WILLIAM PENN MORGAN RE-MEMBERED BY RED MEN.

Special Meeting Held in His Honor Last Evening, at Which Resolutions of Respect Were Adopted. Officers of Hyde Park Lodge, No. 339, F. and A. M. Installed-Second Night of the New Home Festival-Other Paragraphs of General Interest.

William Penn Morgan, ex-outside foreman at the Diamond colliery, who leaves tomorrow for Vintondale, Cambria county, Pa., to superintend the bituminous coal mines there, operated by the Lackswanns Iron and Steel company, was tendered a farewell reception in Red Men's hall last evening at a special meeting of Panooka tribe, No. 141, Improved Order of Red Men. Incidental to the reception Mr. Morgan was presented with a Morris chair and the following resolutions of rework in our tribe, therefore, be it Resolved, By Panooka tribe, No. 141, Improved Order of Red Men, in special council assembled that we hereby testify and express our appre-ciation of his worth as a hunter, warrior and chief, and of his increasing energy, and tireless labors for the upbuilding and advancement of this tribe and the order, ever since his adoption,

Resolved, That this tribe wishes him God-speciand unfalling success in his new hunting grounds and commends him to the public at large, and the brothers of the order as an honest, upright and conscientious citizen and Red Man. Evan Walters, Thomas A. Davies, John W.

The chair was presented on behalf of the tribe, the presentation speech being made by Chairman Pichler, to which Mr. Morgan feelingly responded. Mallcarrier William D. Morgan presided over the meeting, and remarks were made and songs were sung by a number of the Red Men present. Phonograph selections were given under the direction of Arthur Davis, and a smoker was enjoyed by the gentlemen present.

Mr. Morgan is a past sachem of the tribe, and has been an active worker in the organization for many years. He is also a member of the Jackson Street Baptist church, and several other fraternal orders, the members literary recital to be given under the auspices of the choir of the Plymouth Congregational church on New Year's night is nearly completed, and a glimpse over the list of participants insures one of the best concerts of the season.

In addition to the Elm Park church quartette and other talent already announced, Miss Ethel Bevan and Gerrude Freeman have been engaged. The former will render plane selections and the latter will recite. Both of these ladies possess natural talents, and inasmuch as they are seldom heard in public, their many friends will be pleased to have the opportunity of listening to them.

The ladies in charge of the Japanese wedding and entertainment to be given in the First Welsh Baptist church New Year's eye, are busily engaged in rehearsing their parts, and promise a delightful is welly in the way of a church entertainment. The programme will be out in a few days.

Twenty-first Ward Caucus.

The Democratic voters of the Twenty-first ward will hold a caucus next Saturday afternoon, between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the offices of common council, constable, register of voters, assessor of voters, judge of election and inspector of The nominations will be election. made for the regular February elec-

The present incumbent, M. J. Norton, of Jackson street, is a candidate for re-election to common council. Joseph Dean, the ward constable, has resined. Thus far no other candidates for common council have been mentioned but Mr. Norton.

In all probability the Republicans will name a strong candidate to oppose Norton, as there is an increased Republican vote in the ward, especialy in the First district

The suspension of traffic on the street car lines interferred but little with the attendance at St. Brenden's new home festival last evening, and the crowd of young people present enjoyed themselves immensely. The "Musee" attracted many of the curious ones and several new features were noticeable. An ingenious fire escape has been added to the collection of curlos, and many other novelties are expected today.

The entertainers last evening were Sidney Hughes, who sang a new song composed by himself entitled "The Home Among the Pennsylvania Hills," the music for which was written by Miss Anna Sullivan. The composition is meritorious and is destined to become popular. For an encore he sang 'We're Proud of the Irish Now."

Master James McHugh sweetly renlered "A Song of the South," and Thomas Larkin, a student at Ningara university, recited J. Whitcomb Riley's 'Afor' My Dancin' Days Were Over,' and Cassius' speech to Brutus, from Julius Caesar. Mr. Larkin is a pleasing speaker, with excellent stage pres-

Fine Programme Rendered Under the Direction of Superintendent Dan Powell-Death of Miss Mary Rooney at Her Home on Elm Street-Funeral of Howard Potter, the Popular Young Man Who Was Killed on the D., L. and W. Road. News Notes and Personals.

The Christmas exercises of the Sunday school of the Methodist Episcopal church were held Tuesday night in the presence of a large throng of the memers and their friends. The interior of the church was prettily decorated with evergreens and there were two large Christmas trees on the platform have Christmas trees on the platform heavfly loaded with gifts for the children present.

The tree provided by the Epworth league, with its handsome trimmings and many colored electric lights, was a distinctive feature of the evening. The exercises were presided over by the superintendent, Daniel Powell, under whose efficient leadership the school has reached its present flourishing condition. The following programme was very well rendered, showing the result of the careful training given by those having it in charge:

Death of Miss Rooney.

Miss Mary Rooney, who resided with her brother, Thomas Rooney, at their home on Elm street, was found dead in bed yesterday morning. She had not been in the best of health during the past few days, but was able to spend Christmas evening with her sister, Mrs. Frank Mongan. She remained there until about 10 o'clock, when she started for home, accompanied by her little nephew, Eugene Mongan, who went to spend the night.

She slept with her nephew who, when he awakened yesterday morning, made an effort to arouse his aunt, and falling to do so became alarmed and called her brother from his room nearby, who found that she was cold in death. She was a young woman who during her 30 years of life had devoted much time in looking after the comfort of others, and sne will be mourned by many who will remember her kindesses. She is survived by her sister, Mrs. Frank Mongan, and Thomas Rooney. The funeral will take place from St. Mary's church on Friday morning at 9 o'clock. A requiem the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. mass will be celebrated, after which interment will be made in St. Mary's

Potter Funeral.

The funeral of Howard Potter, who met death on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad on Sunday morning, was held yesterday afternoon from St. Mark's Episcopal church. The services were in charge of King Solomon lodge, Free and Accepted Masons. Delegations were also present from the Knights of Pythias and the Brotherhood of Railway Firemen. The remains were taken on the 2.30 train to Hollisterville, where interment was made.

The pallbearers were: Eugene Barton, Andrew Marsh, Frank Debow, George Gifford, R. N. Davis, J. B. Bronson: nower bearers, W. J. Hail and Moses K. Kellum.

Mrs. Camin Laid to Rest. The funeral of the late Mrs. Christian Camin was held from her late home on Irving avenue Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Smith, of the Alder street M. E. church, officiated. The pall-bearers were Messrs, C. H.

Webber, Fritz Whitman, Henry Moore William Kneopfel, Henry Bousham, Charles Blosius. A large concourse of friends followed the remains to their last resting place in Dunmore cemetery, where interment was made.
