WEST SCRANTON

LECTURE BY PROF. HOWELL

ON THE LIFE AND CHARACTER OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Delivered Before a Large Audience at the Welsh C. M. Church Last Evening — Lecture Was Interspersed with Vocal and Instrumental Numbers and Recitations by Mrs. Howell—Dodge Fund Entertainment in Mears' Hall—Cantata of "Daniel" Will Be Repeated. Notes and Personals.

Prof. George Howell, superintendent of the public schools, delivered an able, instructive and interesting lecture on "Abraham Lincoln" at the Welsh Calvinistic Methodist church, South Main avenue, last evening. The lecture compared favorably with any that has ever been delivered on the martyred president, and held the closest attention of an audience which taxed the seating capacity of the church.

The speaker touched upon all the principal incidents in Lincoln's life and referred to his many sterling qualities as a man and statesman. The lecture was delivered in two parts, and proved to be one of Prof. Howell's best efforts. Mrs. Howell recited a number of well-chosen selections, among them being Lincoln's favorite poems. She demonstrated that her elocutionary powers are of a high order and her efforts were thoroughly appreciated.

Pleasing features of the entertainment were a piano duet by Roy and Reba Williams, and vocal numbers by Misses Florence Robertson, Edith Benson, Elsie Powell, Mrs. G. B. Uthman and Mrs. Lily Joseph-Keller.

The entertainment was given for the benefit of the church, under the direction of Mrs. Howell's Sunday school class. Mrs. D. B. Thomas and Miss Ruby Yost were the accompanists of the evening.

Bohemian Minstrels To-Night.

Every detail has been arranged to make the spirited performance that will be given by the Bohemian Ladies' club to-night at Mears hall, for the benefit of the West Side hospital a success.

The curtain will raise at 8:15 sharp. Persons who have failed to get tickets in advance can get them at the hall.

Cantata Will Be Repeated.

The cantata, "Daniel, or the Restoration and Captivity," which was so successfully performed in Mears' hall on Tuesday evening, will be reproduced by the Tabernacle church choir on Wednesday evening, June 5.

All the tickets sold for May 28 will be good for the next production. A full rehearsal of the cantata will be held next Saturday evening, when all members of the choir are expected to be present, as additional business of importance will be transacted.

Dodge Fund Entertainment.

The entertainment and social held in Mears' hall last evening, under the auspices of the Dodge Mine Accidental fund, was attended by a very large assemblage. A number of the people who were expected to participate in the programme were absent, owing to the storm, and alterations were necessary in consequence.

Among those who did appear were David Jenkins, Thomas Abrams, John W. Jones, David Stevens, Miss Agnes Warner and others. The entertainment was followed by a social.

William Connell Glee Club.

The William Connell Glee club held a meeting in Ivorite hall last evening, at which a number of matters were discussed pertaining to the organization. The club now holds regular weekly meetings, and propose adding several new members at the next meeting.

This is the only permanent organization of male voices that has existed for any length of time in West Scranton, and the large number of engagements they have filled before and after their trip to Washington, bespeaks additional success for them.

To-Day's Events.

Memorial day exercises at the Washburn street and cathedral cemeteries.

Flag raising at the newly opened Cambria cemetery on Washburn street.

Base ball game at 10 o'clock on the Browns' grounds, between teams residing north and south of Washburn street.

Bohemian Ladies' club minstrels in Mears' hall for the benefit of West Side hospital.

There will be a meeting of Central local, No. 1428, P. M. W. of A., this evening at the usual place.

Local hucksters are requested to attend a meeting this evening in the rooms of the Grocers' Protective association on lower Lackawanna avenue.

The ladies of the Washburn street Presbyterian church will serve a supper in the lecture room this evening from 6 to 8 o'clock.

General News Notes.

Thomas Nicholson, of Jackson street, an employe in the Capouse colliery, was severely injured while at work yesterday by a fall of coal. He was removed to his home, where Dr. J. J. Roberts attended him.

Patrolman and Mrs. Kiah Peters left last night for a few days' visit to the Pan-American exposition.

Strawberry Festival.

The ladies of the Blessed Virgin sodality of St. John's church conducted their strawberry and ice cream festival last evening at St. John's hall, and it was so largely attended that it was impossible to accommodate all of those who desired to patronize it.

The hall in which the festival was held was profusely decorated with the national colors, and three large tables were arranged in the room, each looked after by a corps of ladies. St. John's convent's school orchestra furnished excellent music during the festival, after which a pleasant social and entertainment were given in Pharmacy hall by the members of the Young Men's Institute, a number of interesting recitations and vocal and instrumental selections being heard.

GREEN RIDGE.

Mrs. Helen Franklin, of Sanderson avenue, is visiting Mrs. Thomas Dickson at her summer home in Morristown, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goodall and children, of New York street, are spending a few days in Wilkes-Barre.

Albert W. McKee, of Dickson avenue, who is now manager for the Swift Meat company at Pottsville, has moved his household goods to that place and, with Mrs. McKee and the children, left yesterday for their new home.

If the weather is pleasant there will be a game of ball on the Scranton Lace Factory grounds this morning at 10 o'clock, between the Young Men's club team and the Lace Factory team. Members of the club team are requested to meet at the club rooms at 9.30 o'clock sharp.

The members of Green Ridge conclave of Heptasophs will give a reception in Masonic hall next Monday night, in honor of Judge J. W. Carpenter.

Mrs. L. E. Bailey, of Prohibition Park, N. Y., organizer and lecturer for the Women's Christian Temperance union, gave an interesting talk at the Capouse chapel last evening on the subject, "Home or Saloon—Which?" She gave a strong temperance talk, sustaining her arguments with Bible quotations. She pictured the difference between the homes of those who support the saloons and those who do not, and between those localities where prohibition prevails and where it does not, and ended with a strong plea for the prohibition of the liquor traffic and the abolition of the saloon.

NORTH SCRANTON NOTES.

Clotheslines Robbed by Early Thieves—Keystone Club's Trip to Carbondale Today.

Yesterday morning Mrs. E. Birtley, of North Main avenue, and Mrs Sarah Perry, of Throop street, found themselves the losers of large amounts of clothes, which they had hung on their lines the night before. James Davis, of Deacon street, also missed forty Plymouth Rock chickens from his hennery.

All three parties live near the old driving park, where there has been for the past week or so a gypsy camp composed of forty persons. They were suspected of committing the thefts, and Mr. Davis, Mrs. Birtley and Mrs. Perry went before Alderman Edward Fidler and had search warrants issued.

The warrants were placed in the hands of Constable T. E. Mills, who went to the camp just as the gypsies were about to leave it and made a thorough search for the clothes. Although he worked the better part of the morning unloading the gypsies' wagons, and overhauling their goods, Constable Mills was unable to locate any of the missing articles.

Will Visit Carbondale.

This morning the Keystone Literary and Dramatic club will journey to Carbondale on the 10.30 train. In the afternoon they will hold a full rehearsal in the Grand Opera House in that city, and in the evening will produce the drama, "Because She Loved Him So."

It is expected that they will be greeted by a large audience as the Keystone club is well known throughout the Lackawanna valley. A large number of the Crystal Dramatic club and a number of persons of this section will accompany them.

TOLD IN BRIEF.

Mrs. William Wolfe and daughter, Catherine, and Mrs. John Watkins and children, are visiting Mrs. William Howe, at Ithaca, N. Y.

Michael Murphy, of Cayuga street, was taken before Alderman Myers yesterday morning to answer the charge of assault and battery preferred by Michael Gallagher, of the same street. After a hearing, the defendant was held in bail for his appearance at court.

OBITUARY.

JOHN STACKHUCK, of Dickson, after a five weeks' illness, died yesterday at the Moses Taylor hospital, of paralysis. He expired four hours after being brought into the institution. He received the paralytic stroke which resulted in his death on April 26. Deceased was about 45 years of age and worked in the Storrs colliery. A wife and family survive him.

MISS SARAH GILMARTIN, aged 18 years, died on Tuesday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gilmartin, of 920 South Washington avenue. The deceased young lady was a student at the High school and was very popular among her schoolmates. She is survived by her parents, two brothers and two sisters. The funeral arrangements are not yet complete.

ARTHUR JOHNSON, the 7-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Johnson, of 1223 Lafayette street, died yesterday. The funeral services will be held at the house this evening, and the remains will be taken to Stroudsburg tomorrow for interment.

JOSEPH BRENNAN, aged 16 years, died at 10 o'clock last night at the home of his brother, Dr. J. J. Brennan, on Jackson street, after a lingering illness. The funeral will be announced later.

GERALD WALSH, the 3-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Walsh, of Drinker street, Dunmore, died yesterday, after an illness of two weeks. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment in the old Catholic cemetery.

Funerals.

The funeral of Miss Catherine F. Halligan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Halligan, jr., of 1228 Nay Aug avenue, will take place this morning at 9.30 o'clock. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated at St. Paul's church, Green Ridge. Interment in Cathedral cemetery.

Baily's Beads.

A phenomenon incident to a total eclipse of the sun are the solar prominences and the so-called Baily's Beads, says Maximilian Foster in Everybody's Magazine. These prominences, otherwise known as Red Flames, are of singular magnificence and intensity, and are due to terrific outbursts of hydrogen gas from the chromosphere or envelope of the sun. Their appearance is not restricted to moments of an eclipse, but may be seen at other times when suitably sought. Baily's Beads, which appears almost simultaneously with the prominences at a solar eclipse, derive their name from Mr. Francis Baily, who in 1836 first thoroughly described them. They appear just before the second contact, or beginning of totality, and are also sometimes seen after the total phase has passed. The common explanation of their character is that they are portions of the sun's body seen between the serrations of the lunar mountains, but this theory, like other information upon eclipse phenomena, is more or less doubtful.

TRANSATLANTIC LINERS.

Two Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars of Ocean Liners Between Europe and America.

From Atalee's Magazine.

The mightiest and swiftest fleet of merchantmen in the world weaves its way through the deep, but devious, channel leading to the Narrows, New York harbor's picturesque gate to the sea. The value of these matchless craft is close to $150,000,000. More than a third of this amount is represented by twenty-five magnificent twin-screw ships, including the Oceanic of the White Star line, the Deutschland of the Hamburg-American line, the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and the Kronprinz Wilhelm of the North German Lloyd line, the Cunarders Campania and Lucania, and the American liners St. Louis and St. Paul. Besides the immense cargoes that this trans-Atlantic fleet discharges at the great piers of the metropolis, it lands yearly from 125,000 to 140,000 voyagers, mostly returning Americans, in the first and second cabins, and from 350,000 to 500,000 steerage passengers, nearly all immigrants. More collossal cargoes are carried away from than are brought into the port of New York, chiefly in the abyssmal holds of mammoth twin-screw carriers like the White Star liner Cymric, the Hamburg-American liner Pennsylvania and the North German Lloyd liner Grosser Kurfurst.

It is estimated that the cost of all the passenger and cargo carriers in service between Europe and the Atlantic ports of America is close upon $250,000,000. If the interests of the great lines in the Atlantic, Pacific and Interoceanic trades were merged in a maritime trust the actual wealth represented would be not less than a billion dollars. The wealth of the greatest steamship company in the world, the Hamburg-American line, as represented by ships and piers, runs over $50,000,000. It employs on its fleet about 7,000 persons, and gives employment on land to nearly 9,000. The next line in importance, measured by its wealth, is the North German Lloyd, which, like the Hamburg-American, is capitalized at $20,000,000. This, however, does not represent more than half the value of its property. Its new piers in Hoboken, which it owns, will have cost, when completed, $2,000,000. The Hamburg-American line's piers, in the same city, are worth about half this amount. All the other great lines, except the Holland-America, which has its landings in Hoboken, rent their piers from the city of New York. The revenue New York derives from the hental of piers to the Cunard, the White Star, the American, the Atlantic Transport, the French, the Leyland, the National and other lines is nearly a million dollars annually.

TRAINING OF A JOCKEY.

It Is Thorough, Severe and Relentless—A Life of Peril.

Samuel A. Wood in Atalee's

The early training of a jockey is thorough, severe and relentless. The boys sleep in a stable loft over the horses. Summer and winter they are awakened at daybreak by a groom pounding on the boards. They jump into their clothes, shivering in the early morning chill, and hurry to a pump, where a douse of cold water sweeps away the cobwebs of sleep. Then to the horses, and for two hours each boy "exercises his string." A "string" consists of two horses, and "exercising" means walking them about the track until they are agreeably warm. After breakfast—and the food at a jockey school is of the most nourishing sort—the youngsters exercise another "string" and employ an hour or more in doing chores. The afternoon they spend at the track, and by eight o'clock in the evening they must be abed. Plenty of time is allowed to them for recreation. The trainers encourage the boys in such sports as swimming, running and ball playing. By constant practice of open-air diversions Tod Sloan has maintained his excellent condition. To this day he will leap a five-foot fence rather than go through the gate. Marbles is the favorite game of stable-boys. After winning a twenty-five thousand dollar race at Manchester last year, Johnny Reiff was found deeply interested playing marbles while Lord Rosebery was waiting outside the paddock to congratulate him.

As illustrating the hazardous life of a jockey, I need only point out that in the season of 1899 five boys were killed outright; both arms of another had were broken, and nineteen jockeys endured injuries such as fractured wrists, ribs and ankles.

"I'm afraid, doctor, I made a mistake in one of your prescriptions the other day," said the pharmacist.

"Gracious point! What makes you think so?"

"Why, I hear the fellow is getting better."—Yonkers Statesman.

"Ikey says he'll have his graduation papers pretty soon."

"What's he been a-learnin' of?"

"Greek, an' Latin, an' French, an' German, an' so forth."

"An' what's he goin' to do after he comes clear?"

"Well, if he don't go to splittin' rails, or farmin', I reckon he'll spend the rest of his days a-writin' of dialect!"—Atlanta Constitution.
