A Beautiful Christmas Cantata

Given at the First M. E. Church. The Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal church held its Christmas jubilation last evening. It partook of the nature of a cantata by Gabriel. Gifts were exchanged between pupils and teachers. The entertainment was given in the church auditorium, which was decorated artistically by long streamers of evergreen around the walls and a lattice work of ground pine around the platform occupied by the chorus. Over the heads of the singers was one of the most unique designs ever seen here. It was a large staff of music, comprising a complete measure, with words and music, with the treble cleff, 2 flats, five lines and rests, full, quarter, eighth and sixteenth notes, and the words, "Glory, glory, glory in the highest!" This design was seven feet high and the five lines were made of evergreen.

The audience was large and enthusisatic over the rendition of the music The chorus was composed of thirtysir voices, and this was aided by twenty voices in the choir. ## At the Presbyterian Church.

The Prerbyterian Sunday school observed Christmas day in the auditorium of the church, which was decorated by a profusion of green wreaths and ropes of ground pine. On the easterly wall was the inscription in large green letters: "The Twentieth Century Offers Greeting." On the platform were two huge Christmas trees, I handsomely trimmed with tinsel and ornaments and beneath and around was about a load of mysterious packages. which the children eyed with expanded optics. Every child received a remembrance and the teachers and officers of the school were alike fortunate The entertainment was devoted almost wholly to exercises by the primary children, and they began at 6.30 o'clock to enable the little ones to get home early after their unusually eventful day. The pupils and teachers manifested their affectionate regard for each other by a mutual exchange of gifts and each pupil and teacher and officer was remembered. The superintendent, Edwin C. Harnden, carried off the honors of the evening as a recipient, being first presented with a handsome Bible by the Sunday school, and then, as a token of esteem, with a large oaken rocker, richly upholstered, by the members of the parish. #### First Congregational Church.

At the First Congregational church divine services were held yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock. This was the first early morning service held on Christmas day in the Congregational church of this city, and the attendance of yesterday, which was very large. gives assurance of future services of this character, The pastor, Rev. Mr. Elliott, delivered a carefully prepared sermon on "The Incarnation of God in Christ." The sermon was a purely theological presentation, proving the fact of the word being made flesh and that Christ was either divine or like other men He was not good. The sermon showed deep study, and like the one of Sunday night, has received wide commendation.

As a concluding thought, Mr. Elliott said: "We are sitting here on the anniversary of our Lord's birth, and only a few days before the close of the century. In the nineteen centuries that have elapsed since Christ was born Christianity has left its imprint upon the face of the earth to an extent that even defies superstition. The closing century has grasped its oportunity, and the sweep of the Christian religion has been far in excess of all other religions combined. The world is better, and men are coming into closer union. Only a few more steps and denominationalism, sectionalism, dogmatism, tecclesiasticism will be swept aside and in their stead will be erected a broad, liberal creed, based upon love to Christ and love to man."

Christmas Exercises Tonight.

Tonight the Sunday school children of the Congregational church will have their turn at holiday making. The large auditorium of the church will be given over to the little ones, their teachers and friends and relatives. and appropriate Christmas exercises will be presented. ## A Beautiful Present.

After the performance of "The Woman in Black" at the Grand on Monday evening the members of Jack Hoeffler's Stock company had a merry Christmas celebration at the American hotel. The manager, Mr. Hoeffler, presented all of his actors with an appropriate gift, and then the members of the company, nineteen in all, gave him a beautiful token of esteem in the shape of a magnificent Elks' charm set with diamonds and rubies, of solid gold, worth more than $100. The company then sat down to an elaborate banquet and had a royal time during the early hours of Christmas morning.

THE NEW CHURCH.

The First Masses Said in the New Church of Our Lady of Mount Car-

The first service in the new church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, erected by the Italian Catholics of this city, was the midnight mass, which began at 12 o'clock Monday night. The services were held in the basement of the building, the church proper not being ready for occupancy. The interior had been lavishly trimmed with evergreen and other decorations and under the illumination of the incandescent lights and altar candles presented a very pleasing appearance. By the time set for the opening of the services the room had been comfortably filled, there being in the congregation many members of St. Rose church and others. The mass was said by Rev. Anthony Cerruti, the pastor of the church. He was assisted by a young man named Caterino, of Archbald, who is a theo-logical student at Allegany college. The choral parts of the mass were rendered by members of St. Rose's choir, who had kindly volunteered to assist n the Christmas and opening services of the new church. The singers were Misses Nellie and Mame Killeen, Mary McCawley, Josephine Bradley, Gertrude Wiseley, Emma Swartz and Katie Flannelly. Prof. John Firth, presided at the organ. The various selections were very nicely rendered and reflected creditably on the ability of the singers. Father Cerruti spoke a few words of thanks to the singers and to the congregation and then delivered sermon on "The Nativity," in the Italian language. The midnight mass lasted until about 1.30 a. m.

Yesterday morning at 10.30 o'clock high mass was celebrated. Father Cerruti, assisted by Mr. Caterino, officlated. The same members of St. Rose's choir who sang at the early service were also present at the high mass, and in the instrumental accompaniment Prof. Firth was assisted by Fiore Brothers' orchestra of Scranton. The service was one of even greater interest than the one preceding it and the congregation was Umited only by the capacity of the room.

The erection of the pretty new church building reflects great credit upon the congregation and in their efforts toward the religious upbuilding of the Carbondale Italians, Father Cerruti and his supporters should receive he hearty encouragement of the public. When the new church is completed and ready for dedication, which will be some time about Easter, a more elaborate service will be arranged. The main room, or auditorium, of the building will be given especial attention and every effort will be made to make the edifice a credit not only to the Italian residents of Carbondale, but to the city.

TWO WEDDINGS AT ST. ROSE.

Malone-Houston Martin Malone and Miss Alice Hous-

ion have the honor of having been the irst couple to be united in the bonds of wedlock in the handsome new church of St. Rose of Lima The ceremony making them husband and wife was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by Very Rev. T. F. Coffey, V. G., pastor of the church, before a large number of the delighted friends of the happy couple. The bride was attired in a pretty gown of lavender colored material trimmed with pearl. She wore a hat to match Her maid, Miss Winnifred Haggerty, was dressed in slate color, the gown being trimmed with lace. Joseph Connor, of Dundaff street, was best man. The wedding party enjoyed a drive to Olyphant and return, after which they enjoyed a (wedding supper, served at the newly furnished home on Pike street, where they will at once go to houseskeeping. Both young people are widely known in Carbondale, and their large circle of friends join in wishing for them many more merry Christmases and a long life of marital felicity.

Mahady-Coleman.

At 3:30 yesterday afternoon Father Coffey was called upon to unite in marriage another of his congregation. At that hour he said the words which married Miss Elizabeth Coleman, of this city, to John Mahady, of Archbald. The ceremony was a very pretty one, and was witnessed by a large The bridal couple was attended by Miss Mary Padden, a cousin of the bride, and Martin Mahady, a brother of the groom, and also of Archbald, was best man. The bride was attired in brown broadcloth with satin trimmings and hat to match and her maid was costumed in ravy blue and a black Gainesborough hat. The gertlemen were the conventional black. Following the ceremony a quiet reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas Farrell, on Sand street. The young couple will immediately go to housekeeping in a cozily furnished home on Barrett street. Both the contracting parties are very popular in this city and Archbald, and Mr. Mahady will be cordially welcomed to a place in Carontiale's social circles, in which his bride is already a prime favorite. They have the best wishes of their host of friends in their new life so auspiciously begun.

Big Holiday Audiences.

At the Grand opera house yesterday here were the two largest audiences been gathered there this season. At the matinee "A Daughter of Corsica" was presented with a strong cast by the Hoeffler Stock company. Every seat in the house was occupied, and it was necessary to turn away over 200 persons for lack of room. In the evening, when "Alone in Greater New York" was the bill, the same scene of a crowded house was presented. The company at the Grand this week is a strong one. Mr. Hoeffler has nineteen capable actors in his company and carries his own special scenery and accessories. Between the acts sr cialties were presented by DeHollis and Valora, jugglers; June Agnott singing specialties; McMillan and Grey comedy sketch artists; Bruce Richardson, singing and dancing comedian; Master Paul Brady, the famous boy madrigal, and the Jack Hoeffler quartette. The following presents are

The Street Car Strike.

The local trolley men have opened up strike headquarters in The Leader building, in the store lately occupied by the striking miners. Here the men while away their time in discussing the situation and in various games of cards while awaiting the termination of the trouble. A long-distance 'phone has been put in which is used to send and to receive reports from Scranton, the headquarters of the strike. About thirty Carbondale men are involved in the strike and they all have proven true to their organization. Not a wheel turned in this city on the railway tracks yesterday, and last evening one of the resting motormen told a Tribune man facetiously that the strikers intended to paint the rails tomorrow to keep them from rusting. The men in their strike headquarters are very comfortable, with a glowing fire and plenty of light, instead of driving a rickety car through the dark and cold,
