TO PROSECUTE THE OLD BOARD

Ultimatum of Poor Directors Announced.

At the semi-monthly meeting of the poor board last night it was decided to proceed against the old members for the alleged shortages found by the au-

The matter was given to the board's solicitor, Attorney H. C. Butler, who will report at the next meeting of the Chairman Thomas presided and present were Messrs. McCabe, McMillan and Secretary Williams. After the reading of the minutes of last mesting Superintendent Alger, of the Polar Creamery company, was given the privilege of the floor. He was present to address the board in behalf of his company, which a few weeks ago placed one of their creameries on trial at the poor house.

The creamery has a refrigerator combined with it, and besides churning, etc., the surplus water used to operate it is utilized to reduce the temperature of the storage plant of the creamery, where victuals, etc., may be stored.

The creamery installed at the almshouse did not give satisfaction at first, but this was due, the company's representative said, to a lack of knowledge as to its operation and to the circumstance that there was no direct water connection, which is essential to the operation of the contrivance. Since then, Mr. Alger, said, he himself had the watter connection made and that the creamery has continued to give sat. isfaction. This, he declared, the steward at the farm was willing to attest.

After a prolonged discussion, during which Mr. Alger urged upon the board the acceptance of the creamery, the understanding was reached that if the creamery gave satisfaction during the warm weather up to July 1 the board would accept and pay for the apparat-

Mr. McCabe was disinclined to accept the creamery until the board would have enough money in the treasury. Just now there were no funds available, but if the tax collector attended to his office there would be no stringency with the board's finances.

Mr. McCabe, for the farm committee, reported that a number of fruit trees had been grafted and that good results were expected from the opera-

The matter of surcharges against the old board, found by the auditors in going over the accounts, was given the board's attention by a motion of Mr. McCabe that the present board take steps to collect these shortages or indebtedness from the old directors.

Mr. McCabe said it was the duty the poor board owed to the city of Carbondale to recover these amounts. and so far as he was concerned he would advise and direct the board to proceed to collect the money, even if it was necessary to spend as much money as was owing in order to carry on the prosecution.

The motion of Mr. McCabe was car-Williams.

Attorney H. C. Butler, solicitor for the board, was present and was called upon to enlighten the board as to how to proceed to recover the alleged shortages of the old directors

The auditors' report, Mr. Butler said, which was not appealed from by either of the old board or present board, and whatever shortage or surcharges were there reported could be taken as a basis on which to proceed against Tthe old board. The alleged indebtedness of the old directors could be collected on their bonds, if there were any, and if they refused to pay it personally.

In the discussion that was carried on, Mr. McCabe and Secretary Wil-Hams were alone active and they feelingly expressed themselves with regard to prosecuting the old directors. if necessary, in order to have the alleged shortages settled up.

The discussion closed with another motion by Mr. McCabe, seconded by Secretary Williams, that Solicitor Butler be given all papers relating to the old directors' accounts, bonds, etc., and that he report to the board at its next meeting what course the board should pursue in its intended prosecution. The motion was carried without any dissent.

This, the board members said, is their ultimatum in the case of the old directors, and that their prosecution may be expected to follow.

WILLIAMS PROVES AN ALIBI.

The Forest City Man Charged with Buglary Discharged by Alderman

Harry Williams, of Forest City, who was charged with an attempted burglary at the store of Grocer John Mohr, succeeded in proving an alibi last night, and was discharged by Alderman Jones.

Williams was accused of breaking a window, or removing a pane of glass from the store window of Mohr's place, with the intent to rob the place. The evidence on which he was arrested was circumstantial. Bernard O'Donnell, of Brown's restaurant, swore Williams was in the restaurant on the night Mohr's place was broken into, and left Brown's about twenty minutes before the happening.

Williams declared he was in Scranton, at the United States hotel, that night, and at last night's hearing he had two witnesses, Night Clerk Rooney and James Beamish, who testified to this effect. On the strength of their testimony Williams was discharged.

Interest in the Stourbridge Lion.

The announcement that a model of the Stourbridge Lion, the first locomotive that ever turned a wheel in America, will be on exhibition at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, awakens local interest.

The fact that this primitive means of railroad conveyance was first run at Honesdale, has a local interest, but of more interest is the fact that Carbondale was for many years the home of the largest part of the first locomotive. Reference is made to the boiler, which, after changing ownership several times and being moved about from place to place, it came into the hands of the firm of Lindsay & Early, founders, on Seventh avenue. now dissolved. /The firm used the boiler for several years, until it passed its usefulness. It was then disearded and for many years was stored in a shed on Eighth avenue. About ten years ago Mr. Early, one of the owners of this valuable relict of ploneer railroading, moved by the belief that the public would appreciate the chance of viewing the historical relic, took it to Scranton, where it was exhibted for several days. The Smithsonian Institute, at Washington, opened correspondence with Mr. Early with the hope of obtaining possession of the boiler to aisplay it with some other parts of the original Stourbridge Lion, a couple of the wheels.
