THE MINERS TAKE ACTION.

Adopt Resolutions Pledging Sympathy and Aid at Their Meeting Sunday.

Important meeting of delegates representing the locals of the United Mine Workers of America in the territory embraced between Forest City and Olyphant was held on Sunday. The two strikes which affect the city are more or less interested, were brought up and discussed. The passing of the following two resolutions were voted for unanimously.

The first deals with the strike of the street car men, and is:

Whereas, it has come to our notice that the employees of the Scranton Railway company have ceased work in order to better their condition of employment, and

Whereas, their employer, Mr. Hillman, has refused to grant them any concessions whatever; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the representatives of the various local unions of the U. M. W. of A., from Forest City to Olyphant, assembled on Dec. 24, 1900, in Leader hall, Carbondale, Pa., do hereby extend our sympathy and moral support to the strikers; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the union men of our city, as well as others, not to patronize said company, and at the same time discourage all men from taking the places of the strikers during the present trouble.

The business done in Carbondale stores in connection with the Christmas holidays has been very good. At many of the stores yesterday the stocks had run very low before evening, especially in the jewelry stores, which seemed to be doing the bulk of the business. At the three principal jewelry stores in town silverware in toilet sets, manicure sets, fancy pins and novelties were in the call, and they were depleted of their assortments early in the day. Next to them the clothing were the busiest people in town. The streets were filled with shoppers in the afternoon and early evening, but after 9 o'clock the great mass had gone home to prepare for the coming of Santa Claus.

held at the banking house on Tuesday, January 8, 1901, between the hours of 2 and 3 p. m.

Obituary.

Mrs. Mary Connell, of Brooklyn street, died on Sunday evening about 9 o'clock. She had been failing in health for many months, being afflicted with bronchitis. She was born in County Mayo, Ireland, and came to Carbondale direct from the old country in 1846. She had since resided here. She was a member of the Holy Rosary society and of St. Rose church. Her husband, Patrick Connell, died about six years ago. She is survived by three sons and one daughter, John J., William and Thomas P. Connell and Mrs. Hugh Finlan. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. After a requiem mass in St. Rose church, interment will be made in St. Rose cemetery.

The Holiday Trade.

The business done in Carbondale stores in connection with the Christmas holidays has been very good. At many of the stores yesterday the stocks had run very low before evening, especially in the jewelry stores, which seemed to be doing the bulk of the business. At the three principal jewelry stores in town silverware in toilet sets, manicure sets, fancy pins and novelties were in the call, and they were depleted of their assortments early in the day. Next to them the clothing were the busiest people in town. The streets were filled with shoppers in the afternoon and early evening, but after 9 o'clock the great mass had gone home to prepare for the coming of Santa Claus.

To Be Repeated.

It was said yesterday that owing to the stormy weather on last Sunday night and the comparatively poor congregation due to it, that the programme of special music given at the Methodist Episcopal church on that evening will be repeated in its entirety next Sunday evening. Miss Kilpatrick, who was to have sung a soprano solo in the anthem, "Hymn of the Nativity," was suffering from a severe cold, and when the hymn was sung, she relieved her, rendering the part in a splendid manner. It is also said that the Congregational church will repeat its fine musical programme on next Sunday evening for the same reason.

A Dinner Party.

A family dinner party will be held today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Searles, in Peckville. Among those who will be in attendance are: Mrs. W. B. Searles, Mrs. T. J. Maxey and son Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coles, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Joslin, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Box and daughter Alice. Also present will be Mrs. C. D. Sands, of Waterdale, N. Y., who is visiting here.

Councilmen Celebrate.

Last night was the regular meeting for common council, but the city fathers were out playing Santa Claus and not a single one showed up at the municipal building. There was very little business scheduled, however, and it is probable the next meeting will be deferred until the date for the first session in the new century.

An Error Corrected.

In the report of the election of officers in yesterday's Tribune the names of the society should have been Forsters of America instead of Ancient Forsters of America, as the two bodies are separate and distinct organizations. Court Lily also elects Francis Smoedeker as chief ranger and Fred Fledertach as sub-chief ranger.

About Early Closing.

One of the most important matters which will come before the meeting of the Retail Merchants' association on the first Monday in January will be the question of early closing, which has been somewhat complicated by the system of semi-monthly pay recently adopted by several of the large corporations.

Must Be Vaccinated.

The local board of health has decided to enforce vaccination for the prevention of smallpox. The matter has been under consideration for some time, but as yet no definite steps have been taken. The law will, however, probably be made operative early next month.

Meetings Scheduled for Tonight.

A Fine Christmas Gift.

George Spall, of Ninth avenue, received a fine Christmas present a day ahead of the holiday. His wife presented him with a bouncing baby girl yesterday morning, and both the mother and daughter are doing nicely.

His Foot Injured.

A Polisher or Slav, employed in the Northwest mine, was caught by a fall of rock yesterday, but escaped with a badly crushed foot.

Family Gathering.

A family gathering will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Watt, on North Church street, today.

Communion.

Holy communion will be celebrated tomorrow, Thursday and Friday mornings in Trinity church, they being holy days in the Episcopal church.

Christmas at Postoffice.

The local postoffice will be open from 7 a. m. to noon tomorrow. The carriers will make one general delivery and the lobby will be open for lock-box owners from 3.30 to 6.30 p. m. No registry or money order business will be done.

Raymond Histed, who has been extra operator at the Western Union office, has been promoted to a responsible position at Master Mechanic Bennie's office at the machine shops.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

The postoffice will be opened today for the delivery of letters as follows: Morning, from 10:20 until noon, and afternoon, from 2:30 until 4 o'clock. All mails will be dispatched as usual. The Christmas exercises were held last evening at the First Baptist and Congregational churches. The entertainments were very enjoyably rendered, and the full joyous feeling of Yuletide were reflected in the happy faces of the little ones. At the Congregational church the programme was of unusual merit. The cantata, "Santa Claus in Flight," being the principal feature. The children were trained by Mr. David Hill. Mr. Michael Walsh, of the University of Georgetown, and Claude Stocker, of Lafayette, are both home for the Christmas holidays. Dr. Stanton, of North Scranton, is in town Sunday. John Carey, of Waverly, formerly of this town, is visiting friends here. George Berry, of Homestead, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Berry, of Fourth street. Mr. T. M. Griffiths, of Second street, was taken seriously ill of acute bronchitis on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Solomon and children, of Peckville, are spending the Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Solomon, of Main street. The Christmas exercises of the Methodist Episcopal church will take place this evening. The children have been training for the play for some time past under the leadership of Prof. Stevens. The singing will be accompanied by the Sunday school orchestra. Mrs. Badger, of Conditine, N. Y., is visiting at home of her son, Councilman Badger, of Cemetery street. John Osborne and Naboth Williams are spending the holidays in Candor, N. Y.

OLYPHANT.

The members of the Presbyterian Sunday school produced a very pretty cantata, entitled "All Hail to Santa Claus," in the social room of the church last evening. The young people in the cast performed their parts in a very creditable manner and greatly amused and delighted the large and appreciative audience. At the conclusion of the performance the scholars and their friends repaired to the Sunday school room and presents were distributed from a large and brilliantly lighted Christmas tree. At the Susquehanna Street Baptist church the annual Christmas tree exercises were held last evening. An interesting programme was given, after which Christmas gifts were received by the scholars and teachers. The funeral of Patrick O'Malley will take place from the home of his brother, James O'Malley, on Dunmore street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The funeral of Hannah, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William James, of Sixth street, Blakely, was held yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. George Hague, pastor of the Susquehanna Street Baptist church. Interment was made in Union cemetery. Edward Ferguson, of Newark, N. J., is spending a few days at his home here. The postoffice will be open today between the hours of 8 and 12 o'clock a. m. Mrs. W. H. Kennedy, of Green Ridge, was a visitor in town yesterday. Mrs. John Elliott, of New York, is visiting relatives at this place. John Dempsey has returned home from a trip to West Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. John Walkingshaw, of Wilkes-Barre, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Jones, of Lackawanna street.

DECKVILLE.

A society home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. V. Mace, Main street, at high noon yesterday. The occasion was the marriage of their accomplished daughter, Miss Louisa, to Mr. William M. Denison, of Lanesboro, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. Thomas, pastor of the Peckville Baptist church. Mr. Denison is a highly respected young man and holds the position of principal of the Lanesboro public schools. Mrs. Levy Dayton, of Olyphant, and Mrs. James, of Peckville, were guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Joseph Woodworth, on the Sabbath. This morning a shooting match will be held at Eversly's grove grounds, between Frank Leuthold and Richard Taylor, for $25 a side. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Browning, of Bellevue, visited relatives here on the Sabbath. Krause's Headache Capsules are unlike anything prepared in America. They were first prepared by Dr. Krause, Germany's famous court physician, long before antipyrine was discovered, and are almost marvelous, so speedily do they cure the most distressing cases. Price 25c. Sold by Matthew Bros.

DICKSON CITY.

Postmaster McPherson has had a telephone placed in his office for the benefit of the public. Jacob Elman removed his household goods to Scranton yesterday and will reside there for the future. John Shafer, of Scranton, has broken ground for a double dwelling near No. 1 school house. Joseph Gilgallon, of New York, is spending Christmas with his parents on Lincoln street. Edward Richmond, of Pottsville, is

PRESIDENTS AND CABINETS.

Second Term Changes Used to Be More Rare Than of Late Years
From Leslie's Weekly.
In the early days of the government changes among cabinet officers during the service of the president who appointed them were rarer than they have been since. Washington made no alteration in his cabinet at the beginning of his second term, but there were some retirements in it before that term ended. All the members who were in Washington's cabinet at its close were retained by Adams at his accession to power, Adams belonging to the same party as Washington. Jefferson and Madison each made only one change in their cabinets at the beginning of their second terms, and Monroe made none. Jackson, the next president who was re-elected, made many changes at the beginning of his second term, and at other times in his service. All the men who were in Lincoln's cabinet at the close of the first term were continued in his second. Boutwell's resignation as secretary of the treasury was the only change made in Grant's cabinet at the beginning of his second term, although many changes occurred before and after. Cleveland, the only other president except McKinley who was elected twice, had an interval of retirement between his first and his second term, and constructed an entirely new cabinet when he entered office the second time.

Tyler and Johnson, two of the vice-presidents who became president by the death of the president, retained their predecessors' cabinets, but trouble began soon after their service began, and in most of the cabinets stepped down. In the case of Fillmore and Arthur, the other two vice-presidents whom death sent to the White House, there was a sweeping change in the cabinet when they entered power, except that Robert T. Lincoln, one of his predecessors' appointees, remained in the post of secretary of war through Arthur's term.
The tenure of office of members of cabinets has been very insecure in the past half or two-thirds of a century. Only one president ever retained his official family unbroken during his entire service. This was Franklin Pierce, who was in office but one term.

Account of a Visit to Them, with a Discussion of the Gems.

From the London Standard.
A journey of exploration to what are known as the Emerald Mines of Cleopatra is described by D. A. MacAlister in the new number of the Geographical Journal. They lie in the mountain range that extends for a long distance parallel to the Red sea, and a few leagues west of its coast, in a latitude rather south of Eouf, parts of the region, such as the port of Abydos, are better known than it is now and more thickly peopled, about twenty centuries ago, and only during the present one, so far as we know, have been isolated, explored, and their way into the treasure house of ancient Egypt.
That it was known to the Romans is certain, and the mines now revisited used to send their treasures to the gem cutters of the capital. Ever since then the stone has been highly esteemed.

Presidents and Cabinets.

In the middle ages few jewels commanded a higher price; for, in addition to its beauty, fancy endowed it with medicinal virtues. It was prescribed as a specific against epilepsy and a cure for dysentery. Like the sapphire, it guarded the chastity of the wearer, and resented any trespass by breaking into pieces. Though a more precious stone, it was less valued, nor do we countenance the aquamarine or beryl, which is practically the same mineral, the tint of the emerald being due to the presence of a small quantity of the metallic chromite. These mines of the northern Ebal seem to have remained untouched since the decline and fall of Rome caused them to be deserted. According to Mr. MacAlister, the workings are only shallow passages, hardly more than burrows, excavated in the emerald-bearing schist, and sometimes extending for a long distance. Many scattered ruins may also be seen—dwellings, watch towers and tombs. In these, no doubt, the mining population used to live, and the differences in style suggest they were occupied for a long time. Some are mere hovels, very roughly built; others show a more careful construction; while a third group are well finished. Mr. MacAlister also found three rock-cut temples, for the soft stone lends itself to that kind of architecture. He thinks that their pillars, though very primitive in style, indicate Egyptian designs, with traces of Greek influence. Now standing this, there was in those times a settled instead of a nomad population, and travelers must have been rather frequent, for in one place many drawings of persons, animals and tribal marks are scratched upon the rocks. The subjects are various enough: family scenes and fights—in which the weapons are swords and spears, bows and arrows—camels and dromedaries, horses, dogs, goats and oxen, besides lions, gazelle and ostriches.

Dr. J. W. Bates of Corfu, N. Y., states: "A most remarkable case has come under my hands of late and has fully convinced me of the wonderful power of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills over diseases of the Nerves."

"A young lady who was treated for over two years for epilepsy by two doctors was given up to die. I found that her sickness was due to nervous troubles, due to menstrual derangements, and prescribed four of Dr. Chase's Nerve Pills a day, after meals and at bed-time. Since that time she has not had a single bad spell. Her health has rapidly improved, she has gained about fifteen pounds in weight, and I do not hesitate to state that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills have saved her life and restored her to health."
