Alfred Dickinson upon "The Life and Works of S. S. Bach," and the musicals following by the members of the Conservatory faculty. The ladies wishing to join this section are cordially invited to be present.

WILKES-BARRIAN ARRESTED.—Edward Honevick was arrested yesterday by Constable William Cole on a warrant issued in Johnston, Donato, of Wilkes-Barre, at the residence of his wife, Mrs. Alice Honevick, who accused him of desertion and non-support. Honevick raised a hearing and ordered $500 bail before Alderman Hovey. Honevick claims that he came to this city with his wife during September and that after being here a short while she went back to Wilkes-Barre and immediately on her arrival issued a warrant for his arrest.

ANOTHER UNKNOWN KILLED.
Was Struck by a Passenger Train Near Taylor Station.
An unknown Hungarian was struck by a south-bound Lackawanna passenger train just north of the Taylor station at 2:15 yesterday afternoon, and instantly killed. His head was nearly severed from the body and so badly crushed as to make the features unrecognizable.

He was apparently 45 years of age and a mine worker. He wore a dark mustache and a shaggy beard of the same color. His clothing was of plain black material and pretty well worn.

AN ENJOYABLE MUSICAL.

Catholic Historical Society's "Sullivan" Evening.
The members of the Newman Magazines Club and Catholic Historical society enjoyed a musical last night under the patronage of Mrs. Joseph O'Brien. The evening was devoted to the compositions of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Dr. W. M. Reedy gave a brief sketch of the composer's life, including the history of his most celebrated operatic compositions and of his disagreement with W. S. Gilbert, the man with whom he collaborated for so many years.
Vocal selections from several of his operas were rendered by Miss Katherine Mongan and Mrs. J. W. Fitzgibbon, while Miss Nellie Beamish contributed a piano solo and Miss Harriet Ward a violin solo. Mrs. O'Brien gave a delightful rendering of "The Lost Chord."

Next Tuesday evening Miss Marion J. Bruno, of Yorkers, N. Y., will deliver a lecture on the work of Rossini, the celebrated French animal painter.

AGREE TO MEET IN CONFERENCE

Action of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce Concerning Second Class City Amendments.
Secretary Atherton, of the board of trade, sent communications a few weeks ago to the secretaries of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and Allegheny board of trade, asking the cooperation of those bodies in securing the passage of a new second class city law, or of amendments to the present law.

He received no reply and sent another communication asking what action had been taken regarding his first request. He received the following reply yesterday from the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce:

Dear Sir: Your inquiry of 4th inst. as to what action the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will take relating to the passage of a bill to amend the present law governing cities of the second class was referred to the committee on municipal affairs. Their report is that the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh has on two different occasions prepared and presented to the legislature of Pennsylvania bills to amend the law governing the city of Pittsburgh, but failed to secure the cooperation of those bodies in securing the passage of a new second class city law, or of amendments to the present law.

Secretary Atherton stated to a Tribune man that he would present this communication at the next meeting of the board of trade and that the committee on legislation and taxes be authorized to confer with the Pittsburgh and Allegheny people, that is, of course, if he receives a favorable response from the last named city in the meantime.

TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS A YEAR

That's the Amount President W. W. Scranton Says City Must Pay for Water After April 1.
Some two months ago a communication was received by councilmen from President W. W. Scranton, of the Scranton Gas and Water company, announcing that he would be obliged to raise the rate paid by the city for water for public purposes.

A special committee was appointed by select council to carefully consider the matter and yesterday afternoon, after several previous unsuccessful attempts, a meeting was held in the city clerk's office. There were present Select Councilmen J. E. Roche, C. E. Chittenden, T. C. Melvin and Frank Clemens, in addition to President Scranton himself.

The latter submitted a proposition, which was that the company would pay for all purposes, including street washing and parks, for $10,000 the company would furnish water for every purpose except for city buildings and parks, the latter two to be fixed by meter.

The proposition further provides that these shall be either a five or a ten-year contract, which shall go into effect on April 1, 1901, and that the rate shall include the present city limits only.

The committee had a whole lot of statistics from various cities showing the sum paid for water for public purposes. The members, after the meeting, refused to give these out for publication, but admitted that they showed that other cities were paying more than Scranton will pay if the company's proposition is accepted.

The committee didn't fix upon anything definite, but decided to report the conference to the council. The general sentiment among the members, however, seems to be in favor of accepting the $12,000 proposition and entering into a five-year contract, with the privilege of a five-year renewal.

"Do you think this proposition should be accepted?" asked a Tribune man of Councilman Chittenden, when the meeting was over.
"Why, it's got to be accepted," said he. "What else can we do? I am reminded of the Dutchman's reply to a man who asked him if his wife was resigned to her fate before she died. 'Well, by Jimminy, she had to be,' said the Dutchman. 'That's what we've got to do. We've got to be resigned.'"

The present water rate is $5,000 a year, so that the new rate is an increase of $7,000 per annum.

Scholarships.
The combined scholarship (a contract entitling the holder to both complete courses), now offered by the Scranton Business College for $100, is so liberal a contract that very many are purchasing it. This offer will soon be withdrawn.

MALONEY CASE WAS CALLED

QUESTION RAISED BY HIS ATTORNEY'S ACTION.

Wants to Go to Trial Without His Clients Attendance in Court but District Attorney Jones Objects. Matter Will Be Ruled Upon This Morning—McKinney Case Went Over Because of His Illness—Disposition Made of Many Small Cases Heard During the Day.

In criminal court yesterday morning when the case against E. J. Maloney was called, Mr. Maloney did not answer, being no longer a resident of this city, and District Attorney Jones made a motion to have his bail forfeited. This was objected to by Attorney Joseph O'Brien, who said he appeared for Mr. Maloney. Judge Archibald wanted to know if Mr. O'Brien was prepared to plead for his client and go to trial in his absence, and Mr. O'Brien said he was.

District Attorney Jones still objected, saying the defendant should be in court and that his recognition specified that he "should be and appear at the next term of quarter session." "This meant he should appear in person and not through the agency of an attorney. The matter was passed for the time being to enable the court and district attorney to acquaint themselves fully with the law bearing upon the disputed question.

Mr. Jones will call up the Maloney case again this morning and the question at issue will be ruled upon. Mr. Jones was not prepared to say yesterday whether or not the case will be put on trial in the event of the court deciding that the defendant can have counsel act for him during the trial.

Mr. Maloney is employed by the Central Pennsylvania Telephone and Supply company, and was indicted by the Lexow grand jury for attempting to bribe E. W. Zitzelmann in connection with a telephone ordinance. Mr. Zitzelmann was then common councilman from the Eighth ward but is now chief of the fire department.

Horatio T. Fellows was indicted by the same grand jury and by request of his counsel the case was allowed to go over until next week. It followed the Maloney case on the list.

Carl W. McKinney, charged with bribing councilmen, was also on the list for trial yesterday, but the certificate of his physician, Dr. P. H. Kearney, was presented showing that he is ill and the case went over until the next term.

A large number of small cases were heard before Judge Archibald yesterday, and the following were disposed of in other ways. They follow:

JUDGE ARCHIBALD.
When court opened in the morning the trial of Jacob Walz, charged by Mrs. Henrietta Schmidt with assault and battery, was resumed. Walz was found guilty.

At adjourning hour a jury was out deliberating on whether or not John Medon who runs a saloon at Mayfield, kicked and seriously injured the young son of Steve Markowitz. Medon alleges that he found the boy in his bedroom, helping himself to the contents of his till and shook him, but offered no other violence to him.

P. H. Cawley was found not guilty of assaulting John Krager, but was directed to pay the costs. The assault consisted of daubing paint on young Krager's face. Cawley is a painter and was painting a fence at Carbonate, but was annoyed considerably by Krager and other school boys, he said.

Joseph Phillips was acquitted of the charge of assaulting and battering his wife, Lottie Phillips, assault seemed to have been proved surely enough, but during the trial evidence leaked out which tended to show that possibly there was justification for Phillips' conduct and he was given the benefit of the doubt. The Phillips are now moving together.

Martin Jordan pleaded guilty to throwing stones at the house of Patrick McNally, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and costs and spend thirty days in jail.

A verdict of not guilty was taken in the case of Bridget Kelly, charged by Mary E. Jordan with being a common scold. Patrick Walsh pleaded guilty to selling liquor without a license and sentence was suspended until Saturday. Constable John Lanco, of the Fifteenth ward, was prosecutor.

In the case of Donato Gray and Bridget Kilgannon, charged with breaking a fence, by Mary Holly, a verdict of not guilty was taken.
No process were entered in these cases: Peter Spader, pointing pistol; Thomas E. Walsh, prosecutor; B. Runzo, larceny and receiving; Ira Mitchell, prosecutor.

Just before court adjourned a jury was sworn to try the case against John Luken, of Lloyd street, who is charged with selling liquor without a license. The prosecutor is Robert Wilson, of the Municipal league.

JUDGE EDWARDS.
George Yonahonis was charged with larceny by baillee by Gertrude Tomaszewicz. She alleges that she gave him $5 to buy furniture for her and he had it delivered at his own home and kept it. Yonahonis denied this version of the case and said the prosecutrix had loaned him $7 with which to buy furniture. The verdict was guilty.

A verdict of not guilty was taken and the costs paid in the case of Lewis Salkowski, charged with assault and battery by James Oleson. Oleson was charged with carrying concealed weapons. Joseph Myers is the prosecutor.

JUDGE CAMERON.
Mrs. Stewart Miller and her son, Otto Miller, of Archibald, were returned not guilty of having thrown stones at Mrs. Charlotte Smith. They were directed to pay the costs, however.
Wallace Oakley, of Jermy, mistook John Pritchard's pet parrot for a chicken hawk and shot and killed it. Pritchard had him indicted for malicious mischief, but the jury decided there was no malice shown and returned a verdict of not guilty. The costs were placed on the county.

Augustus Seamans, of this city, was found guilty of committing an assault and battery on his wife.
J. A. Sargent did not appear to prosecute William Weil for breaking a fence and Isabella Weil for being a common scold. Verdicts of not guilty were taken and the costs placed on the county.

John Marovich, Joseph Nilpka and Mike Bliss, who hail from "Blazing Starred" section above Carbonate, were out on trial, charged with committing an aggravated assault and battery on Peter Cronik. The prosecutor was terribly beaten, his head being covered with scars where he was struck with stones. The defendants claimed that they were guilty of the assault and one of them displayed an ear, a part of which was gone, as evidence that he was himself badly hurt in the melee. He said someone bit the missing piece off. The case was given to the jury just before adjourning hour.

Bellotti Entered Bail.
Judge Kelly made an order yesterday, allowing Samuel Bellotti, who is charged with the murder of Edward Herbert at Carbonate, to enter bail. He fixed the amount at $5,000 and the following qualified: Angelo Tolomeo, Antonio Scabio and Giovanni Pridze.

LAST DAY OF CONVENTION

TWENTIETH CENTURY FORWARD MOVEMENT STARTED.

Papers Read by Rev. L. L. Sprague, Rev. C. M. Surdam, Rev. M. S. Hard, D. D., and Rev. C. M. Giffin, D. D.—Discussions on the "Power of Personal Interview" and "How Entrance to the Church is Made Easy"—Pentecostal Service Held Last Evening.

The second day of the Twentieth Century Forward Movement convention was somewhat interfered with by the weather, but the programme was carried out and enjoyed by many clergymen and church workers. Some excellent papers were presented and discussed. Rev. Herbert Ellsworth was appointed to act during the remainder of the sessions. On invitation of Rev. Dresser, the next meeting will be held in Ashley.

Revs. Hillier, Dresser and Dr. Griffin were appointed a committee on programme. Rev. Herbert Ellsworth was elected speaker of the next regular session of the association, and Rev. James Penninger, alternate. Rev. Judson Bailey was elected preacher and Rev. Henry, alternate.

DR. SPRAGUE'S PAPER.
Dr. Sprague read his paper on "Our Schools in the Twentieth Century Movement." It proved to be a brilliant effort, and among other thoughts contained the following:

Our schools in the twentieth century movement and the relation of education to religion. History teaches us that the priests and children of priests received the highest forms of instruction in the schools. This instruction related to history, geography and other forms of language, to astronomy and to mathematics.

We may infer that if the education of Egypt was not absolutely dominated by the religion of the nation, the priests at least were leaders in educational work. In all the nations we find that education was inspired in whole or in part by their religions. All the schools and universities fitted from their original religious character more or less into civil service establishments, their aim being to prepare for citizenship and services for the state rather than for character and immortal destiny.

No one of these nations had come to the true conception of education. No one of these nations had a man in his true worth. But the world needed to have introduced into its intellectual training another factor. The intellect as well as the heart of man needed a Savior. There remained to supply this factor, the advent of that immeasurable life among men, that loving and intelligent God-man, that majestic, supreme figure that stands in our time reckoning between the centuries, Jesus of Nazareth, the carpenter's son. The Savior gave to the world a new doctrine of educational thought. He enunciated the great law of love, the brotherhood of man, and the fatherhood of God. He demonstrated the fact of life after death by the resurrection of His own body. He taught the equality of men, that God is no respecter of persons.

The schools of the pagan world did not readily yield to the influences of the Savior's advent. As the world became Christianized, true to its instincts, took up the cause of education and has never relinquished its grasp. In our own Christian land higher education has been placed largely under the control of the church.

In looking at the origin of all the early colleges that have had any considerable influence in moulding our national life we find that religious influences are almost invariably its chief, were the controlling factors in their establishment.

Education is the hand maiden of the church. We must remember that God has given to man an immortal soul as well as a corporeal body. He has placed before him a yolk as well as a duty, and the two in the great purpose of God are in original and absolute harmony.

The intellect cannot be safely developed without regard to the moral sense. Methodism has been wise in linking to her gospel train the palace car of education.

PAPER DISCUSSED.
Rev. S. Moore, D. D., of Kingston, discussed the paper, and also spoke on Wyoming seminary. Rev. G. A. Cure, of this city, opened the discussion of "A Positive Christian Experience, the Necessary for a Christian Worker." He was followed by Rev. Stephen Jay, of Wyoming, and Rev. Will H. Miller, of Wilkes-Barre.

Rev. Harned was first to speak in the Christian Workers' conference and open parliament. He was followed by Drs. H. Hillier, Sprague and Sprague. Rev. Chaffee addressed the convention, and was followed by Dr. Griffin. Prayer was offered by Rev. Miller. The committee on resolutions appointed were Revs. Thorpe, Jay and Henry.

The noon hour was devoted to post-prandial exercises. The ladies of the church served dinner and several short addresses were afterwards made. Rev. Sweet was toastmaster, and the speakers were: Rev. W. H. Pearce, of Wilkes-Barre; Rev. C. M. Giffin, of Scranton; Rev. S. Moore, of Kingston; Rev. M. S. Hard, of Chicago; Rev. W. H. Hillier, of Wilkes-Barre; Rev. W. L. Thorpe, of Plymouth, and Rev. Vaughn, of Maple Grove.

When the afternoon session was begun, the attendance was increased by many church workers. Here, E. W. Young, of Dallas, conducted the devotional exercises, and prayer was offered by Rev. Murdoch.

The first paper presented was by Rev. C. M. Surdam, of Pittston, on "Power of Personal Interview." This was one of the strongest and best papers of the convention, and evoked much comment from the pastors in discussion. It contained, among other suggestions, the following:

PERSONAL INTERVIEW.
This subject suggests one of the chief agencies to be employed in the church work. The leaders of this movement and the whole thinking church seem to be impressed with the idea that the powerful agency in this work will be personal.

In giving prominence to personal interview as a potent agency for soul winning in the twentieth century we are not inferring that it has not been used in the past, for Christ and His disciples made full use of it. But later the power of personal interview has been proved in the experience of our own fathers. The latter experience has taught us that the result alone will not to any great extent reach that great number who are separated from the house of God by the desert of indifference and the larger proportion of those who are putting the best energies of brain and heart and brawn in the labor for the visible and tangible, because to them the unseen and eternal are not naturally and immediately present.

There is one fact that as personal soul winning we must not forget that in each human being on this globe there is an instinct or a something that makes him feel that no other person is quite as important as himself.

Every soul winner should work upon this universal instinct to win men for Christ. The power of personal interview will be seen not only in results as computed by figures, but in the characters of the soul winners and the souls won. Those who would gain souls by personal interview will be sure that their own souls are surely saved and that their lives will bear the keen inspection of those whose souls they seek. He who
