SUPPOSEDLY MAD DOG CAUSES EXCITEMENT

Lincoln Avenue Stirred by a Hound That Runs Wild and Bites an Aged Man and Four Children-None of the Wounds Dangerous-The Dog Takes to the Woods and Escapes.

A supposedly mad dog caused quite a flurry of excitement on Lincoln avenue yesterday foreneon and stirred that thoroughfare as it was never moved before.

The dog, in its wild caveer, left five Mams, of Grove street, and four encol children from the same neighborhood. The hound after it attacked its victims, took to the woods and could not be located, although there was a careful search made in the hope of capturing the brute and bringing within the range of a pistol. The animal was a hound, but who owns it is not known. It started on its wild career just before 9 o'clock. just as the school children were hurlying to their day's tasks. Four of these little ones were victims of the bound's attack, though none of them was dangerously bitten by the brute. Those whom the wild hound snapped at and attempted to sink its teeth into their flesh were little John Stoddard, a young son of Thomas Mor can, and Clarence Hetzel, and another child whose name could not be learned, all of whom reside near the top of Lincoln avenue, beyond the tracks of the Honesdale branch of the Delaware and Hudson company. John Adams, the grown person who suffers from the hound's attack, resides on Grove street, near the corner of Lincoln avenue. He was the first one to be attacked by the dog. This was quite close to the corner of Lin-coin avenue and Laurel street. Mr. Adams was on his way to his work at the time. He was carrying an umbrella in his right hand, and the other hand was in his trousers pocket. He did not see the dog, until he felt something suddenly grasp his left hand, the one he was carrying in pocket. Admis was fearfully startled and was at a loss to realize what sort of an attack was being

When he recovered himself, he observed the dog on the opposite side of street and directly in the path of r number of school children, who were half-running down the hill to reach school before the final bell.

The hound, when the children reached him, snapped right and left, sometimes passing one by before he would renew his attack. There was a scattering among the children, who were terrified, and they hastened away in all direc-

The housel made a victoria spring at Adams, for its teeth penetrated the bing and sank quite deeply into the dash's part of the hand. Had Mr. Adm's hand been swinging by his side, the teeth of the brute would have undoubtedly torn an ugly hole into the

My back used to almost break and I would get sick at my stomach and have such headaches I hid not know what to do; they used to set me nearly crazy, and I used to dread to get up, I felt so bad; then I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When baby was expected I took it all the time I was that way. I felt fine all the time, and I never get those dizzy spells now. I fardly ever have a nervous headache any more. I have a perfect romp of a boy; he is the light of our home. I am now twenty years old and my baby is almost eight months old. I now feel well, and weigh iso bounds and the baby as pounds. librium, when he was assured that his hand was not torn by the dog's teeth he started in pursuit of the animal that gave him such a scare and almost paralyzed the school children with fear. The hound wearily dragged itself along, and Mr. Adams had no difficulty in corraling it. He then started off for a policeman, and notified Sanitary Officer Moffitt, who accompanied him back to the place where it was believed the dog was secured. The bound, however, had taken ungranted liberty and be

was nowhere to be seen when the policeman and Adams returned to the cene. They traced the animal into the goods, where the trail was lost. None of the persons attacked showed any bad symptoms, and no harmful re-

THE DAILY TEST OF FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

Councils Are Urged to Make Provisions for Maintaining the Efficiency of the Gamewell System in This City.

An item with reference to the cit; fire alarm system appeared in this department a few days ago which was ot quite clear and which might have made it appear that the system was not now under the supervision or care of any person. This was not the fact nor was it the intention of the article The fire alarm system has always and s yet under the watchful care of Manager P. H. Gilleran, of the Central Pennsylvania Telephone company, whose efficiency and capability have been well

The reference to the system was to call attention to a provision that has seen neglected for over a year, and which was quite a factor in maintaining the efficiency of the system. After the system was installed by the Gamewell company, tests were made regu tarly of the twenty-one boxes through out the city. Each day at a regular hour, say a few minutes past noon, an darm was rung in from one of the boxes. The next day at the same hour another alarm followed from a different box, and so on until each box in the city was tested, when the programme was repeated. In this way the system was kept up to its highest eficiency. The fire department officials were always secure in the knowledge that the boxes and the system generally were in good condition. It was the most practical test that could be made. and there was always the greatest satisfaction felt while it was continued.

Mr. Gilleran in his visits to the box that was to be pulled occasionally found obstructions in the keyhole of the box. crammed tight with pieces of wood, the work of some mischievous lad. It required several minutes of Mr. Gilleran' time to remove the bits of wood, and not without digging them out with the blade of his pocketknife. What a dangerous delay would have been encountered in this case, in the event of fire an be readily appreciated. This incl dent alone is adequate to illustrate the Imperative necessity of the continuaion of these tests. But they are no carried on now, nor have not been for over a year. A year ago last April. conneils for no good reason, so far as is apparent, ceased to make provision for the test and the city has since been without this safeguard. The cost for these tests is truly a small item, one that would yield the most satisfactory all that Mr. Gilleran received, but with commendable public spirit be is willing to make the sacrifices which it would entail and will continue these tests, provided councils show this small.

Chief McNulty a few days ago called the attention of several of the councilmen to this neglect in maintaining the efficiency of the fire alarm system-for the weather man would be only half be regarded it as neglect—and those decent, the celebration of to-day will with whom he talked agreed with him that it was a precaution that should be continuously employed, and they also expressed surprise that the tests had been abandoned. Another instance that might be recalled to illustrate how easily the fire alarm system's delicate mechanism can be disarranged is to be found in the case of the borough of Dunmore, where the boxes were almost put out of service for several days by a good-sized insect crawling through the keyhole and becoming lodged in the most sensitive part of the clock-like arrangement of the box.

Chief McNulty is hopeful that the matter will be taken up by councils and the provision for Mr. Gilleran renewing his tests will be taken care of. The matter will be urged on the councilmen in the hope of speedy action, and until then Chief McNulty will be more or less apprehensive.
