six strikes and at the end of the game had gone without his 50 advance. Paul Pons, the French wreatler, was bissed as he left the hall in Chicago, Monday night, where he met one Rooney, a big Windy City policeman. In the early part of the match the Gallie giant threw the Chicagoan against the ropes which precipitated both men out of the ring and to the floor below. Referee Siler conislered this a foul and gave a full to Rooney, at which Pons claimed he had wrestled fair and clused to continue unless the decision was changed. The match ended in a fixele.

the wrestling game and more than any circum-stance tend to strengthen the howls of "fake" which usually follow every mat contest. Gould, Yale's strong end, has been elected aptain of the 1901 eleven. Gordon Brown, this year's great guard and captain, leaves college with the class of 1990, and his departure will materially weaken next year's team. A large number of this year's stars accompany Brown, and next season's aggregation of sons of Eli will not be as dangerous as the invincible team of this productive of much gridiron talent.

Lafayette's foot ball team will have an ex-cellent leader next season in Bachman, center of this year's team. In his Freshman year at Eas-ton he played guard and it is not unlikely that he will go back to that place next fall, as he will be much abler to lead the team from the quard position, than center. Fred Clarke, manager of Pittsburg's base ball team, made strong efforts at the meeting of the league magnates last week to strengthen his Pirate team by trading with others of the big Leaguers, but was unable to arrange any satis-factory deals. This fate befalls the leading personages of the play and the auditor follows them through the most exciting scenes and adventures, culminating in their fortunate escape from the land of exile and their embarkation for America.

Chauncey Olcott Coming.

Chauncey Olcott will play a one night engage-ment in the Lyceum theater next Wednesday night in a revival of the Irish comedy drama. "Mayourneen." It was in "Mayourneen" that I Mr. Olcott made his first appearance as a star and won the success to which he added in later years by his other characteristic productions. He is not only a comedian of recognized ability, but his ballad singing is a popular feature of all his entertainments. At each performance he sings several songs that theater-goers will recall with pleasure, among them "Molly O," "The Christmas Tree," "She and I Together," "Mayourneen" is one of the pleasing things in the way of Irish comedy drama.
