AN EXCELLENT COMBINATION.
The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinal laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly, and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

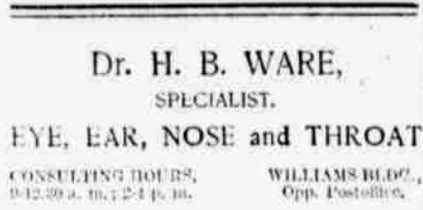

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained fromenna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only. In order to get its beneficial effects, and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

LAFAYETTE ALUMNI'S ANNUAL SESSION.

Twenty-first Anniversary of Founding of Alumni Association of Northeastern Pennsylvania Was Celebrated by Banquet at Scranton Club—Addresses Made by President Warfield, Toastmaster Campbell, Prof. H. H. Zeiser, Prof. Geo. Howell, Oscar J. Harvey and Others

Love of alma mater was the predominant keynote of last night's annual dinner of the Lafayette Alumni Association of Northeastern Pennsylvania, and the fifty stand-looking men who filled into the banquet hall of the Scranton club at 7:30 o'clock sang the 121 college songs before they rose, with all the fervor of the ardent septuagenarians, and cheered every utterance relating to the glory of the Easton college in a manner which showed that long absence from the college rooms had not dimmed their feelings towards the alma mater, which had been so long the greatest particular.

The meeting was presided by the annual meeting of the association held in the office of Secretary Dolph B. Atherton, of the board of trade. The session was called to order with the following officers at the head of the alumni: President, Edward Welles, Wilkes-Barre; secretary and treasurer, Robert Peck, Scranton; executive committee, W. A. May, Daniel A. Capwell, Oscar J. Harvey, Albert H. Welles, William H. Trembath and Edward E. Reynolds.

A nominating committee was appointed of the following members, upon whom devolved the responsibility of naming the officers for 1901: A. H. Welles, '89, of this city; County Treasurer F. C. Kirkendall, '94, of Wilkes-Barre; Dr. Frederic Cross, of Kingston; James P. Dickson, of this city, and John B. Law, of Pittston. The officers nominated by them and unanimously elected by the association were: President, F. L. Phillips, '91, of this city; vice-president, I. P. Hand, '85, of Wilkes-Barre; secretary and treasurer, Evan Jones, of Wilkes-Barre; executive committee, Byron Hatcher, Wilkes-Barre; Rev. J. B. Craven, of Wilkes-Barre; I. P. Paradise, of Hazleton; Charles M. Hillman, of Pittston, and Dr. D. A. Capwell, of this city.

Following the election of officers each member present arose and announced his name and year. Loud cheers greeted the retiring president, the oldest member present, as he arose and announced "Edward Welles, '52." A short social session followed, old acquaintances being renewed and compliments exchanged, and then all adjourned to the banquet hall on the seventh floor, Bauer's orchestra, in an adjoining room, played during the service, and their rendering of popular airs proved not the least enjoyable part of the night's program.

THE TABLES.
The tables were arranged in the form of a rectangle, open at the upper end, and were handsomely decorated with tulips, carnations and amylax. At each place was a boutonniere and a splendidly gotten up programme, which formed a tasty souvenir of the reunion. At the lower end of the table was seated Anthony G. Campbell, '84, of Wilkes-Barre, the toastmaster; and rather, to give him the full benefit of his classic title, the night's magister perturbationum. Near him were seated Rev. Ethelbert D. Warfield, Ph.D., LL. D., president of Lafayette college; Rev. Dr. Isaac J. Laing, of the Green Ridge Presbyterian church, a West Leyan graduate, and other of the night's speakers.

Colonel H. M. Boies, Yale '59, and Walter S. Egan, '97, who were to speak on "Alma Mater," tried and True Trustees" and "A Liberal Education," were both called out of the city and consequently unable to respond to their toasts.

An excellent menu had been prepared by Caterer O'Neil, and received full justice from the Easton grads.

The old Lafayette songs were sung over and over again, and when the toasts were given, each address was followed by the lively notes of "Here's to Lafayette, drink it down," "Vive la vie, vive Lafayette" and the rollicking "Fol de rol, de rol, rol, rol."

SPEECHMAKING BEGINS.
It was after 9 o'clock when the last course was served and the speechmaking began.

At 9:15 o'clock, A. C. Campbell, '84, the evening's magister perturbationum, rose and, after announcing that he had been chosen chairman of the excellent selection made.

"We are here," he said, "to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the founding of this association and to honor our mother, Lafayette." He then called upon Lafayette's distinguished leader, Dr. Ethelbert D. Warfield, president of the college, the first speaker of the banquet.

The latter, a tall, dignified-looking man, whose silver beard causes him to look many years older than one of the youngest college presidents of the country would naturally be expected to speak on "Alma Mater, Lafayette."

"I spoke of many of the changes wrought by time at the college, and then referred to a Lafayette graduate who has achieved greatness in the management of a great industrial institution and quoted him as paying an eloquent tribute to Lafayette men who have been under his orders.

"He also told of the recognition being won from the public by Lafayette graduates. Doctors, lawyers, men in all walks of life, he said, are winning laurels.

"We have reached a turning point in our career," he said. "We now have over 700 undergraduates at the university. Are we then going to remain a 'small college' or develop some new department. I say that we should try to remain a first-rate college, instead of attempting to become a second-rate university, as some of our sister colleges have tried to do. Our dormitories are now crowded and our capacity taxed to the utmost. What we need is not more students, but better students."

WHAT COLLEGES NEED.
"We see many examples of colleges not prospering. What our colleges need is not to be larger, but to be better equipped and better adjusted for the sphere it fills in Pennsylvania. It is an interesting and striking fact that the men who have donated to Lafayette have never done so in a way to hamper the college, as has taken place at many institutions, and nothing speaks higher for the feeling towards alma mater. What we are should speak so loudly that no one need what we say," should be our motto, and our own acts should advertise the college more than our words. We dare not stand still, for to do so means retrograde.

"Let us be as proud in fact as in name of what the college has done and may God's blessing rest on the university and everything connected with her and make her as successful in the future as the devout wish of all."
Toastmaster Campbell then introduced Professor Zeiser, of the Wilkes-Barre High school, as one who himself embodied the attributes of "the faithful college professor," which was the toast assigned him.

The latter speaker opened his address with a humorous anecdote and declared that when he was at Lafayette there was a faculty there which was good, bad and indifferent, but he had learned that since then the two latter qualities were eliminated from the composition of the staff.

"The great objection to the teachers' profession was its impunctuality," he said. "The average teacher has a mighty hard time making both ends meet."

He then dissected the quotation which accompanied his toast and kept up a continuous fire of witty, sparkling comment, which kept his audience in a roar of laughter.

Then, assuming a more serious air, he paid a beautiful tribute to his old professors at Lafayette and said there was no nobler profession in the world than that of training men.

THE TRUE TEACHER.
The true teacher is always a power for good and walks in the path of the Great Teacher, he claimed, and concluded by quoting: "The true knight of learning, the world holds him dear; love bless him, joy crown him, God speed his career." His address abounded in humor and was one of the distinctive hits of the night.

After a rising toast drunk to the health of Dr. Marsh, of Lafayette, and the singing of "Vive Lafayette," led by the toastmaster, Superintendent of the City Schools George Howell was introduced. His subject was "A Plea for the Small College," and in his comments he declared that a generation ago there were none but small colleges in this country, and showed by statistics the small number of students and professors at Yale and Harvard thirty years ago.

"There are many factors," he claimed, which augur the growth of the small college, which in itself is one of the most representative of American institutions.

Rev. Dr. J. Laing, pastor of the Green Ridge Presbyterian church, and an alumnus of Wesleyan, '72, was the next speaker. "Sister Colleges," being his toast. In the course of his address he indulged in several shots at incompetent school directors.

He declared that he was particularly struck by the number of college alumnus in this vicinity and spoke of the power for good conveyed by such a body of men.

He suggested a co-operation toward some worthy end to be manifested in a "University Club" by the seven or eight hundred college men of these districts.

AS TO CONTROLLERS.
"It is perfectly plain that in some instances the controllers are totally unfit for the places they hold. Why can we not have a larger representation of good men to back the teachers?"

"It is frequently reported that the school directors are connected with saloons, and hoodlum purposes, and it is largely reported in Scranton and Wilkes-Barre that there is a tendency among them to appropriate public funds. If there is a practical side of alumnus associations, is there a better field to enter than this?"

"Imagine the effect on the children of seeing a controller enter who is ignorant and coarse, and possibly under the influence of liquor."

He brought his address to a close by making the assertion that no better service could be done their alma mater by those present than by taking prompt action in endeavoring to improve the existing condition of affairs.

Oscar J. Harvey, '71, of Wilkes-Barre, the founder of the association, was the last speaker. He was assigned "The Ladies," and treated this fertile subject in a most interesting manner, his comments on the fair sex being tinged with constant humor, and interspersed with witty anecdotes. All sorts and conditions of ladies were discussed upon by him, many particular allusions to this interesting genus receiving signal attention.

At an interval, and rather spicy point of his narrative the lights suddenly went out, causing a general laugh and startled exclamation from the speaker. The darkness was only of momentary duration, however.

AULD LANG SYNE.
Following his address every man at the board rose, and joining in a strong chorus sang "Auld Lang Syne," and it was with the home-like strains of the grand old song that ended one of the most successful gatherings of the Lafayette Alumni association.

Present at the banquet were:

WHY SO MANY FAIL

The Reasons So Many Catarrh Remedies are Unsuccessful.

There are few troubles, for which there are so many remedies, and no remedy which is as popular as the one called "catarrh" as for catarrh and it may be added there are few diseases so difficult to really and permanently cure.

Inhalers, sprays, powders and douches are all applied locally and give temporary relief, often for only a few hours, and it is doubtful if anything like a real cure of catarrh was ever accomplished by the use of local applications.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease, it is in the blood like rheumatism, and to cure it requires an internal medicine to act upon the blood, to drive out the catarrhal poison from the system entirely and anyone can readily see that a saline or powder remedy which simply clears off the mucous membrane of the nose and throat can have no effect on the real cause of catarrhal disease.

The remarkable success of the new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is because it drives out of the system through the natural channels, the catarrhal poison, the germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption and causes the hawking, spitting and gagging because the excessive secretion is no longer supplied when the blood is made healthy from the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

The remedy is in the form of large 29 grain lozenges, pleasant and palatable, composed only of wholesome antiseptics and so safe to use that little children use them with perfect safety and benefit. If the little one is suffering from colds, croup or cough from any cause.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have been on the market scarcely one year, yet they have met with such popularity and success that druggists everywhere in United States and Canada now have them in stock and report a constantly increasing demand for them.

WALSH HONORED.
Presented with a Handsome Gold Watch by D. L. & W. Car Accountants.

That heroism goes not unrewarded was amply demonstrated last night at the home of Harry J. Walsh, 618 River street, when about forty of the clerks of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western car accountant office, many of those having been honorably saved in the recent fire in the 299 block on Lackawanna avenue, gathered there and in appreciation of his heroic service to them on that memorable day, presented him with a handsome gold watch and chain.

P. J. Stevens, chief clerk of the car accountants' office, in a neatly worded speech, presented Mr. Walsh with the watch, and said, in part:

"In behalf of the employees of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western car record department, I wish to present you with this token of their appreciation for the noble and heroic way in which you were instrumental in saving their lives in the recent fire.

Mr. Walsh, who is an extremely modest young man, was touched deeply as he responded in words of thanks, saying that he did not feel the action worthy of such a splendid gift, and that any one of them in the same position would have done likewise.

After the presentation ceremonies, a jolly social hour was spent. Leo Cross, an ex-car accountant, presided at the piano and rendered several selections in tuneful style, and Will Long favored the boys with a song. Later, refreshments were served and toasts responded to by George F. Buckley, W. J. Gallagher, Thomas Gerrity and others.

RAID MADE ON SLOT MACHINES

MUNICIPAL LEAGUE EXTENDS ITS SPHERE OF WORK.

Warrants Issued for Seventeen Saloon-keepers in Dickson City, Olyphant, Peckville and Jessup. Twelve Machines Were Seized and Five Arrests Were Made—M. W. Grogan, of Olyphant, Defied the Detectives and Was Arrested on the Charge of Resisting Arrest.

The Municipal League, which has done so much towards purifying the city along various lines, is extending its sphere of influence. The nickel-in-the-slot machine gambling industry, which was suddenly choked off in this city about a year ago, has been flourishing up the valley in Dickson City, Jessup and Olyphant of late and the league authorities on Thursday secured warrants for the arrest of seventeen hotelkeepers in whose places the machines were in operation.

These warrants were taken yesterday morning by eight of the league's private detectives, headed by Agent Robert Wilson and Attorney Fred C. Boers. A dray wagon was hired and the party started out on its expedition. No less than twelve of the machines were gathered in, while five arrests were made. The primary object was to get the machines, and the arrests will be made later. In five instances the proprietors had received a private tip of the raid in some manner and no machines were to be found.

TROUBLE AT GROGAN'S PLACE

No difficulty was experienced in making any of the arrests, except in the case of M. W. Grogan, of Olyphant. Mr. Grogan locked the door of his place and defied the detectives to enter, contending that they could not do so without a search warrant. Several of the detectives pulled revolvers on him, he claims, but he refused to unlock the door, and the party not feeling sure that they had the authority to break into the place, satisfied themselves with placing him under arrest and taking him before Alderman Fuller.

When the latter's office was reached, Agent Wilson swore out a warrant for Grogan's arrest on the charge of resisting arrest and threatening to kill. Grogan was arrested on this charge also and then sent for his attorney, John P. Quinn. The league authorities wanted Grogan to agree to turn over the machines, but Attorney Quinn advised him not to do this and dared the detectives to go and take the machine, contending that they had no legal right to enter any man's place without a search warrant.

Alderman Fuller being appealed to, declared that under the law, any officer could forcibly enter a place where a gambling device was located and seize it, even without a warrant. Acting upon this advice, Attorney Boers gathered his nine trusty tenants about him and the whole party started up to Olyphant to capture the machine. The alderman held Grogan in $200 bail on the charge of maintaining a gambling device and in $1,000 bail on the other charge. He was permitted to go on his own recognizance until next Tuesday, upon which day he promised to enter bail.
