CONSEQUENCES OF THE GRIP

SOME AFTER EFFECTS DESCRIBED BY AN EXPERT.

Peculiarities of the Prevalent Epidemic Defined in a Second Paper by Dr. Carl Seiler, Together with Indications of Helpful Precautionary or Remedial Steps—Why the Malady Is Inclined to Linger in the Victim—Remedies Necessary to Drive It Away.

In answer to the numerous inquiries and requests for more details, which have reached me partly through the editor of The Tribune and partly direct from readers of The Tribune, I gladly comply with them, in the hope that my experience may be of profit to others. For the benefit of those who have not seen my former article, I will, in a few words summarize the essential points in it, before entering on the discussion of the sequilae, complications, varieties, and so forth.

Thus, it will be remembered that the disease know as the American grip was first observed by the writer and others in 1886 and that a careful study of its symptoms showed that it was a very different disease from the epidemic influenza, or la grippe, epidemic in Europe, and also differed from the ordinary and often epidemic winter colds of this country. This difference was shown to consist in the absence of fever and inflammation, but with a high temperature and feeble heart present, and that the various symptoms could be referred for their causation to an abnormal condition of the nervous system, which to begin with was probably due to a peculiar electric or magnetic condition of the earth's atmosphere, while in la grippe and in winter colds inflammation and fever are present, caused by localized conditions of the temperature and moisture in the atmosphere, which are more or less prejudicial to health.

THE MAIN FEATURE.

As the main feature of this malady, the infiltration of the tissue underlying the mucuous membranes all through the body, by a semi-fluid mucilaginous substance, was mentioned, and it is this infiltration which causes, directly or indirectly, the different varieties and apparent vagaries, as well as the sequilae or after effects of the disease. It is but natural that this infiltration should show itself most prominently in those portions of the body in which the mucuous membrane is weakest and least able to resist its invasion, which feebleness of resistance is caused by previous diseased conditions. The treatment, it was stated, should consist in the giving of ten grain doses of benzoate of soda at short intervals, together with heart stimulants and absolute mental and physical rest, and that all heart depressing medicines, as well as quinine, should be avoided.

Thus we find many cases of grip resembling gastritis, typhoid fever, appendicitis and other diseases of the alimentary tract in connection with or without skin eruptions, as well as the more commonly observed cases resembling influenza or la grippe, and, as it is this form which is most prevalent at the present time, I will restrict my remarks to it and leave the detailed consideration of the other forms for some future occasion, although it is estimated that in only about thirty-five per cent. of all cases of the American grip the symptoms are most pronounced in the mucuous membrane of the upper air passages. It is not astonishing, therefore, that when the peculiar electrical condition of the general atmosphere which produces the change in the nervous system causing the American grip occurs at this time of the year, when our changeable climate and our local weather conditions are favorable for the development of winter colds or of an irritated condition of the mucuous membrane of the respiratory organs, the syptoms of the grip should be most pronounced in those organs.

PECULIARITIES.

Thus we find in the grip cases, the stoppage of the nose without much running, however, the more or less severe cough, with little or no expectorations, the feeling of fullness and soreness of the throat, but without the characteristic inflammation of the ordinary sore throat, the shortness of breath and the difficulty of breathing out more marked than that of breathing in, indicating a mechanical obstruction in the smaller bronchial tubes, which cannot be relieved by the copious expectoration of mucuous, as in ordinary bronchitis, symptoms all of which to the layman point to the existence of an attack of ordinary influenza or winter cold, but which, taken together with the pale and puffy appearance of the mucuous membrane, the absence of fever, the prostration, and the history of the sudden onset of the attack, make a differential diagnosis not only easy, but absolutely certain.

There are occasional cases in which the patient complains mostly about a localized sharp and persisting pain in the throat, which is increased by swallowing and has the character of a rheumatic pain as felt in other parts of the body, and if considered alone might be taken to be close to rheumatism or gout of the throat, an expression of these diseases which is by no means uncommon. A similar pain also is frequently complained of by patients suffering from blood poison, so-called, introduced by inoculation, but the intelligent and observant physician will not be misled by any one particular symptom, but will readily make the correct diagnosis by the grouping together of all the symptoms, which grouping is what gives each different disease its peculiar character and distinctive type, and enables the physician not only to name the disease but also to find its cause and the remedies to remove it.

REMEDIES.

Thus the selection of benzoate of soda as a remedy in this malady was not a hap-hazard one, and the discovery of its specification in the grip a happy find, but was due to close observation of the disease and of the indications which were presented by its various symptoms in a group by itself. Benzoate of soda is a drug which was much used and highly valued as a remedy in diseases of the mucous membranes by the older physicians, but had been laid on the shelf and been forgotten by the younger generation with the introduction of the innumerable new chemicals, which are even yet little understood as to their action upon the system. Both Dr. Glasgow and myself in 1887 selected this drug as the one to be used in the treatment of grip, and our success with it proved our logical deductions to be correct.

If the abnormal condition of the nervous system and the consequent submucous infiltration are not speedily removed and the patient's health be not fully restored, the disease is apt to become chronic and abnormal changes take place in all the different tissues of the body, but particularly in the nervous system and in the muscles, including the heart, which give rise to a most extensive list of symptoms, from mild general weakness to nervous prostration and to all its horrible accompaniments of insomnia, paralysis and even insanity, or from rheumatic and gouty pains, with chronic gastric disease, to Bright's disease, dropsy and heart failure; and it is particularly the light cases, in which the first symptoms are not well marked and in which the persons afflicted do not take the proper care of their health, which are followed most frequently by these severe after effects, which it often takes years to completely combat. But even in these secondary morbid conditions the original cause may be easily recognized, because the distinctive features of the grip are still present and indicate the persistent use of the benzoate of soda, together with other remedies which may be indicated in the different cases, to obtain relief and effect a cure. Carl Seiler, M. D.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

[Under this heading short letters of interest will be published when accompanied, for publication, by the writer's name. The Tribune does not assume responsibility for opinions here expressed.]

Miss Reynolds Owns the Land.

Editor Tribune—

Sir: I noted an article about lands which I own in your edition today, which is as false that I wish to make some corrections. The title I hold on one hundred acres of land in Moosic I received from the state of Pennsylvania, Dr. O. F. Harvey, Moses Belles and from the county commissioners. On this land there are two houses, for which I have been receiving rent for a long time. One of these houses and one acre of the hundred was claimed by one William Hollenbach as a squatter. I had peaceable tenants in the house, and twenty of the sons, grandsons and nephews of the original squatter threw out their goods, for which they will be held responsible and at the end of an ejectment suit we will know who the rightful owner is.

Yours truly,
Annette Reynolds.

Mr. Harger in No Hurry.

Editor of The Tribune—

Sir: Having seen several challenges directed to me from members of the Central City Ride club in different issues of Scranton papers, and not having the necessary time to properly consider the matter, owing to my profession which keeps me busy most of the time; even so, at the time is limited until Sept. 1, I see no use in being in any considerable hurry, but in all probability they will hear from me later on.

THIS CITY TO HAVE A SHOW

SENATOR VAUGHAN TALKS ABOUT "RIPPER" BILL.

Says It Will Not Be Passed Without Giving This City a Chance to Tack on Amendments Favorable to Its Needs—Believes Senator Flinn Will Compromise—Says Bill Is Not a Party Measure and No Senator Will Enter a Caucus on It—Hearings Arranged for Next Week.

Senator J. C. Vaughan, who returned home yesterday from Harrisburg, stated to a Tribune man that it was his belief that the Muehlbronner "ripper" bill for cities of the second class, which has just been introduced in the legislature, would not be passed either by the senate or by the house until the people of this city had a chance to make known their wants and until certain amendments favorable to the needs of this city had been embodied in it.

"The bill," he said, "has been re-committed to committee and hearings on it will be held either next week or the week after. Delegations of citizens are expected from Pittsburg and Allegheny to be heard on the measure and I believe that a delegation from this city should go down there and present to the committee a crystalization of the views of the citizens of Scranton on the charter.

"It is hard to tell just at this time what the senate will do with the bill. Very few of the senators, including myself, have had time to give it a careful study and I must say that I have heard very few expressions of opinion on it. Senator Flinn and the other insurgents are opposed to the bill.

ABOUT A COMPROMISE.

"Just whether Senator Flinn will agree to a compromise or not I cannot say positively, but I am inclined to the belief that he will. Just what the terms of such a compromise would be I cannot say. He has upon several occasions said to me that he would favor the appointments of the heads of departments by mayors in case the term of the chief executive was limited to two years.

"One thing is certain, and that is that this city doesn't necessarily have to be ground between the mill stones of factionalism, as many people believe. It should be thoroughly understood that it is not a party measure. No senator can be expected to go into caucus and pledge his support to a bill like this one. I know that I would not do so and I am sure that the rest of the senators feel the same way.

"The question of centralizing nearly all authority and responsibility in the mayor I have not given much thought to, but there is one feature of the new bill that I think should be amended and that is the provision regarding the election of select and common councilmen. I don't favor the election of select councilmen at large, nor do I favor the idea of permitting the amalgamation of wards for the election of common councilmen in case a ward hasn't got the requisite number of taxables.

"The latter plan would in this city practically eliminate the minority and, while I favor the rule of the majority, I am also a champion of minority representation. I am altogether opposed to the destruction of a minority representation which is oft-times the best check against the extravagance of legislative bodies. I favor the plan of electing councilmen provided for in the present second class charter.

COMING CONFERENCE.

"The conference which I have arranged for next Wednesday between Senator Flinn, City Solicitor Burleigh, of Pittsburg, and City Solicitor Vosburg, of this city, is principally for the purpose of discussing Mr. Vosburg's contention that a third class city entering the second class will continue to operate under its third class city laws where those laws are not superseded by news laws under the second class charter.

"Both Senator Flinn and Mr. Burleigh take issue on this point and claim that when a city enters the second class it entirely repudiates its third class city charter. If this is true many amendments will have to be made to the new bill to fill omissions in the present law which are now filled by special acts applicable to only Pittsburg and Allegheny.

"You can say that I believe that amendments to this bill can be agreed upon which will be satisfactory to the people of all three cities."

Profit Sharing Plan.

The Scranton Stove works, which is one of our largest local manufacturing institutions, has inaugurated a new policy of profit-sharing with its employes for the year 1901. While we are not informed as to the details, we understand that it is to be upon the basis of capital employed and wages earned, each sharing in its relative proportion, each $100 of capital representing the same relation of profits as each $100 of wages earned.

We have no doubt that this new departure, inaugurated by the officers of this company, will prove of great benefit to the concern, as it must, of course, be to all of their employes. We have been informed that every department ran 288 days during 1900, while some of the departments were employed more than 300 days, or every working day excepting the five legal holidays.

Probable Cause of Delay.

The current number of Saward's Coal Trade Journal contains a notice published by the Erie Railroad company, setting forth that the approval of the stockholders is desired to a proposition to issue preferred stock and bonds to cover the recent purchase of the Pennsylvania Coal company.

This would indicate that the Pennsylvania holdings are still in the control of the bankers and explains the cause of the delay in the Erie company assuming active control of the Pennsylvania property.

In Process of Settlement.

The strike at the Klotz Silk Throwing company's mill is in process of settlement.

Yesterday committees of the employes went to the various other mills of the city to learn the rates of wages paid. They are to be submitted to the company and, if it is found that the average is higher than that being paid at the Klotz mill, the company will grant an increase to meet the average.

Annual Meeting Held.

The Lackawanna Lumber company yesterday held its annual meeting and elected directors as follows: F. L. Peck, C. P. Davidson, E. S. Peck, J. W. Oakford, William Connell, A. D. Dean, Cyrus D. Jones, Dr. D. B. Hand and I. F. Megargel.

The directors will meet later to organize.

This and That.

There will be a big mass meeting of all barbers in this city next Tuesday evening, January 29, in Carpenters' hall, 227 Wyoming avenue, at 8.30 o'clock sharp. W. E. Klapetzky, general secretary-treasurer of the Journeymen Barbers' International union, of Cleveland, O., will be here to address the meeting on the objects and benefits of the organization, also George Gothier, secretary-treasurer of the Central Labor union.

OLYMPIAN GAMES.

Ancient Sports Arranged for the Pan-American Exposition.

Olympian games have been revived by the Union Athletique Internationale with headquarters in France. The first contest was held in Athens and the next in all probability will be scheduled for the Pan-American exposition next summer.

They will be held for the most part in the Stadium, which is the only artificial arena ever built to rival in size and appurtenaces the famous Colosseum at Rome.

RHEUMATIC WARPED LIMBS.

To suffer the most excruciating pains, to lose the use of limbs, and to have the joints swollen and disfigured is the lot of the victim of rheumatism.

Uric acid in the blood is the cause of rheumatism. If the kidneys are active, they remove the uric acid. That is their special work. If, on the other hand, the kidneys are deranged, there is sure to be uric acid in the blood and rheumatic pain through the body.

No amount of liniment will ever cure rheumatism. It sometimes relieves, but cure can only be brought about by setting the kidneys right. The most effective kidney remedy known to man is Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They cure rheumatism permanently by making the kidneys active in their work of removing the uric acid from the blood.

Mr. William J. Coad, No. 65 Brunson Street, Oswego, N. Y., writes: "I am very glad to praise Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and tell what they have done for me. I suffered for many years with severe constipation, Rheumatism and kidney trouble, and could get no relief until I tried Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In them I found immediate relief, and can honestly recommend them to other sufferers."

Some Great Cheapness in

Household Linens

Our linen hunter has just returned, bringing some big bargain game for the economical home-makers that fix their faith in the price and fibre of Connolly & Wallace's Linens. It should be a gratification that Table Linens, Towels and Napkins can be had cheaper in Scranton than in Europe (where most of them are made. This achievement is only possible in great trading. Abroad the manufacturer is expected to carry the retailers' stock. This is not the American idea. We buy so largely that in many cases the reduction in price will pay both duty and transportation.
