

Office: BURKE BUILDING

Carbondale Department.

Phone: NEW, 286 OLD, 0423

HOW LYMAN BAKER MET HIS DEATH

The Young Man Whose Reported Drowning at Lake Lodore Was Noticed in Yesterday's Tribune Did Meet His Fate in That Way—Details of the Tragic Happening.

The reported death of Lyman Baker by drowning at Lake Lodore, which appeared in this department of the Tribune yesterday, was verified early yesterday morning, when some of the pleasure party of which the deceased was a member came over the mountain with the intelligence of Baker's tragic death.

Baker went down to his death in the midst of a dashing rain storm, and just as the gloom of night followed the close of the day.

Baker, when the boat in which he was seated with his companions, William Hull, Charles Hull and Joseph Coughlin, they were on the lake at about 1 o'clock and reached the lake at 7 in the evening.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

When the lake was reached, the quartette landed the boat and Baker and Will Hull entered it and set out from shore to outline the course in which they intended to fish.

HOW MEMORIAL DAY WAS OBSERVED

The Cherished Day of the Survivors of the Civil Strife Receives Fitting Commemoration Despite Adverse Circumstances—The Parade and the Enjoyable Camp Fire That Ended the Celebration.

Memorial day, that cherished day of all the year by the surviving brave, received a fitting celebration in Carbondale yesterday.

Under the adverse circumstances which the exercises were carried on in the midst of all a deluge of rain—the celebration was all the more creditable and the old soldiers who defied the elements, as they often defied the terrors of war, were the subject of admiring comments and words of warm commendation throughout the day.

The exercises began with the procession, which left the post hall, on Salem avenue, when Captain J. S. Halstead, of the Sons of Veterans, sounded his bugle, about 9:30 o'clock.

The Dundaff Pipe and Drum corps provided music for the marchers, who comprised the members of Commander Davies post, the Sons of Veterans, etc.

When the line of march was traversed, the procession halted in Memorial park, where deeply impressive and inspiring exercises were carried out about the monument.

The decorations of wreaths and flags were deposited at the base of the monument, and then came the salute to the departed, first by the firing squad from the Sons of Veterans, commanded by Captain C. S. Alexander.

This concluded the exercises here, and the procession broke up, the volunteer squads subsequently visiting the various cemeteries and tenderly depositing the garlands significant of love and remembrance.

A pleasant incident of the parade was the halting of the soldiers in front of the residence of Rev. M. C. Elliott, pastor of the First Congregational church, and giving him three rousing cheers.

The dinner was excellent, and it was keenly enjoyed by all present. The work of decorating the graves was completed, despite the continued down-pour, and when the veterans returned, rain-soaked and weary after their tramp, there was no murmur of complaint because of the hardships they endured in performing their sacred duties.

A pleasant incident of the parade was the halting of the soldiers in front of the residence of Rev. M. C. Elliott, pastor of the First Congregational church, and giving him three rousing cheers.

A pleasant incident of the parade was the halting of the soldiers in front of the residence of Rev. M. C. Elliott, pastor of the First Congregational church, and giving him three rousing cheers.

A pleasant incident of the parade was the halting of the soldiers in front of the residence of Rev. M. C. Elliott, pastor of the First Congregational church, and giving him three rousing cheers.

A pleasant incident of the parade was the halting of the soldiers in front of the residence of Rev. M. C. Elliott, pastor of the First Congregational church, and giving him three rousing cheers.

A YOUNG MAN'S DISASTROUS ERROR

Austin Ginley, of Battle Avenue, Boards the Wrong Train and Almost Jumped to His Death After Discovering His Blunder—He Was Taken to the Emergency Hospital.

Austin Ginley, a young man whose home is on Battle avenue, under an almost fatal error yesterday afternoon. He boarded a Delaware & Hudson train, whose destination he believed was Lake Lodore.

The accident happened about mid-way between No. 1 bridge and the lookout crossing. Ginley wanted to go to Lake Lodore and when he reached the Seventh avenue depot and observed a train standing there he boarded it without inquiring, presuming it was going over the mountain.

After the train started Ginley discovered he was in error and without waiting to notify the conductor he rushed to the car platform and prepared to alight.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

Persons who witnessed Ginley's plight and failed to see him rise after he struck, concluded he was injured, and they hurried to his assistance.

stream overflowed and entirely submerged Almuti park and Duffy's field. The street car tracks were also covered, but traffic was not impeded.

There were a score or more cellars inundated by the overflowing river and along River street horses were taken from the barns that overreached the retaining wall along the stream.

The water subsided appreciably yesterday and no more damage is feared.

Last Night's Production.

There was a treat given the audience that almost a fortnight ago. Opera House last evening, when the delightful comedy "Because She Loved Him So" was produced by the Keystone Dramatic club of North Scranton.

The production had none of the earmarks of an amateur performance, and the members of the cast deserve the highest credit for the excellence of their work.

The cast was as follows: Oliver West, J. J. Evans, John Wetherby, J. C. Sherman, Thomas Wetherby, T. J. Clark, Edward Marsh, P. T. Murphy, Rev. Lyman Langley, T. P. Fox, Albert Pritchard, W. W. Malloy, M. Jackson, T. J. Kline, Mr. Briffin, Miss P. Fox, Gertrude West, Miss Griffin, Mrs. John Wetherby, Miss Nellie Duggan, Donna Adeline Gonzalez and Susan, a maid, Miss Mame McMahon, Margaret, a maid, Miss McGary, Miss Julia Langley, Thomas McGarry, Miss Florence McFale and Ambrose Battle, of this city, also participated.

The production was a financial success as well, and a nice sum will be netted for the general fund of St. Rose church, through the efforts of the young men in charge of the affairs.

Going to Gettysburg. Colonel John McComb, commander of Davies post, Grand Army of the Republic, this city, will leave on Saturday, June 2, for Gettysburg, to attend the encampment of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, which will be in progress on this historic battlefield from June 3 to June 8.

Colonel McComb will go as the representative of Commander Davies post, and as a member of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic. This is the fourth visit of Colonel McComb to attend these encampments at Gettysburg, which, by the way, is the scene of the first wound he received during the war.

Well Known Attorney Here. Attorney M. J. Martin, of the law firm of O'Brien & Martin, was a visitor to Carbondale yesterday.

Mr. Martin was here in connection with the case of Samuel Billott, the accused slayer of Edward Herbert, the young man who died from stab wounds in his neck, where O'Brien, an Italian wedding on Dundaff street, last fall.

The passing throng. The Misses Mary O'Malley and Jennie Conroy, of Pittston, spent Memorial day in Carbondale.

Jermyn and Mayfield. The open air concert given by the Mayfield and Hogarth's combined bands on the lawn of St. James church last evening was listened to by several hundred people.

Taylor. At the home of Borough Treasurer and Mrs. Thomas Moore, of North Taylor, on Wednesday evening, a pretty wedding ceremony was performed when their accomplished daughter, Miss Susie, was united in marriage to Mr. John Thomas, of this place.

Moosic. All persons who believe that the liquor traffic should be prohibited are earnestly asked to be present at a mass meeting of temperance workers to be held Saturday evening in the Moosic Methodist Episcopal church.

Theories About Food

Also A Few Facts on the Same Subject.

We hear much nowadays about health food and hygienic living, and get a certain amount of other talk along the same line.

Restaurants may be found in the large cities where no meat, pastry or coffee is served and the food is in its purest and genuinest form.

A healthy appetite and common sense are excellent guides to follow in matters of diet, and a mixed diet of grains, fruits and meats is undoubtedly the best.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables and grains.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables and grains.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables and grains.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables and grains.

There are many roads.

How Lyman Baker met his death.

How Memorial Day was observed.

A young man's disastrous error.

Theories about food.

Summer shirts.

Straw hats.

There are many roads.

How Lyman Baker met his death.

How Memorial Day was observed.

A young man's disastrous error.

Theories about food.

Summer shirts.

Straw hats.