Social Gossip

A very large number of couples assembled at the Scranton Bicycle Club's house on Washington avenue last night and enjoyed a most pleasant time as the guests of the Bachelor girls. Bauer's orchestra was in attendance, and furnished the music to which several score couples swung about in the intricacies of the waltz and two step. Miss Gertrude Stimpson and Miss Lida Weaver were the committee in charge of the affair.

Colonel L. A. Watres and Adjutant P. B. Altherton, of the Thirteenth regiment, returned home yesterday afternoon from Easton, where they, Monday night, attended Company I's ball. Colonel Watres led the grand march with the wife of Captain Robert T. Born, of Company I. Miss "Red" of Easton, and Mrs. Clemons, Richmond, Va., were the toast. He in time, Mrs. Clemons, who is the mother of one of the company's lieutenants, is 75 years of age, and came on from her home especially to attend the affair. Adjutant Altherton and Mrs. Watres, of Easton, were the third couple. The affair was held in the Grand Opera House and proved a great success.

The class of 1902 of the School of the Lackawanna gave a social attended and thoroughly enjoyable social last night at Guernsey hall. The hall was appropriately decorated and across the stage were draped the class colors, gold and black and numerals. A large number of couples were present and danced to the music furnished by part of Bauer's orchestra. The committee in charge consisted of Honor Rice, J. Dolph, Taylor Foster and Miss Eloise Phelps.

One of the prettiest of Easter weddings was solemnized Monday at Haverstraw, N. Y., a charming little city, situated on the Hudson thirty miles from New York city, when Stanley J. Stevens of Haverstraw, and Miss Alice Smith, of Haverstraw, were united in marriage.

The marriage ceremony was performed at high noon by Rev. Dr. William Maskett, at the home of the bride's parents. Charles A. Frayfoglia was best man and his sister, Miss Eva D. Frayfoglia attended the bride. Both are residents of Haverstraw. The ceremony was very quietly conducted, there being no one present but the immediate family.

The bride is a strikingly pretty young lady and comes from a cultured and highly influential family. Stanley J. Stevens is well known locally, being special agent for the state dairy and food commission, and Mrs. Stevens returned to Scranton Monday evening and took up their residence in their handsomely furnished quarters at 701 Quinlan avenue.

William Jones entertained a few of his friends Monday evening at the home of his sister, Mrs. William Gruener, of 61 Harrison avenue. Those present were: Misses Ray Lloyd, Elizabeth Lloyd, Sadie Davies, Sarah Evans, Gertrude Williams, Annie McGuire, William H. Jones, John McDowell, Frank Lewis, Stephen Nolar, Frank Lewis, Clarence Farrell, J. W. Bryden and Mrs. Charles Schlager and Mr. and Mrs. William Gruener.

Miss Isabella Jones of Mansey avenue, gave a "Salangunda" party to the members of the R. T. P. club last evening. The guests were: Misses Mancke, Lindsay, Grace Atherton, Julia Benson, L. Nettie Lawrence, Julia

The First Methodist Episcopal congregation have secured the Bishop of the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal church, Pittsburgh, to take the pulpit made vacant by the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. H. Pearce, who will go to Rochester in about two weeks to take charge of the Centenary church at that place—Wilkes-Barre News.

Dr. Fred H. Green, of West Chester, who spoke yesterday at the teachers' institute, was always a man personally familiar with books, an authority on literature, a speaker of fascinating ability and a critic of exquisite purity of taste and rare discrimination. Dr. Green is a discerner of Dr. Henry Beuck, the assistant state superintendent of schools, who is now in Porto Rico. Years ago Dr. Hock was a fair boy, thin and little and poor, but yet a boy with such unusual mental endowment that it was, that he was struck with the latest possibilities of such an intellect. He managed to put the farm boy into the way of school advantages which have since enabled him to grasp the opportunities with avidity and the result may be gathered by dropping into the city institute some day and hearing this farmer boy who is now enough to give a career inspiring to the last degree the intentions of the trustee of all teachers. Dr. Hock.

TALKS TO THE TEACHERS

Miss Libbie J. Eginton, T. C. Mendenhall and Dr. Fred H. Green were the speakers.

The attendance at yesterday's sessions of the teachers' institute was even larger than that of the opening day, several of the teachers who were absent on the first day putting in an appearance. In addition to several hundred visitors who came and went during the day.

Miss Libbie J. Eginton, of Brooklyn, began in the morning a series of talks on "Reading," explaining the details of what is known as the "rational system" of teaching this subject, introduced in Brooklyn public schools by Edward S. Ward. By this system, Miss Eginton claims, it is possible to teach a child to read correctly over 3,000 words within a year's time.

T. C. Mendenhall, president of the Worcester Polytechnic school, and one of the ablest geographers in the country, gave two lectures yesterday, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. In the morning he spoke on "The Figure of the Earth." He explained a number of original experiments which prove conclusively that the earth is round.

In the afternoon Professor Mendenhall gave a fifteen minute talk on the highest mountain in North America.

Dr. Fred H. Green, of the West Chester Normal school, gave two delightful talks during the day on "English Literature." Dr. Green, while a young man, is a most accomplished scholar and reveals that he is possessed of a really wonderful knowledge of English and American literature. He denied the assertion made by some critics that America has no literature and stated in most emphatic terms that there was a distinctive literature belonging to this country.

In the afternoon he conducted what he called a "literary ramble" and took his listeners on a journey in fancy to the homes of some of the distinguished men of letters which this country has produced.

The musical features of yesterday's programmes were excellent. Mrs. Will Harvey, who is the possessor of a soprano voice which has few equals in this city, sang two songs, and a vocal duet was rendered by Miss Irene Mann and Miss Phoebe Smith. The singing of the teachers was led by Prof. David Owens.

Prof. Mendenhall, Dr. Green and Miss Eginton will continue their lectures to-day. Tonight Prof. Mendenhall will lecture on "Weighing the Earth." He was one of the commissioners sent by the United States government to Japan to undertake the weighing of the earth.

SMALL LISTS IN U. S. COURT

ONLY ONE CRIMINAL AND TWO CIVIL CASES READY.

Grand Jury Grinds Out a Few Additional Indictments, but in Every Case It Is Understood Beforehand That It Will Be Disposed of Without a Jury Trial—Anna Dickinson Case Discontinued and the Bogart Case to Be Dismissed—Judges Acheson and Buffington Present.

The adjourned March session of the Federal court of the Western district—the last that will be held in Scranton—opened yesterday morning in the Federal building. Judge Acheson, of the circuit court, and Judge Buffington, of the district court, were both present.

The grand jury was called and sworn and after Judge Buffington had charged them as to their duties, they retired to consider the cases presented by United States Attorney D. B. Heininger, Charles J. Harrison, banker, of Somerset, was named as foreman.

The list of cases in the district court was then called. Only one was ready for court, that of Martin Miglin, the Archibald moonshiner. It was reported to court that Miglin had made an offer to pay the revenue license and costs, and that the internal revenue officers were agreeable to a settlement of the case. It was continued until an order can be prepared for its final disposition.

While waiting for the grand jury returns, the judges took up the civil list. The case of Anna Dickinson against Dr. James Ogelsby, trespass, which had been on the list for a number of terms, was reported settled by ex-Judge Jessup. Dr. Ogelsby was charged with trespass because he signed the certificate as to Miss Dickinson's mental condition before her commitment to Danville asylum.

THE CONTINUANCES.

Continuances were granted in the cases of the Erie Railroad company against William P. Dodge, and the Keystone Coal company, assumption of title against the Delaware, Delaware and Hudson Canal company, trespass; Scranton Axle company against the Sheldon Axle company, trespass; Bridget Cheevers, et al., against the Delaware and Hudson Canal company, trespass; and the case of the Davis-Cobly Ore Roaster company against the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company and Henry Wehrum, was stricken off as being improperly brought.

In the case of Eliza A. Coray against the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad company, et al., arguments are to be heard on a rule to show cause why the bill of complaint should not be dismissed.

The case of Margaret Russell, et al., against the Delaware and Hudson Canal company, trespass, and the case of Michael F. Walsh, executor of the estate of Patrick Butler, deceased, against the Royal Union Life Insurance company, of Des Moines, Ia., were the only civil cases ready for trial.

INSURANCE CASE.

The latter was taken up before Judge Buffington. It is a suit to recover $10,000 on an insurance policy. In October, 1896, Patrick Butler, of Garfieldville, took out a policy on his own life for the benefit of his estate, paying a first premium of $47. He died Jan. 7, 1897. The company refused payment on the policy, on the ground that its agent, T. F. C. Walker, and its examining physician, Dr. L. R. Edwards, had entered into a conspiracy with Butler and his heirs to defraud the company.

In the policy it was set forth that Butler was 49 years of age and perfectly healthy. The company contends that he was over 60 years of age and so grievously afflicted with miners' asthma that his demise was at the best only a matter of a few months. Yesterday the company was engaged in trying to show that Butler had no root in the grave when he was insured. Witnesses were put on the stand who testified that some few years prior to his death, Butler had to give up mining and take a sick leave, and that for five years previous to death, he was stooped, hollow-chested, emaciated and when walking compelled to move at a slow pace.

The case was tried in this court last year and a verdict returned for the plaintiff in the full amount of the claim.

W. S. and George R. McLean are attorneys for the plaintiff. The defendant company is represented by Life Solicitor G. M. Watson and its examining physician, Dr. L. R. Edwards, and Nathaniel M. Hubbard, Jr., general counsel for the company and also for the Chicago and Northwestern railway. Governor Jackson, of Iowa, is president of the defendant company.

THE TRUE BILLS.

Following are the true bills returned by the grand jury.

United States against S. I. Hayes, of Toga county, making false certification of a pension voucher.

United States against May Bensinger, postoffice clerk at Mullingburg, Luzerne county; opening and detaining a letter addressed to Lena Bensinger, of Mullingburg, Luzerne county.

United States against Martha B. Kester, of Scranton; using the mails to distribute matter designed for immoral purposes. Five indictments and forty counts.

United States against David Bolton and Champ Keller, of Lowermont, Luzerne county, and David Ridler, of Lakeville, Luzerne county; counterfeiting eleven dollars.

United States against Frank H. Jones, of Scranton, defrauding and detaining a letter, and securing and embezzling the same.

United States Attorney Heininger stated to the court yesterday that none of the criminal cases to come up at this session will demand a jury trial as plea of guilty or nolle prosequi will likely be entered.

The case against ex-Postmaster E. F. Bogert, of Wilkes-Barre, will likely be dismissed today. When it was tried one year ago last September, in Williamsport, the jury disagreed. Attorney Heininger stated that he has no new evidence discovered and that he will ask for the entry of a nolle prosequi.

The district court business, it is expected, will be concluded by this evening and it is not improbable that the circuit court will have finished by tomorrow.

The officers of the court who are in attendance are United States Attorney Daniel E. Heininger, Assistant United States Attorneys D. M. Miller and J. N. Cunningham, United States Marshal F. J. Leonard, Deputy Marshals Joe H. Lyons and J. W. Snyder, Clerk W. T. Lindsay, Deputy A. J. Colborn, Jr., Crier J. R. Snyder.

LICENSE WAS REFUSED.

Rev. W. H. Williams Made a Winning Fight in Factoryville.

Rev. W. H. Williams, local superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, assisted by the Women's Christian Temperance union of Factoryville, have succeeded in preventing the granting of a license to a Mr. Howell, who wished to run a saloon in Factoryville.

Mr. Howell has been conducting a saloon in La Grange and as it was rumored that he was not conducting it according to law, Mr. Williams sent men on a recent Sunday to investigate.

These two gentlemen reported that Mr. Howell was selling drink. Mr. Williams states they spent no less than $5.00 in procuring drinks for these men and the result was the granting of the license was successfully contested.

Mr. Williams will deliver a lecture in Factoryville next Monday night for the purpose of raising money to defray the expenses incurred.

DISCUSSED THE RIPPER.

Recorder James Moir and Former City Solicitor A. A. Vosburg Spoke Before Men's Society.

Recorder James Moir and Attorney A. A. Vosburg, the recently deposed city solicitor, were the speakers last night at the last meeting of the Scranton Men's society, of North Scranton, which will be held until next October. The recorder devoted himself to a general discussion of municipal government, while Mr. Vosburg explained some of the principal features of the ripper bill, under which this city is now operating.

Recorder Moir, in opening his remarks, stated that he felt called upon to correct an erroneous impression which had gone abroad regarding his reasons for removing Mr. Vosburg from office. It had been stated, he said, that he cut the city solicitor's official head off because he had on several occasions failed to render the kind of an opinion that he, as mayor, wanted him to render.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," said the recorder. "I want to say that whenever Mr. Vosburg was called upon for an opinion, he interpreted the law in a sense of which I was out of favor, and I and every man who knew him, respected him for it. I feel sure that he will soon have the opportunity to interpret the law as a judge of the court of common pleas."

The recorder said that the municipalities of this country are dependent too much upon legislative enactment. All cities should have a special charter of their own, he said, in order that they might be free from legislative interference.

"The recorder," said he, "should be as independent in its sphere of action as the state and nation are in theirs. The state should have no right to impose its judgment upon a municipality."

He referred, in passing, to the ripper bill, which he said was a compilation of the best ideas in municipal government from all parts of the country. The public, under the ripper, knows who to blame whereas formerly the executive was checkmated all the time.

"I like this idea of non-partisan societies," said the recorder, in conclusion, "such as this one. They should be organized in every part of our city in order that the people of all parties may be aroused to a sense of their civic duty and that a civic conscience may be developed which will render every public service a public trust."

Mr. Vosburg outlined the principal features of the ripper bill and said that apart from the sense of their civic duty and that a civic conscience may be developed which will render every public service a public trust.

He commended particularly the sections which make the city treasurer and city controller directly responsible to the people; give the police magistrates power to settle petty cases, and extending the power of the city to tax quasi-public corporations.

At the conclusion of the meeting a rising vote of thanks was tendered both speakers.

ESTIMATES COMMITTEE GIVES "CHASER" A THROW DOWN.

Refuses to Make Appropriations for the Officers Provided for in Recorder Moir's Supplement to the Reorganization Ordinance—Salary Raising Turned Into a Farce—Library Appropriation Cut—Allowance of $2,000 for Local National Guard Companies.

Selections Wagner, Oliver, Merriman, Vaughan and Shea, and Commissioners Norton, Coleman, Phillips, Keller and Partridge, comprising the appropriation committee of the new council, met for the first time last night and proceeded to frame an appropriation ordinance with the ordinance drafted by last year's committee as a working basis.

The committee was practically unanimous in cleaving to the original reorganization ordinance and giving no consideration to the demands of the "chaser," and very short work would have been made of the task of distributing the estimated assets, had it not been that some of the clerks and subordinate officials had done successful lobbying for increased allowances for salaries and the like. Mr. Vaughan and Mr. Keller became disgusted with the way the committee was allowing itself to be influenced by the lobbyists and proceeded to make a farce of the salary budget by voting a ridiculously big increase every time an item of consequence is that while the whole ordinance was gone through with, it will all have to be gone through with again.

MUST MAKE CUTS.

The next time it will be necessary for the committee to cut deep and often because there is now $34,000 more appropriated than the controller's estimate of the revenue. As the ordinance drafted last night's session, $307,378.82 was appropriated. The estimated revenue is $413,200. When the meeting adjourned, the $19,700 margin and $34,000 more were eaten up.

The committee started out by unanimously tabling the $2,250 requisition of Delinquent Tax Collector Jenkins. He asked $2,500 for his own salary, $1,800 for the salary of a clerk and $750 for printing, stationery and incidentals. Mr. Wagner, who was in the chair, suggested to the committee that the "chaser" provided for in the department and it would be advisable to make an appropriation for it. "The 'chaser' hasn't passed yet," interjected Mr. Vaughan.

It was a motion of Mr. Phillips that started the wholesale salary raising. He moved to increase the salary of the recorder's secretary from $900 to $1,500. Messrs Oliver, Partridge, Merriman and Keller voted against it. Messrs. Coleman, Norton, Shea, Phillips and Wagner voted for it. Mr. Vaughan did not vote. He wanted to compromise on $1,200.

Then Mr. Oliver had the salary of the treasurer's clerk raised from $1,200 to $1,500, and the salary of the assistant city solicitor from $1,200 to $1,500. Someone suggested that the assistant solicitor asked for only $1,200, and that the "chaser" provided that it should be $1,200. "That's all right," said Mr. Oliver. "He'll take it. As long as we are raising salaries, let's raise them all around."

"Certainly," said Mr. Keller, and when the department of city clerk was reached he had the clerk's salary increased from $1,500 to $2,500; Mr. Vaughan increased the assistant city clerk from $1,200 to $1,500, and the clerk of the common council from $900 to $1,200.

The city assessors, who have just had their numbers increased from three to five and their salaries from $1,000 to $1,500, came in with a requisition for $400 for clerk hire. Mr. Keller promptly had it made $500 and then followed it with a motion to supply the assessors with an automobile. Mr. Oliver amended the motion by making it four automobiles. Chairman Wagner was beginning to color up and threatened to go home. The threat did not halt the farce. Mr. Oliver had the salary of the clerk of the director of public safety raised from $750 to $1,200. Mr. Keller boosted it to $1,500. Mr. Oliver, not to be outdone in liberality, boosted the superintendent of parks' pay from $600 to $1,200 and Mr. Coleman tacked $900 on the $1,500 allowed the controller for clerk hire.

MORE PATROLMEN.

In the matter of items other than salaries the committee did serious work. Messrs. Coleman and Phillips were the only members to vote for the four additional patrolmen and city detective. Mr. Oliver vigorously attacked the office of city detective, saying it demoralized the whole force.

The six assistant fire chiefs were done away with. The health officer, food inspector and plumbing inspector were each given a $200 raise. No appropriation was made for the superintendent of the bureau of health and the position of assistant sanitary officer was done away with.

Other allowances were made as follows: Repairing city hall, $4,052; police magistrates, $2,000; three new officers for city engineer's force, $2,400; furnishing new offices, $500; judgment held by Scranton Savings bank, $24,181.18.

The item for an expert book-keeper to open up the new accounts in city offices was knocked out. Mr. Keller tried to leave the ward appropriations lumped, but was defeated.

Colonel L. A. Watres and Quartermaster F. M. Vandling, of the Thirtieth regiment, appeared before the committee with a request for an appropriation for the maintenance of the eight local companies of the National Guard, in pursuance to a recently-enacted law allowing councils in second class cities to appropriate as much as $500 a company to the permanently quartered National Guard companies stationed within the city limits. An appropriation of $250 a company was approved by a vote of five to four.

Against the vigorous protest of Mr. Keller, the appropriation for the library was reduced from $12,150 to $12,400, the amount appropriated last year. Mr. Vaughan, who made the motion to reduce the allowance, said he was moved to do this because the expenses for salaries and incidentals were crawling up each year, while the cost of books remains the same.

The committee adjourned to meet Saturday night.
