WEST SCRANTON

THE B. Y. P. U. AT LANSFORD

ANNUAL CONVENTION ATTENDED BY LOCAL DELEGATES.

Luther Lewis, of West Scranton, Elected President of the Union. Papers Read by Delegates—Welsh Baptist Association Meetings. Porch Thieves at Work Again. The Places Visited—Cantata Last Evening — Chinaman Lost His Money—Notes and Personals.

The eighth annual convention of the Welsh Baptist Young People's union of Northeastern Pennsylvania was held Saturday, Sunday and Monday in the Welsh Baptist church at Lansford, Pa. The Welsh Baptist association also held their annual sessions at the same time, and among those in attendance were the following officers, delegates and members from the South Main Avenue Baptist church:

Association—Edward E. Thomas, John J. Morgan, Rowland D. Thomas, James A. Evans, John J. Hopkins, John L. Jenkins and wife.

B. Y. P. U.—Misses Martha Davis, Sarah Meredith, Luther Lewis and David J. Davis.

The opening session was held on Friday evening with an English sermon by Rev. Henry Thomas, of Frostburg, Md. Saturday morning the B. Y. P. U. business conference was held, at which a new constitution was adopted and the following officers were elected:

President, Luther Lewis, of West Scranton; first vice-president, Isaac Doughton, of Edwardsdale; second vice-president, Miss Mary Davis, of Nanticoke; recording secretary, Miss Lillian Thomas, of Pittston; financial secretary, John C. Richards, of Taylor; treasurer, William N. Evans, of Plymouth.

The board of managers will consist of the officers and a representative from every society in the union not already represented by an officer. The address of welcome was made by Rev. J. T. Griffiths, of Lansford, and David J. Davis, of West Scranton, made the response.

Saturday evening the literary exercises were held. Miss Margaret John, of Mahanoy City, read an interesting paper on "Young People's Relation to Missionary Work," and Miss Rachel Winters, of Nanticoke, read an instructive paper on "Temperance."

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Alvah S. Hobart, D. D., of Crozer Theological seminary, of Chester, Pa., on "The Common Sort of Sense in Bible Study."

Sunday afternoon the delegates listened to a paper on "The Necessity of More United Action Between Young and Old in Our Churches" and a sermon on "Human and Divine Co-operation" by Rev. J. Dwight Roberts, of South Wilkes-Barre.

The conferences of the Welsh Baptist association were also held Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The business session was held Saturday afternoon, with preaching services in the evening. Additional preaching services were held Sunday afternoon and evening and the business was concluded on Monday.

All of the delegates have returned and expressed themselves as being well pleased with the visit, and are particularly enthusiastic over the hospitality of the people of Lansford. The next convention will be held in Olyphant, and the annual Baptist Young People's excursion will be run to Glen Onoko in August.

St. Brenden's Minstrels.

The members of St. Brenden's council, Young Men's Institute, who are rehearsing a minstrel performance, under the direction of Prof. John T. Watkins, held a rehearsal last evening, and are progressing very nicely with their work. The choruses and solo parts are up-to-date, and when the show is put on in Mears' hall during the second week in June, a very creditable performance is anticipated.

The tambos are James Cummings, Eugene Cosgrove, Richard Lonergan and Edward McLain, and the bones are manipulated by Robert Duffy, Michael Burke, Daniel Lenihan and Leo Crossin. M. J. FitzGibbon will act as interlocutor. The soloists will be James McAndrew, William Vanston, James Cummings, Walter Deckelnick, Bert Johnson, Richard Lonergan, Harry Sullivan and Leo Crossin.

All of the selections are bright, tuneful and catchy and are sung with much enthusiasm. A number of specialties will be introduced in the performance, and after the entertainment a dance will be given.

Porch Thieves at Work.

Residents of South Main and Hyde Park avenue were complaining yesterday of losses at the hands of porch thieves who were operating Wednesday night. The McCracken and Kirchner back porches, on Hyde Park avenue, and Dr. Struppler's and Mrs. D. M. Jones', on South Main avenue, were visited.

Carpets, chairs, tables, pictures and other house furnishings were carried off, and it is believed the same operators are those who have been visiting refrigerators, and carrying off clothing from clothes lines.

"The Children of Heaven."

An excellent rendition was given last evening in the First Welsh Congregational church, South Main avenue, of the sacred cantata, "The Children of Heaven," Prof. Daniel Protheroe's latest composition. The work was interpreted by the juvenile choir, under the leadership of Conductor William J. Davies, and was worthy of all the good things spoken of it by the large audience which attended.

The children sang remarkably well for their ages, which range from five to fifteen years. The characters were portrayed by Mrs. Frank Brundage, Miss Elizabeth Ellicott, David J. Davis and David Jenkins.

The singers were accompanied by Misses Norma Williams and Annie T. Humphreys. Others who were featured in the performance were Misses Esther Thomas, Annie Davis and Sarah Davis. The cantata will be rendered in Welsh this evening.

Chinaman Lost His Money.

Henry Bow, of 105 South Main avenue, received a letter yesterday which he expected contained two twenty and two ten dollar bills, but upon opening it discovered that the money was missing.

He telegraphed immediately to the sender in Montreal, who answered back that the money had been sent. As the letter was not registered, the postal authorities cannot be held responsible.

West Side Tennis Club.

Only a few games were played yesterday afternoon on the West Side Tennis club's grounds. They were three sets of doubles and only one set of singles. The former were played by Messrs Chatfield and Owens, Dr. Davies and Ely Harris.

The former were the winners. Miss Crist and George Watres played the singles, and the former carried off the honors.

THE JOCKEY'S BOGIE.

Dangerous Practices Resorted to in Reducing Flesh.

From Ainslee's Magazine.

The bogie of a jockey's life is "taking on flesh." He dreads this as a beauty dreads to lose her charms, and his whole thought from the age of sixteen to twenty-five is to avoid the catastrophe. This is the pernicious feature of the life, and distinguishes it as a healthful sport from boxing or from football, in which the physical being is developed according to the laws of nature, and is not outraged or balked.

In order to reduce his weight nine pounds Monk Overton once remained in a Turkish bath from 1 p. m. one day until 2 p. m. the next with no nourishment except a cup of tea and some toast. Again Mike Bergen, mounted on a favorite, rode such a poor race that the stewards came to the paddock to investigate and punish him for fraudulent riding. They forgave the performance, however, when they found him collapsed and unable to speak. Knowing that he had a ride at a certain weight, Bergen had spent forty-eight hours in a Turkish bath, eating nothing whatever. When he reached the track he was so weak that a stimulant was necessary. The one drink of whisky he took so demoralized his faculties that he could scarcely keep his seat in the saddle.

Such a violation of physical development, at the age when a boy should be most rapidly maturing, makes it difficult for a jockey ever to become robust. Moreover, the mere riding of a race is a terrible drain on the nerve force of a jockey. A boy may lose a pound of weight in a hard race.
