THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

It Commences Today and Will Last Until Friday Noon.

The fourth annual institute of the Carbondale city teachers commences this afternoon in the central school building at 1.30 o'clock and all the teachers in this city and environs will be in attendance at its various sessions, There will be no school held this week at any of the school houses and the children will have a gala time preparing for and recovering from Thanksgiving, as their fredom from their usual duties will give them more of a chance to develop their appetite for the toothsome gobbler which will be in every well regulated home. But all this has nothing to do with the institute, the members of which will have a serious and arduous week of work in front of them, enlivened each evening by an attraction in the way of a lecture in the auditorium of the high Today there will be two sessions-afternoon and evening-and the next three days there will be three a day-morning, afternoon and nightnot even stopping for Thanksgiving. On Friday there will be a morning session, and then the schools will resume their usual work next week, with the teachers fortified by a fresh fund of knowledge and the scholars convalescent from their feasting.

The full programme for the week will Change of Date.

The rededication of St. Rose church will be held on Sunday, Dec. 16, instead of Tuesday, Dec. 18, as announced some time ago. The change is made for the reason that many of the members could not attend the ceremonics of they were held on weekday on account of Elaborate preparations are being made for the celebration. Professor Haydn Evans is directing the choir in renearing special music, and it is expected that over 200 clergymen from different parts of the country, including high church dignituries, will be in attendance.

A Greatly Mourned Death.

William H. Lindsay, son of Thomas Lindsay, of 38 Canaan street, died at his home early on Saturday morning last. Although he had been sick less week the malady from which he suffered, typhoid fever, early developed into an extreme type of the disase and a day or so after he had taken to his bed the rumor spread through the city that he was dangerously ill. Thursday night of last week, at Trinity Episcopal church, of which he was a member, the special prayers for the sick were delivered in his behalf, and it was then believed that the young brother stood in the valley of the shadow of death. He continued to sink rapidly and shortly after 2 o'clock on Saturday the watchers at his bedside knew that the end had come.

Mr. Lindsay was in every way the ype of what a young man should be.

He was but 18 years old, but in his brief span of life he had accomplished many good things and built up a reputation to be proud of. His father and sister are his sole survivors, his mother having died but a year ago. The funeral will take place this afternoon, the procession leaving the house at 2.30 and proceeding to Trinity parish house, where Rev. R. A. Sawyer will preach the ser-

At the different churches of the city resterday most of them had comparatively large congregations in spite of the drizzling rain that came down at intervals during the day. At the First Baptist church the pastor, Rev. Dr. Whalen, delivered a temperance sernon in the morning and embodied it in his series on "Great Themes of Our Religion." In the evening the pastor continued his custom of devoting the last Sunday evening in the month to songs and song writers, last night's choice being "An Evening with Episcopal Song Writers and Their Hymns." Mrs. Whalen san a solo, "Abide with Me," and a quartette rendered "Rock of Ages.

YALE GIANTS DOWN HARVARD

THE NEW HAVEN COLLEGIANS GREAT VICTORY, 28-0.

The Game Was Played on the Yale Grounds and from Beginning to End Was an Assured Victory for the Sons of Eli-Hale, Bloomer, Sharpe and Fincke Were the Heroes-Scranton High School Defeated Wilkes-Barre 17-0-Games on Other Gridirons.

Alas, poor Harvard! Where to-day are the warring crimson banners and the flaunting dark plumes of the stately 'ambridge university? Once again has Yale, dauntless Yale, bull-dog Yale, rushed upon its hereditary football enemy and at the end of the gloomy dismal Saturday afternoon at New Haven eleven robust glants were carried about on the shoulders of throngs of admiring Yalesian enthusiasts, while poor Captain Daly of Harvard, lame and crippled, looked at the board with its startling figures of 28-0, and then silently turned and led his bruised and disabled warriors from the field. It was another case of Yale luck and Yale pluck, which, reinforced by indomitable courage and the strength of young berserks won the day. From beginning to end it was a Yale victory. During almost the entire game the oval was in Yale's possession and when Harvard did secure the ball, t'was only to yield it over again. In vain did fleet-footed Sawin attempted to circle the ends as he did against Pennsylvania. The much disparaged Coy and Gould silently and grimly nailed him in his tracks. In vain did fast Kendall try to gain, and to no purpose did Shirley Ellis, great line-bucker that he is, attempt to plunge through those Sons of Ell.

TWAS ANOTHER STORY. But when Yale had the pigskin there was another story to tell. Perry Hale, the human locomotive, broke through the Harvard line with the same case that he tore to pieces the Princeton guards and tackies. Bloomer, freshman tackle, repeatedly hurled his weighty avoirdupois forward for big gains and afforded splendid interference for the backs. Chadwick and Sharpe, the half backs, did splendid end running and in the second half Sharpe dropped a goal from the field which added to Yale's big score. Quarter-back Finckle put up an excellent game and made a 65-yard run for a touchdown, which was one of features of the day.

At the ends alone Harvard excelled. both Hallowell and Campbell doing wonderful work. Coy and Gould, of Yale, however, also did their work well and in the second half, Cor made long cun for a touch lown, securing the bail on an attempted double pass by Harvard.

It was Yale's terribly aggressive attack which carried all before it. With the exception of Olcott, who left the game a few minutes before the end of the second half, all the New Havenites who began the game, continued until the end. But the Harvard men were unable to stand the drubbing and before the second half ended Captain Daly had left the game, Shirley Ellis was sitting on the side-lines crying like a child. Sawin had given way to Gierasch, and Eaton, Campbell, Hallo-well and Bowditch were all compelled to leave the game,

Wilkes-Barre Defeated.

In its last home game of the season the fast Scranton High School eleven Saturday met the team representing the Wilkes-Barre High School, and demonstrated its superiority by easily downing the Luzernites by the score of 17-0. The day was an exceedingly disagreeable one and the game was played in a drizzling rain and hall. The field was practically a swamp and the fast runners of both teams had difficulty in keeping their feet.

As a result of this, both elevens depended principally upon line plunges for their gains, and all three of Scranton's touchdowns were made on tacklesback formations. Only once during the entire afternoon was High School's goal menaced, and only once did the Wilkes-Barre men appear to have the least chance to score. This held here Saturday night. A large occurred towards the end of the first

A series of terrific line drives by Weisenfluh and Eynon, and clever end runs by Tropp had brought the ball a yard from Wilkes-Barre's goal. There the Luzerne line held wonderfully and by magnificent defensive work held the Scrantonians for three more downs. In vain did Elwood and Weisenfluh batter fiercely at the guards and tackles. They held like iron men and it was Wilkes-Barre's ball.

On the first play Captain Goff, instead of punting out, which seemed to be the proper play, gave his own signal and by a flerce plunge broke through the line and had a clear field for a touchdown, with the exception of Quarterback O'Reilly, who waited for him at the 25-yard line.

The agile, little Wilkes-Barrean darted over the slippery field as though running on the best track in the country, cluded O'Reilly's dive for him, and dashed down the field, with the entire High School eleven in pursuit. On, on ne raced, cheered by the faint but plucky plaudits of a few Luzerne county school boys and school girls, who were in the grandstand. It looked like a sure touchdown, but little Schultz, who had been removed from center to fullback, brought him down viciously, after he had traveled eighty.

Goff's work was the feature of Wilkes-Barre's play, and Tropp and Weisenfluh excelled for Scranton. The line bucking of the latter was magnificent, and several times, after crashing

A dispatch was received yesterday from Fordhum College, agreeing to the terms offered by the St. Thomas College eleven and the tangle in the previous negotiations is now happily at an end. The game on Thanksgiving day will be between Fordham College. New York, and the strong St. Thomas College team of this city. Each of these colleges can pu gridiron a first class aggregation of players and patrons of the game will be treated to a superior article in the foot ball line. As considerable ex-pense will be incurred by the local players it is to be hoped that the attendance on the occasion will be unusually large.
