Rev. Father William A. Nealon's Funeral Yesterday.

One of the most impressive funerals ever held in this city was that which was held yesterday morning at the Roman Catholic church of St. Rose de Lima. The services over the body of lamented Rev. Father William A. Nealon, who died in far-off Kentucky, away from home and kindred, were of the most imposing character and were. witnessed by an exceptionally large number of church dignitaries and by a congregation that filled St. Rose church to the attermost. The line of carriages was, without exception, the longest ever assembled at a funeral in this city, and the procession which followed the remains of the priest to the Cemetery of St. Rose was composed of a throng which was the greatest since the beloved Father Carew was laid in his last resting place.

Father Nealon had been a priest at Rose's church for five years and had many friends who did their utmost to pay their last respects to him. Although the services in the church were Eva Parrett, Mrs. M. F. Wymbs, Mr. not to take place until 10 o'clock, these friends commenced to assemble at the church as early as 8 o'clock, and long Miss Mary Duffy. Joseph Barrett, Mrs. before the hour set the church was tilled, with the exception of the news reserved for the family and kindred.

The funeral cortege left the residence of the departed one's parents. Hon, and Mrs. John Nealon, on South Church street, at 10 o'clock. It arrived at the church ten minutes later. The coffin was escorted by a delegation, twelve in number, from the Hyde Park council, Catholic Mutual Benevolent association, of Scranton, of which Father Nealon was a charter member.

It was met at the entrance to the church by a delegation of priests. The casket was covered with black embossed broadcloth. A silver crucifix was on the top at each end and in the centre a silver name plate bearing the name, "W. A. Nealon."

The altar was draped in black, the aisle candlesticks rested in black urns and every appointment betokened the deep mourning and the solemn ceremony of the Roman Catholic ritual pertaining to the solemn high mass of the dead.

Upward of forty priests were ushered from a rear room and took seats within the sanctuary after the casket had been brought up the centre aisle and left in front of the altar rail. When they had all filed in they, in unison. commenced the chant for the office of the dead, while Fathers Curran, of Wilkes-Barre, and Hanley, of Honesdale, led the responses. This sublime ceremony was rendered most effective by its being sustained without the accompaniment of the organ, and as the trained voices of the prelates swelled and gained in volume and fell again to a low, wailing tone, it produced an effect that could not but be felt by every person within hearing.

After the office for the dead the solemp high requiem mass was celebrated. Father Moffitt, of Taylor, was celebrant: Father Moylan, of Susque-handa, deacon: Father Loftus, of Scranton, sub-deacon, and Father Griffin, of Scranton, master of ceremonies. During the mass Miss May Moffitt sang the "Ave Marie" of Gounod in a most effective manner.

Right after mass and prior to the agreementy of blessing the coffin. Rt. liev. Thomas F. Coffey, rector of the church, made a brief address. He began by saying that no other object shan a wish to pay his personal tribute to a priest who had long been associated with him would have brought him out in his present physical condition. Father Coffey was still very weak, and plainly showed the effects of his recent extreme illness. He said that feallty was plainly stamped in Father Nealon's face, as it was on the face of all, and that the time would come when that frailty must succumb before the mighty majesty of death. He said that Father Nealon was dear to the Lord because

THE PEOPLE'S EXCHANGE he was a priest, and the Lord would therefore extend great grace to him. Father Nealon was beloved by the nembers of the parish and was esteemed throughout the community, as was acclaimed by the large congregation present. Father Coffey asked the congregation and members to pray for the repose of the soul of the departed. It was very sad that he should be called upon to die so far from home, but his holy surroundings, with the holy fathers around him, must afford great consolation to his bereaved friends. Fathers Holmes, John Byrne, Bernard O'Bryne, Gislon, Millane and Griffin were then appointed honorary pall bearers by Father Coffey, and conveyed the body from the altar mil to the door, where the lay pall bearers again took it in charge. The long cor-tege then proceeded to St. Rose cometery, where Fathers O'Byrne, Millane, Moffitt, Loftus and Moylan chanted the recutem acturnum.
