At last I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better; then you directed me to take both the Golden Medical Discovery and the 'Pavorite Prescription,' which I did. Altogether I have taken eighteen bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery 't welve of the 'Pavorite Prescription,' and five vials of 'Pelleta.' THE MILL OF CONGRESS.

The Ordinary Congressman Comes and Goes, Leaving No Trace.

A. Coolidge, in Ainster's. The average length of a career in ongress is four years. At the beginning of every congress about one-third of the members of the house are new to the business. It is a rare thing for a member to make any sort of a mark in legislation before he has been in the House at least two full terms, and those who have forced themselves above the surface before the lose of a single term can almost be counted on the fingers of one hand. The ordinary congressman comes and goes and colic bishop and author.

stays in the House for more than two terms has a fair chance of wielding a little influence. He gets his name into the Congressional Record once in a while; he is recognized by the speak-er occasionally; and if he is unusually lucky the newspapers take him up and leaves no trace behind him, except on the salary vouchers. The man who sometimes give him a headline all to himself. There are one hundred and thirty-four members of the present House who are serving their third term or better. Of these twenty-five, at a generous estimate, are so well known that their names might carry some meaning outside their own state. The work of a congressman is thankless enough. It brings nothing in the way of money, little in the way of reputation, except in rare instances, and a vast amount of drudgery. A man must be in the harness for years generally before he amounts to any-thing, and by the time he begins to count in legislation he has lost his enthusiasm and spirit, and becomes a pack-horse. Once in a while, at rare intervals, there is a flash across the dull legislative sky like a meteor, and a sudden reputation is made for a new man. That was the way with Bryan when he first came to the House in the Fifty-third congress and sprang into instant notoriety with a speech on the ariff that dazzled everybody. Littlefield, of Maine, made an even more effective stroke last winter with his argument against the unseating of the Mormon Roberts. These are the most striking examples in recent years of reputation quickly made. Away back in the Fifty-third congress, Lafe Pence caught the House in the first week after he took his seat with a free silver speech. It is significant that those who thus make a dramatic entrance in the House rarely count for much in legislation afterward. Bryan never had any influence, and all the while he stayed in congress he was looked on as a good talker and nothing more. Towne frittered himself away after his silver speech, and, as for Lafe Pence, who had black type in the newspapers for a few days after his maiden effort, it is hard nowadays to find anybody who can remember his name.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL MAN. The Late Charles Dudley Warner Tells Who He Is.

From Success A man who has made the most of his opportunities, and who, in addition, has cultivated every faculty with which he is endowed, has won success. It is the duty of everyone to make the greatest possible progress and to become as perfectly developed as ability permits. There is no foom for aluggards, nowadays, I believe every young man should go to college for the training he will get here. He is sure to come out better able to take his place in the world's work, and all his talents will be of greater use than if he had no training. I am afraid there are few men who can say that they have made the most of their talents. If there are any, they should consider themselves successful, because they have made the most of what they had. We see the parable of the talents lived over again every day, and the result usually the same. The man who makes the most of what he has is the winner in this or any similar competi-

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE

Symptoms of a Very Common Trouble There is no disease so common in the United States as catarrh because it appears in so many forms and attacks so many different organs. It is a common mistake to suppose that catarrh is confined to the nonand throat. Any inflammation of the nucous membrane wherever located accompanied by abnormal secretions, is catarrh. Catarrh of stomach or bladder, or intestines is nearly as common as nasal catarrh and much more serious, although it is true that stomach catarrh and catarrh of other in ternal organs is the result of neglected nasal catarrh.

A new remedy has recently appeared which so far as tested seems to be remarkably effective in promptly curing catarrh, wherever located. The preparation is sold by druggists generally under the name of Stuart's Catarra Tablets, and in addition to being very palatable and convenient, possesses extraordinary merit, in many cases giving immediate relief from the oughing, hawking and coastant clearing of the throat and heat, those symptoms with which everyone is familiar who has ever suffered from colds in the head and throat. Catarrh is simply a continuation of these symptoms until the trouble becomes chronic and grows gradually worse from year to year. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are comosed of Hydrastin, Eucalyptol, Gual-acol and similar antiseptics and catarrh specifics, from which it will be seen that no secret is made of the in gredients and also that no mineral pot sons are used, as is the case with many well known catarrh medicines. For enterrh of the nose, throat bronchial tubes, for catarch of stomach, intestines or bladder no preparation is so safe and gives such rapid and permanent results as Stuart's Catarch Tablets. All druggists sell them at 50c. fo with assurance that you will not contract the cocaine or morphine habit as the results from this catarrh cure are apparent from the first day's use.

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Jan. 16.—The excessive confusion of speculative opinion today was shown by wild and frequent fluctuations in prices of the different groups of stocks. An evident effort was made to differentiate the movement of the stock stocks from that of the railroad stocks. The action of the stock group yesterday made it very evident that a decline in them was to be faced. There was some slow of support in Federal Steel early in the day and after an opening decline of 1½ it was railied a point, but the selling of the stock was persistent and urgent on account of stock was persistent and urgent on account of disappointment by speculators that no action was disappointment by speculators that no action was taken at yeaterday's meeting to insure quarterly dividends for the year.
