played foot ball here today, the game resulting in a victory for Tunkhannock by a score of 11-0. The scores of Tunkhannock were both made on long runs, the first being a quarter back trick in which Johnson took the ball and ran sixty yards for a touchdown, and the second arising from a fumble by Seminary. Prevoat getting the ball and running forty yards. Seminary's main play was in bad shape, frequent calls for time being made on account of men being injured. Tunkhannock played a fast, snappy game, while the Seminary was very slow. The same team played at Kingston some time ago, the game resulting in favor of Seminary, 5-0. This is the fourth game out of five played that Tunkhannock has won this year.
