"Melbourne" Tonight.

Dan Hart's latest play, "Melbourne," which will be produced at the Lyceum tonight, is a story of life in Australia, but it does not deal with the rough side of life there. It deals with the human side, and it requires stirring times to develop the good and the bad in man, and that is called humanity. It is rather difficult to deseribe the play "Melbourne," for its theme and plot are as novel as its surroundings. It is an untried field for the dramatist, but Daniel L. Harr, who in his other plays has displayed a thorough knowledge of humanity, from a long acquaintance with the Australians feels sure that he has done their peculiarities full justice

For people who are weak and run down there is no medicine so valuable as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Many diseases in organs remote from the stomach have their origin in a disease condition of the stomach and its allied organs. When the stomach is "weak' there is a failure to properly digest and assimilate the food which is eaten. Hence the whole body, and each organ of it, suffers from lack of nutrition, that as a consequence of "weak" stom-"weak" lungs, "weak' heart, "weak" or torpid liver, "weak nerves, etc. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the assimilation of th nutriment necessary for the requirements of a healthy body. At Hallstead, some time since, a cub bear was purchased of the proprietor of a small menagerie, and trained by his new owner to become quite a pet. So familiar did he become with the dogs of the village that he would go rolling and tumbling about the yard in play and actually assist his comrades in chasing cats and rabbits. As the pet grew older, however, he became less sociable, so that it was found necessary to chain him to a stake in the yard.

When the summer visitors arrived from the city, bruin was brought out as one of the curiosities and chained in front of the hotel. One day one of the lady guests approached too near the bear (then grown), when the savage fellow made a grab at her foot and nearly tore the limb from her body. A load of buckshot settled the business, and the guests breakfasted on bear steak the following morning.

FIRST U. S. TREASURER

Representative Brennan, of Wayne County, Acts Upon Suggestions Made by the Tribune Some Time Ago and Has Introduced a Bill Asking Funds to Place a Suitable Monument Over the Neglected Grave of the Patriot - A Brief Sketch of General Meredith's Career Submitted by Mr. Brennan.

Among the bills of interest introduced at Harrisburg last week, perhaps none are more worthy, from a patriotic standpoint, than the measure proposed by Representative Bren-nan, of Pleasant Mount, Wayne county, who desires that the state shall appropriate a sum sufficient to erect a suitable monument to mark the last resting place of Samuel Meredith, the Revolutionary patriot and first treasurer of the United States.

Some time ago an illustrated article appeared in The Tribune calling attention to the condition of the grave of the man who assisted so materially in the establishment of the government, and Mr. Brennan has acted upon suggestions made at the time in preparing the bill.

Following is a brief sketch of General Meredith's career, which has been prepared by Representative Brennan and was submitted to the legislature

MEREDITH'S CAREER. General Samuel Meredith was born

n Philadelphia in 1741, and was educated at Chester. He engaged in business in Philadelphia under the firm name of Meredith & Clymer, Mr. Meredith was an active Whig, and took a deep interest in the leading questions of the day. In November, 1765, he attended the meeting of the merchants and citizens of Philadelphia to protest against the importation of teas and goods which were stamped. He and Mr. Clymer signed the resolution adopted November 7, 1765, as his father had done. On the 19th of May. 1772, he married Margaret, daughter of Dr. Thomas Cadwalader, of Philadelphia, chief medical director of Pennsylvania hospital. He was chairman of the committee of safety in 1775, when "The Silk Stocking Company" was organized. In 1775 Mr. Meredith was made major, and in that capacity took part in the battles of Trenton and Princeton in October. In 1777 he was commissioned general of the Fourth brigade. Pennsylvania militia, and took part in the battles of Brandywine and General Meredith resigned in 1778, in consequence of ill-health. He was twice elected from Philadelphia county George Shearer, of Upper Pittston, a brakeman, had his left foot caught between the ride of the car and a heavy piece of armor plate and badiy bears many companies have been formed to prosent a repertoire of popular plays at popular plays play gate to the Continental congress.
