SCRANTON, JANUARY 15, 1991.

The decision of Representative Rey nolds to abundon the bregular course at Harrisburg and to act hereafter within the traces of party regularity is a fortunate determination - fortunate both for his own peace of mind and usefulness and fortunate for the legislative laterests of his district and community. It establishes harmony and unity in the Lackawanna delegation and is in undoubted obedience to the majority sentiment and wish of his constituents. The error of judgment which led him into the early dellberations of the fusion conspiracy avaluat the Republican organization now belongs to the past. Regularity in future will do much to relieve and instead of revolvers in order to give atone.

The Electoral Vote. TILLIAM M'KINLEY, of Ohio, is now legally elected president of the United States for another four years and Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, is vice president. At the election held yesterday they did not receive 7,206,677 votes, for that they are content with merely pumgreat November round-up, in which melling the freshman's head to a that number of Republican votes was cast against 6.374.397 Democratic votes, did not-constitutionally considered-elect anybody except 477 state officials, called presidential electors, At the gatherings at capitals of the various states yesterday these electors cast the ballots ratifying the expression of the neople in November, Two hundred and ninety-two voted for Mc-Kinley and Roosevelt and one hundred and hity-five for Bryan and Stevenson. not so bad after all.

The men who framed our Constitution were wise and far-seeing, but they did not foresee the coming intensity by only a handful of the most deof partisanship, nor the part that per- | praved and reckless of his army, sonality would play therein. They supposed the electors would make their own choice. The fact that such is never the case, that their duty is simply to record the will of the peaple and the states, does not show any violation of the Constitution, but it does prove the existence of an unwritbut law ad strong as, if not stronger than, any provision of that venerated instrument,

It was not a difficult matter to abolwhy the army canteen, but when attempts are made to run down the speak-casies the resources of the liquor element will become more ap-Directif. ----

No Fifteenth Amendment. OW MANY amendments to the constitution of the United States are there? This is a question that has evidently been causing some anxiety on part of contemporaries. The Philadelphia Record, in referring to the clause used so frequently in connection with the colored population, calls careless writers to account by the intimation that there is no affeenth amendment. If one opens a copy of the constitution, says the Record, he finds that there are fourteen amendments. The body of the constitution consists of seven articles, all but two divided into sections, of which the greater number are sub-divided into clauses. Each of the amendments is a single undivided article, except the last three, whereof the first in order is divided into three sections, the second into two sections and the third into five. These several articles, sections and clauses are all duly numbered. Yet intelligent writers and speakers are continually referring to what they call the fifteenth amendment, meaning the second section of the fourteenth amendment. They might with equal propriety refer to the sixteenth, the seventeenth or the eighteenth amendment, meaning the third, fourth or fifth section of the fourteenth amendment. By this method of reckoning the number of the amendments, instead of fourteen, would be twenty, to the confusion of the notation of the whole framework of the constitution.

The point of the Record seems to have been well taken, and it is to be hoped that writers and orators will give heed in future. With the Philippine war and traction troubles on hand, not to speak of grip and measles, Register and its accomplished proprietor have The Tribune's cordial congratulations and best wishes.

Colonel Roosevelt's success with the mountain lions of the Rockies may be in doubt, but the trip has occasioned considerable snarling on part of the catamounts of the eastern Democratic DICESS.

While many are prone to criticise Count Castellanc's business methods of which (the fifth and seventh) are it must be admitted that Boni displayed excellent judgment in his matrimonial venture.

Fees or salary? is the question at the court house.

THOSE WHO ARE HAPPY.

From the Brooklyn Eagle (Dem.) The Women's Christian Temperance unior are happy because they believe that the bill will tend to prevent drinking among the sol diers. The saloonkeepers in the neighborhoods of army posts everywhere reloice because they can see their former trade in vile whisky re-stored under the new provision. The saloon-keepers are interested in the matter through their pockets and the women through their consciences, so that the chances that the men are right about the fact would be great even if there were not the nearly unanimous testi-mony of army officers that the canteen has reduced drunkenness and disorder.

A CENTURY OF LAW MAKING.

From the Saturday Evening Post. On Jan. 51, 1801, President Adams appointed John Marshall, of Virginia, chief justice of the supreme court, which is, to use the words of the English historian Freeman, "the only na-the English historian Freeman, "the only na-tional tribunal which cut sit in judgment on a take pride in their new dignity. of the powers of the Union to be null and void." Every year, now, we have more new laws than John Marshall considered during the entire thirty-inur years that he was on the Supreme bench. We have laws passed by congress; laws passed by state legislatures; laws passed by city councils; and all sorts of minor regulations which mount up into the tens of thousands during the twelve months.

The variety of these is as great as the number. There are laws regulating dogs and laws con-cerning Elephants: laws about English sparrows and laws about the great American esgle. are laws affecting everything from microbes to mammals, from politics to love. If all the laws on the books today were enforced the average citizen would either have to stay at home be-hind closed blinds or begin a journey to a lunatic asylum. A hundred Marshalls would be unable to consider every one of them or to get from them much more than a fine case of nervous prostration or despair.

PERSONAL DRIFT.

Professor Charles Villiers Stanford, who suc-ceeds the late Sir Arthur Sullivan as conductor of the Leeds musical festival, is a native of Dublin, and since 1887 has held the chair music at the University of Cambridge. Mrs. C. W. Fairbanks, wife of the Indiana senator, who is mentioned as president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, joined that society in the third year of its organization and has always been most interested in its work. The king of Sweden and Norway is noted as an admirable linguist. When the Oriental con-gress met at Stockholm, some years ago, he ad-dressed the assembled scholars in the language of the nationalities to which they respectively belong, and spoke with equal fluency in English, French, German, Italian, Russian and MULTUM IN PARVO. 10 13 The beer poisoning scare has had the of diminishing the consumption of beer in Lon-don by at least 2 per cent. Most of the licensed victualers are now displaying placards guarantee ing the freedom of their liquots from arseni and all deleterious substances. Children in the big cities do not get a very intimate knowledge of "animated nature." The Chicago Journal says: "Seventy-eight school children were polled at the Fat Stock Show re-2157 cently. Only eight had seen a cow before, your ad seen a log, six had seen a sheep." When the government of Santo Domingo want soldiers it simply sends out into the country districts and seizes them. At first the men seized are a little discontented, but when they find that they can do nothing in the army better than in their ordinary haunts, and that there is a pale, ineffectual ray of glory attached to the carrying of a gun and a cartridge belt, they INDIRECTION.
