TALE OF A HORSE.

The Animal Changed Hands Frequently—The Owner Now Has It.

On Friday night, March 22, I. R. Benjamin, of Simpson, Wayne county, locked (or says he did) his faithful family horse in its usual resting place and retired to seek his rest. The next morning, when he went out to feed the animal, the critter wasn't there. Someone had paid a visit to the barn during the interim and removed the sorrel, white-faced animal, and there was no trace of horse or burglar.

Mr. Benjamin carefully locked the barn and then sent word to the four quarters of the globe that if anyone would recover the animal and help to convict the thief $25 in coin of the republic would be forthcoming.

This notice attracted the attention of the local detectives, as well as others, and every sorrel horse that passed along the city streets was closely scrutinized. But somehow the thief eluded the hawkeyes and on Wednesday drove into town, put the nag up at Snyder's livery, and in a few minutes, after showing its points, of which there were many, most of them sharp ones, he interested Mrs. L. H. Snyder to the extent of selling the horse to her. Then he discreetly vanished.

Constable H. H. Pierce was passing the livery stable a little later in the day, when he felt impelled to take a look inside. What he saw filled him with joy. There, munching oats, was what appeared to Mr. Pierce to be $25. Mr. Pierce did not believe he had better remove the animal until he had investigated a little. A short time after Constable E. J. Neary came along, and he saw the horse. He did not want to wait to investigate but wanted the animal. He took the horse from the barn, and although Mrs. Snyder says she protested and told him that Mr. Pierce had forbidden its removal, he transferred it to the Morrison livery. Mrs. Snyder and Mr. Pierce went before Alderman Morrison that evening, and Mrs. Snyder made an affidavit that Mr. Pierce had first seen the horse and that Mr. Neary had taken it by force and against her protest. A search warrant was sworn out, claiming the property by Constable Pierce, who forthwith recovered the property from the Morrison livery. Yesterday morning Mr. Benjamin, the original owner, appeared and a hearing was held in Alderman Morrison's court. Several witnesses were sworn, and the alderman then gave possession of the horse to Mrs. Snyder, who immediately gave the animal up to Mr. Benjamin.

Constable Pierce is now on the trail of the thief and expects to land him soon. Neary claimed that he discovered the horse in Snyder's barn and that Pierce got the clue from him.

IN MEMORY OF HARRISON.

Sergeant William H. Davies Post Eulogize Dead Comrade.

At the meeting of William H. Davies post, No. 187, Grand Army of the Republic, on Wednesday evening an extemporaneous eulogy of ex-President Harrison by several of the comrades was the feature of the occasion.

Past Commander J. M. Alexander introduced the subject by bringing it up when the usual question, "Has any comrade died since our last meeting?" was asked. Mr. Alexander said that while General Harrison was not a member of the local post he was one of the most worthy members of the Grand Army of the Republic, and as a public officer had always worked strenuously for the interests of his comrades of the rebellion. The speaker paid an eloquent tribute to the dead general.

Comrade George S. Kimball reviewed the career of the departed one, showing an intimate knowledge of his life and deep insight into his character. He told a number of interesting reminiscences and some amusing anecdotes of the ex-president.

Chaplain Jennings, Comrade Ettel and a number of other comrades related incidents and experiences of the days of battle when such men as the dead and honored general fought shoulder to shoulder with lower-ranked men in the common cause.

A MINER KILLED.

The Northwest Mine the Scene of a Tragedy Yesterday.

Adam Maveriski, an Austrian laborer at the Northwest mine, was killed yesterday morning by a fall of rock. A great mass of roofing fell upon him, and it was a long time before a rescuing party could get to where he had last been at work. When they reached him they found the remains crushed and mutilated and the features almost beyond identification.

Mavoriski's body was conveyed to his home in Simpson, and the mine shut down for the rest of the day, owing to the fatality and the consequent excitement of the miners. The dead man was one of the leading foreigners in the settlement at Simpson, and the funeral, which will be held on Sunday, will be marked by great pomp and ceremony, in accordance with the Old World customs.

TROLLEY LINE SITUATION.

If the rumors that are circulating have their foundation on fact in regard to the Scranton Traction company being purchased by a number of Scranton capitalists, the news will be welcomed by the communities up at this end of the valley. The sale will, of course, affect the Carbondale line, which is now leased and operated by the Scranton Railway company.

Scrantonians have for a long time been energetically protesting against their treatment by the traction company, and probably with just cause. However, if some of the kickers would come up here and attempt to endure a ride on the local line they would realize quickly how well off they were. The worn-out cars of the company are shipped here, and the flat wheels make day and night hideous by their thumping and pounding.

The schedule as now arranged provides for a half-hour service between Jermyn and Forest City. It is seldom the schedule is adhered to and the weary waiter who wishes to risk a ride in the springless, bare-seated dry goods boxes on three-cornered wheels can count many minutes overtime while he stands in the vigorous, grip-laden March winds before the bilious-hued cars crawl wearily and noisily into view. It will be a happy day for the citizens and a more prosperous one for the merchants when this travesty on a street car service passes into other hands and conditions are brought up to what they ought to be on the Carbondale end of the line.

THE LAST LECTURE.

The Sixth in the Series of the People's Lecture Course.

On Wednesday evening, April 10, the last of the series in the People's Lecture Course will be given. The evening's entertainment will be different from those that have gone before. The Rev. Ernest Melville, rector of St. James Episcopal church of Fort Edward, N. Y., will spend a few hours rehearsing some of the writings of one of England's greatest poets, Tennyson. Mr. Melville is an English scholar and studied under some of the greatest masters in Great Britain.

This will be the last of the lecture course of this season. The trustees of the Berean Baptist church have given a great opportunity to the people of this city who have a desire for information combined with entertainment in a popular course of high-grade lectures requiring no admission fee. The average attendance has been large and the free-will offerings satisfactory. Rev. H. J. Whalen, D. D., the pastor, assisted the trustees in securing the speakers, and he has worked hard and resultfully for the pleasure of his fellow-townsmen. It is to be hoped that a similar course may be taken up next season.

Tonight's Play.

At the Grand Opera house tonight Eva Mudge, supported by the admirable company of the Sol Smith Russell company, will present "A Bachelor's Romance." The advance sale is unusually heavy, and a full house will go in at 8 o'clock tonight. "A Bachelor's Romance" is a creation that will live because it is clean, wholesome and close to nature. It is a play that started at first specially designed and adapted only for Sol Smith Russell, but it has now demonstrated a position in the possession of Mr. Mudge.

Mr. Gunner Re-Elected.

At Tuesday's election in Port Jervis, Hon. P. L. Gunner, formerly proprietor of the Hotel Anthracite in this city, was again elected village president. To all who know Mr. Gunner it goes without saying that the honor is most worthily bestowed. The esteem in which he is held in his native town is gratifyingly apparent in the fact that while he was running on the Republican ticket all the other successful candidates were Democrats.

A Return Date.

George Elliott Fox, the humorist and impersonator, who recently appeared at the Congregational church, will return to this city and give another of his entertainments on next Tuesday evening, April 2. The last time Mr. Fox was here the storm interfered seriously with bringing out a large attendance, but the pleasure he gave his hearers will undoubtedly result in much better results next Tuesday.

Postmaster Thomas Home.

Postmaster John H. Thomas, who has been absent from this city for nearly a month visiting Hot Springs, Ark., New Orleans, Galveston, and taking a steamship trip through the Gulf of Mexico to Key West, arrived in town yesterday morning. The many friends here of B. F. Masey, formerly of Forest City, will be pleased to learn that he has been elected president of the Luzerne County Association of Retail Druggists.

At Emergency Hospital.

Michael Matovitch, who was severely injured at the Forest City breaker, was taken to the hospital at Carbondale. His injuries are very serious and his recovery doubtful.

An Echo of Sunday's Row.

A warrant was sworn out last evening before Alderman Atkinson for the arrest of a boy called "Charley the Bootblack," on the complaint of Harry Frank, on the charge that Charley had severely kicked a boy last Sunday because the boy was selling the Scrantonian. A hearing will probably be held today. It is said that several arrests are to follow on similar charges. They are the result of the trouble that arose last Sunday when the Scrantonian was placed on sale on the streets after several dealers and newsboys refused to handle them.

Funeral of Mr. Carden.

The funeral of Patrick C. Carden was held yesterday morning at his late home on Dundaff street. The Pioneer Father Mathew society turned out in a body. Dr. de Grushy has his own large church filled each Sunday evening. Dr. Henry J. Whalen will again show his great kindness to this church, by coming down this evening to assist the lecturer. By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press.

London, March 28.—In the house of lords today Lord Lansdowne, the foreign secretary announced that the entire military operations in the British troops in China were contemplated for the present.
