

The Scranton Tribune

Published Daily, Except Sundays, by The Tribune Publishing Company, at Fifty Cents a Month.

LIVY S. RICHARD, Editor. O. F. WHELAN, Business Manager.

New York Office: 100 Nassau St. S. E. VRELAND, Sales Agent for Foreign Advertising.

Entered at the Postoffice at Scranton, Pa., as Second-Class Mail Matter.

When space will permit, the Tribune is always glad to print short letters from its friends bearing on current topics, but the rule is that they must be signed, for publication, by the writer's real name, and the condition precedent to their appearance is that all contributors shall be subject to editorial revision.

THE RATE FOR ADVERTISING.

For cards of thanks, resolutions of condolence and similar contributions to the edition of the evening the Tribune makes a charge of 2 cents a line.

For Classified Advertising furnished on application.

SCRANTON, MARCH 12, 1901.

Most persons, we fancy, will agree with Bishop Mallahan that "Quo Vadis" is unfit to be read, many newspapers unfit to be believed and much of the church music of the day unfit to be heard.

Not Worth a Fight.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL is evidently disappointed at the failure of the anthracite operators to give formal recognition to the mine workers' union. It is upon recognition that his heart is set.

False Alarm.

PRESIDENT HADLEY of Yale university warns the country that unless public sentiment shall proceed to enforce wholesome limitations upon the tendency of commercial and political enterprise to centralize under the autocratic control of a few men, known in business as executive officials of trusts and in politics as bosses, we shall have an emperor at Washington within twenty-five years.

The Machiavelli of Chinese Diplomacy.

Robert E. Lewis, in the Forum. The peace negotiations at Peking call to mind the experience of the ministers who are negotiating with the Chinese statesman.

Banned Again.

THE CERT refusal of Great Britain to accept the senate amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty, which is the diplomatic form of discussing the whole matter until such time as a new basis of negotiation shall be submitted by the United States, ought to enlighten the recent critics of Secretary Hay.

THE REGULATION OF VICE.

Bishop Doan, in Leslie's Weekly. The two objects to be sought in any attempt to suppress vice have relation, first, to the vicious, to restore and reclaim them; and next, to the virtuous, to keep them from the contamination of contact and from the danger of deterioration by familiarity with evil.

defence of the United States, especially since the logic of war has made the United States guardian of summer islands of the sea, the Nicaragua canal, after a generation of public discussion, is apparently as far away as ever it was; and the responsibility for its postponement rests, not upon the authorities at Washington, but upon the supposedly smarter gentlemen occupying editorial positions in various cities, who, in their excess of zeal, interfered with the state department's work and hatched it almost beyond recovery.

It is no secret to those who study the subterranean ways of politics that the popular outcry against Secretary Hay's work, on the score that it surrendered peculiar advantages, was shrewdly started and manipulated by the canal's enemies, who knew they could not defeat the movement for the canal's construction by showing their opposition frankly.

The yellow journals have discovered that President Schwab, of the new steel combine, is to receive a salary of $1,000,000 a year. We wish we had the difference between this sum and Mr. Schwab's actual salary.

Misouri and Indiana have outlawed the practice of Christian Science healing for pay, and New York threatens to do likewise. The lines are tightening around the irregular practitioner.

The sanctifications of certain literary lights that claim to sparkle for labor only are beginning to be regarded as will-o'-the-wispish by the thinking folk of this valley.

With $9,000,000 under their command, there seems no likelihood that Prince Tuan and General Hsiang will approach and enter bail at present.

LOOKED ON THE BRIGHT SIDE.

The death of ex-Governor Mount, of Indiana, takes from the world a exemplar of the man who succeeded by looking on the bright side of things.

In a private letter to the editor of Success, he wrote: "My success I attribute largely to looking on the bright side of things, to seeing possibilities, and then honestly handling every occasion to their accomplishment." On the same occasion, he wrote: "I have found the character counts for more than all else."
