THE WORLD'S STORY.

Lecture on the Passion Play by Rev. R. F. Y. Pierce, D. D.

The Passion Play has been called "the story that transformed the world." No portrait of the Passion of our Lord ever claimed the attention of the world, since the divine tragedy of Calvary, as has the wonderful performance at Oberammergau every ten years. In fulfillment of a sacred vow, these quiet village people have become the greatest artists of the world in real drama, and tens of thousands of people every decade make the long journey from all parts of the world to see the Passion Play.

Rev. Dr. Pierce, having seen the play and studied the people in their homes, will lecture on the Passion Play and give many beautiful views, rich in coloring and as true to real life as perfect photographs can produce them. The admission will be 25 cents.

Among the views will be scenes of the management of the Alps, photographs of the principal performers—Anton Lang as Christus, Mary, mother of Jesus, Peter, John, Judas; "Christ entering Jerusalem; expelling the money changers; the Sanhedrin; setting of Bethany; plotting of Last Supper; Christ before Pilate and Herod; in the garden, betrayed, scourged, crowned, crucifixion, entombment, resurrection and ascension."

THE CONSERVATORY RECITAL.

Large Audience Listened to Programme Rendered in Parish Hall.

With its twenty-seventh public recital last evening in St. Luke's Parish hall, the Conservatory of Music opened its series of seven closing recitals, which are to include four evening juvenile recitals and a complimentary artist recital by the great Boston pianist, Frederick Faellert. The large audience and the enthusiasm with which the students, from the smallest to those of highest attainments, are invariably received, are remarkable when the frequency of these public recitals is considered. The faculty of the conservatory are to be congratulated upon the appreciation uniformly accorded by the public, not only because it assures them of the public's hearty approval and support, but because it makes that genial atmosphere in the concert hall which is most necessary to the performers.

A large number of those who appeared last evening were quite young, this in fact being their first year's work in music, but in every case the tone produced was round and full and the musical ideas of the composers were well brought out.

A large number of those more advanced students also appeared, and their ensemble work, of these, all of whom did excellent work, special mention should be made of Norma Johns, whose rendering of the Sautterle Caprice by Lack was remarkable for a child of her age, and Harry Wilkins, whose rendering of the difficult Polonaise in E flat minor by Chopin was thoroughly well done and highly creditable, both to himself and his teacher, Professor Pennington. Miss Emma Bone, in the Marche by Raff, distinguished herself by her tone and was enthusiastically applauded.

A new era for this already successful institution was publicly inaugurated by the introduction by the director, Professor Pennington, of Arthur G. Morse, who comes from New York to the Conservatory's new business manager. Mr. Morse is a gentleman of fine presence and his few remarks made in acknowledgment of his introduction and a personality fitted to fill the place assigned him with music fact and to be popular with the young people.

DON'T LIKE ANSWER.

Nine Hour Day at Dickson Locomotive Works Is Not Granted. More Men Arrive.

A meeting was held in Hulbert's hall last night of the nine-hour day committee of the machinists, at which the special committee of employees of the Dickson Manufacturing company's locomotive works presented the following answer to their nine-hour day petition, received yesterday from Superintendent Delaney:

May 16, 1901.

Mr. John Small, Mr. Angelo Gier, Mr. D. F. Keane, Committee on the petition, which I now hand you, is as follows: We propose to work nine hours per week as at present, that is, ten hours on Saturdays, and ten hours on Sundays, nine hours on the tenth hour of the first five days and for the ninth hour of Saturdays will pay at the rate of time and quarter time. That is, we will pay time and quarter time for six hours per week, and our present rate of overtime after working hours.

Dickson Manufacturing Company.

By C. J. Delaney, Superintendent.

The answer proved highly unsatisfactory to the men claim that it guarantees merely an increase of 2 1/2 per cent, without conceding the reduction in hours. It will be impossible, moreover, to take any action on such a communication containing variations on the original demands without first calling a meeting of all the affiliated lodges. The remainder of the session consisted of routine business. Another entertainment is to be given for the purpose of raising funds, and various committees have been appointed to take charge of its details.

At Dunmore the men continued at work yesterday. The situation there is a peculiar one. Superintendent Shide has informed the men that the shops are controlled by the Erie Railroad company and that the employees under the heading of "railroad machinists." None of the conditions imposed by President O'Connell upon railroad machinists to be scrupulously observed before a strike can be declared have been attended to, and this leaves the situation dead up. The council will soon take hold of the matter.

The local situation remains about the same. Men are brought in on at least all the trains in small bands, and a number were yesterday working in the machine shops and a few at the cars shops. Superintendent of Motive Power and Machinery T. S. Lloyd was seen by a Tribune man and briefly remarked:

"I cannot say exactly how many men we have at work, but I should estimate the number at between one hundred and fifty and two hundred. At any rate, we have sufficient for all present needs."

A large fence is being erected around the paint shop, in which the men are being quarantined. Eleven men were sent back by the executive committee of strikers during the morning. Eleven men arrived from Hoboken at 6 o'clock, but refused to go to work again. They heard a strike was on.

Two communications were yesterday received from Dover by the car builders, in the first of which was announced smallpox had broken out among the men taking the places of the strikers. The second letter stated that one of the men had died and that the other was very low. The board of health was declared to have quarantined their lodgings.

The Dover strikers were paid off in full May 15. Notice was yesterday served on a number of local storekeepers that filling any orders for the new help around the shops would be resented.

MAGISTRATE MILLAR REBUKED DETECTIVES.

Does Not Approve of the Manner in Which They Secured Evidence of the Alleged Fact That Certain Saloon Keepers Sell Liquor to Minors—Director of Public Safety Hitchcock Does Not Take Kindly to What the Magistrate Had to Say Yesterday.

Police Magistrate W. S. Millar, after discharging four saloon keepers arrested yesterday at the instance of Director of Public Safety F. L. Hitchcock, on the charge of selling intoxicants to minors, didn't hesitate to express his disapproval of the manner in which the evidence against them was secured by the three private detectives who worked under the direction of Director Hitchcock.

"The four saloonkeepers arrested were Ignatz Omer and Jacob Harris, of South Washington avenue; John Kelly, of Conover avenue; and Mrs. Bridget Walsh, of North Washington avenue. The prosecution, represented by Special Officer Keene, offered as evidence the testimony of a small boy whom Keene said he gave money to purchase beer in these several saloons.

This was enough for Magistrate Millar, who when he heard that this was the kind of evidence to be offered in each case, the four saloonkeepers were discharged, after admonishing them to live up to the law in the future. In speaking about the matter to a Tribune man yesterday afternoon, he said:

OPPOSED TO METHOD.

"I am unalterably opposed, and so I told Mr. Keene this morning, to this way of securing evidence against these saloonkeepers. This idea of giving a little boy of tender years money and sending him into a saloon to tempt these people to disobey the law is contrary to my sense of justice and I do not propose to countenance it in any court.

"My record in the past shows that I believe in upholding the law and punishing its violators, but I don't believe in bounding these saloonkeepers in this way. Selling to minors is of course a crime, but there are other ways of securing evidence against them, and a young child by sending him into a saloon.

"There are some people who believe that a saloonkeeper is about the worst kind of a man in the world, just because he is a saloonkeeper, and who believe that he should be prosecuted until he is driven out of the business. That's not my idea. I think that the men who are now paying $1.00 for a license and who by so doing are contributing a third of the city's revenue, should not be prosecuted at every step and tempted into disobeying the law by such tricks as these resorted to by Director Hitchcock's agents."

Director Hitchcock when seen by a Tribune man yesterday said the disposition made of the cases by Magistrate Millar.

WHAT HITCHCOCK SAID.

"He might have had decency enough to hear our evidence, at least," said these persons who were arrested. "We have been flustered and hurried at every step and tempted into disobeying the law by such tricks as these resorted to by Director Hitchcock's agents."

Director Hitchcock when seen by a Tribune man yesterday said the disposition made of the cases by Magistrate Millar.

WILL PETITION COURT.

"I shall petition court at once for a revocation of the license of the saloonkeepers who were discharged yesterday by Magistrate Millar. I want an abjectly understood that while the saloonkeepers are to be closed up, the licensed saloonkeeper will have to live up to the law, also."

"There is very good ground for the belief that Recorder Mohr and Director Hitchcock had a lively tilt over this matter yesterday morning and that some very pointed things were said by both officials. It is understood that the recorder is opposed to the methods adopted by the director in securing the evidence.

At any rate the director was heard to say as he left the recorder's office that he'd run his department his own way or get out.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

Those in the Second District Tomorrow Merely Perfunctory.

The Republican primaries to be conducted in the Second legislative district tomorrow will be merely of a perfunctory nature. There are two state delegates to be chosen and only two candidates have remained in the race for the places. They are Major W. S. Millar, of the Eighth ward, and Charles Toose, of South Scranton.

Only a few of the polling places will be opened, from the fact that there is no opposition to the candidates and it will therefore only be necessary to comply generally with the rules for conducting primary elections.

DIED WHILE TEACHING.

Prof. Grant, Principal of the High School, Fell Dead in the Classroom Yesterday Morning.

Professor Willard V. Grant, principal of the high school, dropped dead yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, while teaching a senior class in psychology.

He was seated at the time in a class room on the first floor and by a strange coincidence had just finished reading the following words from a book when he was stricken with death: "Young people, we do not have our lives in our hands in the next world." He gasped for a moment, mumbled something about opening the window, and fell to the floor.

Nearly every student in the class started at once for a physician, and a few minutes later were half a dozen on the scene. Professor Grant was dead when they arrived and all seemed unanimous in the belief that death was caused by apoplexy. Coroner Roberts gave permission to have the remains taken to the family home and this was done.

Miss Ethel Grant, a daughter of the professor, is a pupil at the high school, and was prostrated with grief when taken into the room where her father lay dead. Vice Principal Wagner assumed charge of the school and ordered it dismissed for the day.

Professor Grant was a man of striking personality, being six feet four inches high and weighing nearly 200 pounds. He was a most familiar figure on the streets and once seen would always be remembered.

He was born about fifty-two years ago in the northern part of New York state and was a man of unusual experience and ability in his chosen profession. He entered Harvard university in 1885 and graduated high in his class in 1889. He was known at college as a serious student who had little time for the lighter and more frivolous side of college life.

After his graduation he returned to the western part of New York state, where he married, and, together with his wife, started a preparatory school, which they successfully conducted for several years, at the end of which he was called to the principalship of the high school at Leavenworth, Kansas. From there, after remaining for several years, he went to Indianapolis to take charge of the high school in that city.

In Indianapolis Mr. Grant developed the greatest success of his life, in re-adjusting and re-arranging the entire high school course. It was in the Indianapolis high school while Mr. Grant was principal that the first experiments in the introduction of manual training in the public schools of this country were made.

So successful was the development of this manual training idea by Mr. Grant that he was sought after all over the country as an authority on this subject. He was named to the eastern states and he was soon called to Providence, R. I., where he assumed charge of a very large public enterprise in the manual training line.

After several years he withdrew from public work for a time and engaged in a private study of the writings of a few pupils preparing for college. In the summer of 1899 he was engaged by the Scranton school board as principal of the Scranton High school, a position which he filled from September of that year until yesterday, with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of all concerned in the educational affairs of this city.

He was a member of the Penn Avenue Baptist church and an earnest and zealous Christian worker, doing the Master's bidding in all things that were meet and proper. He is survived by a wife and five children, as follows: Ethel, of this city; Warren, of Harvard university; Blanche, of Massachusetts; Bertha, of Rhode Island, and John, of South Dakota. The latter three are teachers.

The funeral will probably be held on Monday from the family home at 219 Madison avenue.

Coroner Roberts viewed the remains shortly after death occurred and issued an inquest. Death was due to apoplexy, he said.

A meeting of the High School committee of the board of control was held last night and word received from Mrs. Grant that the funeral will be private. The delay is caused by the fact that a daughter teaching in South Dakota is coming to attend the ceremony. The committee decided that no session of the High School should be held either today or Monday.

The time will, however, assemble as usual this morning in the auditorium and there pass resolutions regarding the untimely death of their principal.

Now Is the Time to Enter.

No doubt there are many young men and women all over Lackawanna and surrounding counties who would like to enter the contest and are hesitating because they fear that there will be so many in it that they would stand but a poor show to finish anywhere near the top. To these we would say: Enter now, whether you reside in Scranton or outside of it, and you can compare on an equal footing with all of the contestants excepting the first two, and they are now only three points each in the lead, which lead can be overcome.

For full particulars concerning the contest, with its rules and plan of action, and the special rewards offered in connection therewith, read the advertisement on the fourth page of this morning's Tribune, or address a letter

ANOTHER CONTESTANT MAKES HIS FIRST RETURN.

Increasing Interest in The Tribune's Educational Contest Is Shown. Some Questions Asked and Answered—Three New Entries Received Yesterday—The Importance of Making Prompt Returns of Subscribers—There Is Plenty of Room Still for Ambitious Young Men and Women, and Now Is the Best Time to Enter.

Standing of the Leading Contestants

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 1. R. Leo Huber, Scranton.....          | 3 |
| 2. Henry Schwenker, South Scranton..... | 3 |

Yesterday was the fourth day of the Tribune's Educational Contest, and it was marked by the enrolling of three additional workers, in addition to that, another of the contestants turned in three points. The one to make his debut in the list of leaders is Henry Schwenker, of South Scranton. He is now tied with R. Leo Huber, of Scranton, for first place. In a few days this list of leaders will be materially lengthened. As soon as the young men and women who have taken out the subscription blanks get down to earnest work there will be interesting changes made from day to day. Too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of turning in names as soon as possible. These results of the contest should be reported at the Tribune office by 1 o'clock each afternoon. Points sent in after that hour cannot be credited until the following day.

New Contestants.

The new entries yesterday were Miss Vida Pedrick, of Clark's Summit, Miss Hilda M. Dewey, of Jersey, and J. Garfield Angwin, Dunmore, all from outside the limits of Scranton.

Contestants may help themselves materially by turning in the points they secure as soon as possible, for if their names are printed as being among the leaders they can then point out to prospective subscribers that they stand a first class show of winning one of the special rewards. Besides this excellent reason for turning points in promptly, a subscriber is always much better pleased if he receives his paper the day after he has paid for it.

Some Questions Answered.

One of the contestants asked yesterday what he should do when a subscriber asked him for a receipt. He was told to give the subscriber a memorandum receipt of the amount turned in and when he forwarded the subscription to the home office accompanied by the cash, the subscriber would have a regular Tribune receipt sent to him. This answer will apply to all contestants, and the amount of the subscription is sent to the Tribune office the quicker the subscriber will receive his receipt, and the contestant will be credited with the number of points and be advanced among the leaders.

Another contestant asked if she could secure persons who had stopped their paper several months before the contest began and have them count as new subscribers; also if persons who had taken the Tribune three or four years ago, but who did not take it now, she was told that the names of all persons who were not on the Tribune's list of subscribers on May 13, the first day of the Educational Contest, would count as new subscribers. For instance, if some one had stopped their paper on Saturday, May 11, they can be secured as new subscribers by any contestant and the latter will receive as many points as there are months in the enrollment of the subscription. If a subscriber stopped their paper on Tuesday, May 14, he could not be counted as a new subscriber under the rules of the contest. Should a contestant secure a new subscription which will expire before the close of the contest he has the privilege of stopping it and it will receive full credit for the additional points he gets in this way.
