GROWL OVER THE SEEDS.

An Assertion That Inferior Specimens Have Been Used.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Philadelphia, April 22,-The Whole sale Seedmen's league of the United States has forwarded a communication to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, charging irregularities in the free seed distribution of his department and protesting against payment for seeds furnished on the April, 1901, contract. The assertion is made that common and cheap seeds have been substituted for the specific varieties indicated in the specifications of January 27, 1900; that the stipulated weights have been reduced, and that contractors have been benefitted because of these and other irregularities.

A letter was also sent to Robert Tracewell, comptroller of the United States treasury, requesting him to stop payments on vouchers of the Market Gardeners' association.

Burnet Landreth, secretary of the Wholesale Seedmen's league, today said the bid of the Market Gardener's association to furnish 24,000,000 packages of seeds of specified weight and variety, which seemed the contract representing $108,000, was so low that at the figures quoted it will be almost impossible to furnish the seed required by the specifications.

PITTSBURG FLOOD OVER

It is Thought That the Danger of High Water Is Now Past.

TOWN COVERED WITH MUD

A Great Deal of Cleaning Up to Be Done-In Many Places Along the Banks Machinery Will Need to Be Taken Apart and Cleaned-Railroads Have Recovered Remarkably Well from the Effects of the Flood-Various Lines Have Resumed Operations-Heavy Losses

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Pittsburg, April 22.-The flood is ver. Notwithstanding the fact that in the early day there was every evidence of a renewal of the high water, lie announcement can be made auhoditatively tonight that there is not the least danger of another rise at this point, nor for the present, but owns on the Ohio river below here are not yet out of danger, because of rains in the valley last night and today, All up river points report the rain and snow having ceased and the rivers falling. The Ohio registered 19.8 at the dam here at 7 o'clock, and falling. Fore-caster Frank Ridgway says it would require a steady downpour of rain for wenty-four hours to check the fall. and from present indications such a thing is not likely. The rivers about this city are down so that the works along the banks are running. There is a great deal of leaning up to be done. The flood prought in much slimy mud that it left when it receded and it will require a day or two to remove it from many of the mills. In a number of places this mud has clogged up the machinclass government investments. It was ery, some of which will have to be announced this afternoon that the taken apart and be cleaned. The creeks and runs which did so much damage in the outlying districts on Saturday, are back well within their banks tonight and mud and slime are the only reminders left of the flood. Carnegie borough is busy cleaning up and repairing the bridges. houses and roads that were destroyed when Chartiers creek ran wild. same state of affairs exists at Mc-Kee's Rocks and other towns that the water reached.

Railroads Recover. The railroads have recovered re-narkably well from the effects of the lood and snow storm, and now the various lines have resumed operations to all points; but for several days no pretension at running on schedule time vill be made.

A look aver the ground after the flood shows that the losses will be fully as great as was estimated yesterday. In and about Pittsburg it will probably take $1,000,000 to pay the total cost of the injury to property by the water and by landslides. Add to this, the great loss to the railroads and manufacturing plants up and vicinity, with the loss in wages to the workingmen, and the total will not fall far short of the $2,000,000 mark.

The work of cleaning up is going on everywhere in the flooded district. Most of the water front mills and factories are still idle and will be until the mud is gotten out of the machinery and water pumped out of the pits.

BABY BURIED ALIVE.

A Child Rescued by Patrick Mc Avoy, a New York Central Railroad Employe.

By Exclusive Wife from The Associated Press. New York, April 22 .- Patrick Mc-Avoy, a laborer employed by the New York Central railroad in Hastings-on the-Hudson, saw a man and woman bury a two-weeks-old baby boy alive As soon as McAvoy realized what was being done, he ran to the rescue and succeeded in removing the loose earth from the child in time to save its life. The man and woman ran away, but McAvoy gave a description man and woman were arrested in Yonkers on suspicion that they were he would-be murderers.

As soon as the couple saw him they ran, and McAvoy began to remove the reshly replaced dirt. He went to the place and took the child from its burial place. As soon as he had the child, McAvoy ran for a car for Hastings. He directed the motorman to put on all speed, and Hastings was reached in record time. The first drug store passed was the goal. In this place the child was quickly revived. It was coming around itself, and five minutes of artificial respiration put it out of all danger. Doctors had been summoned as well, but when they arrived a few minutes later they agreed that all danger was past.

GOVERNOR STONE IS SUSTAINED

Supreme Court Decides as to the Constitutionality of His Action on School Appropriations.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Philadelphia, April 22.-The Supreme court today sustained the constitutionality of Governor Stone's action in cutting off by a veto $1,000,000 from the public school appropriation made by the state legislature in 1898. The governor's right to veto certain parts of appropriation bills was carried to the Supreme court by the Patton township school district of Centre county, on an appeal from the decision of Judge Love of that county, who held that the veto of the governor was constitutional. The township's school board instituted proceedings to recover its portion of the money which was lost to the Centre county schools by the governor's veto. and applied to Judge Love for a mandamus. The petition was refused, and the case was immediately carried to the Supreme court. The right of the governor to reduce appropriations had been the subject of much interest throughout the state, and several suits, instituted by school districts to test the legality of the governor's action, are now pending. The decision of the Supreme court today will probably cause the abandonment of these suits.

In his opinion, Justice Mitchell said: The governor is an integral part of the law making power of the state. His disapproval commonly known as a veto, is essentially a leg islative act. The fact that the governor is limited to negation or concurrence and cannot affirmatively initiate or amend legislation, does not take away the legislative character of hisenate of the United States to originate reven ills changes its standing as a co-ordinate bran

Both sides have sought to derive confirmation of their views from the express mandate of the constitution in section 1 of article x, that the legislature "shall appropriate at least one million dollars each year for the support of public schools." This, the appellants claim, prevents the governor from exercising his veto power a all against appropriations for the public schools But this argument entirely ignores the consti-tutional requirement that "every bill" shall be arbmitted for the governor's approval. The cor stitution makes no exception of school bills of any other, and such exception would permit easi and clear violation of the prohibition in section t of article ix, against the creation of a state debt exceeding one million dollars in the ag-gregate at any one time to supply deficiencies in revenue. Suppose the legislature should up propriate a sum for school purposes exceeding by more than a million dollars the entire revenu of the state. It would be the governor's duty veto it to prevent the creation of a prohibite debt. And even if the appropriation for schoolwas only the constitutional million dollars, yet if that would increase an existing debt fro deficiency of revenue beyond the prohibited limit, there would at once be an inevitable conflict between two express provisions of the constitu-tion and it would become the governor's duty to exercise his judgment which was of the lesser inportance and should give way. The clear result therefore is that appropriations for school the requirement of submission to the governor

There are but three ways in which a bill can become a law in this state—passage by the leg-islature and approval by the governor; passage by the legislature, disapproval by the governor and passage again in the mode prescribed by the constitution; or passage by the legislature and failure of the governor to return it with his objections within the required time. The appropriation of $11,000,000 claimed in the present ease never became law in any of these three ways and there is no other.

Justice Mitchell, in conclusion, said that the writ of mandamus Itself was one that the court had full power to issue for the state officer exempt from its operation. This is a personal or official exemption, the manifest purpose of which was to protect a state officer from being taken away or interfered with in his official duties a the seat of government to answer th local courts throughout the state. In this case he held the objection now made relates not to the authority of the court over the subject matter, but only to the privilege, personal or offi-

AGUINALDO IS INTERVIEWED

The Ex-Insurgent Expresses Opinions as to the Philippines Situation.

CLAIMS TO BE SINCERE

Says That He Is Doing All Possible to Assist in the Pacification of the Islands-He Believes That Tinio, Luoban, Malvar and Other Representative Insurgents Will Surrender as Soon as They Can Be Made

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Manila, April 22.-A representative of the Associated Press visited Emilio Aguinaldo this afternoon at 56 Solano street, whither he was removed from Malacan, and found him in a large room upstairs, furnished with a table, a typewriting machine and twenty chairs. His wife, who was entertaining a number of Filipino women friends, sat at one end of the room. while Aguinaldo, smoking a cigar and chatting with Benito Legardo, occupied the opposite corner.

to Understand the Conditions.

Others present were Lieutenant Colonel John S. Marjory, Forty-first Volunteer infantry, who has charge of Aguinaldo, Lieutenant Gilbert A. Youngbery, of the Third artillery, and Mr. Fisher, General MacArthur's private secretary.

Aguinaldo, whose bearing was courteous and dignified, was dressed in white, looked well and made an excellent impression. Legardo, who only recently returned from the United States, was telling him about the trip and he seemed interested, smiled frequently and asked numerous questions. He inquired particularly as to President McKinley and seemed anxious to know what was thought of him in the United States. He was rather reluctant to talk for publication and onsidered every question carefully before answering. He said he was doing all he could to assist in the pacifica tion of the Philippines and expressed Ifimself as surprised at what the Americans had accomplished. When he was first captured, he went on to say, he was greatly astonished to find that a majority of the Filipinos entertained the opinion that American sovereignty was preferable to independlieve that way himself. He explained that since the dissolution of the insurgent congress and the declaration of guerilla warfare the chiefs had onerated to all intents and purposes independently. They recognized him as commander in chief, sending him reports occasionally and he issued some orders, but for the last seven months the administration had been difficult, as he had been almost disconnected.

Insurgents Urged to Surrender. "I am now urging in the strongest possible manner," said Aguinaldo. that all insurgents should surrender and swear allegiance to the United States" He expressed the opinion that Tinio Luoban, Malvar and other representative insurgents would surrender as soon as they came to understand the nature of the amnesty offered then He said he hoped that when the work of pacification was complete and conditions were settled the prisoners in Guam would be released. After referring in grateful terms to the courteous treatment accorded him by the military authorities, he declared his conviction that the civil government which will follow pacification would realize the highest hopes of the Fillpino people. When questioned regarding the report that he would visit the United States, he replied that he would like to do so, but had made no plans as yet, placing himself entirely at the disposal of the United States government. In concluding the interview he

"Every word in my address to my countrymen, the Filipinos, came from my heart. I nope the Americans believe me thoroughly sincere in my efforts to secure peace, and, under American auspices, to promote the welfare and prosperity of the Philippines."
