FOUND VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY

MRS. BEVILACQUA ACQUITTED OF THE CHARGE OF MURDER.

General Comment Is to the Effect That the Jury Was Extremely Merciful-Defense Was Willing All Along to Enter a Plea of Manslaughter-A Fine of $500 and Three Months in Jail for a Woman Who Sold Liquor Without a

By an almost unanimous vote on the first ballot and with only two ballots necessary to secure unanimity, the jury in the Bevilacqua murder case agreed that the woman who killed Mary Rose, with a revolver she had been earrying six weeks, was not guilty in any manner or form. The jury retired Priday night at 7 o'clock. At the opening of court, Saturday morning, they came in and had Judge Halsey read to them certain of the law points submitted by the defendant. At 11.45 they came in with a verdict of not guilty.

Judge Halsey had charged the jury particularly against allowing sympathy to mould their verdict. The law makes no distinction in sex and the jurors should not, he said. He also warned them against being biased by the pathetic scenes witnessed in the court room. When the verdict was presented to him, Saturday, the judge said nothing, except the few formal words of thanks for their services, but the expression on his face tended to indicate that he was not satisfied but that the jury heeded not his advice.

The contention of the commonwealth was that Mrs. Bevilacqua had carried a revolver for a long time, with the intention of shooting Mrs. Rose; that she sought out Mrs. Rose this morning, and, picking a quarrel with her. shot her, while a large cooking stove separated them; and that after shooting her through the body, she fired two more shots, the last one, from every indication, being fired while Mrs. Rose was fleeing through another room twenty-one feet from the kitchen where the first shot was fired. The defense was that Mrs. Rose was atways hounding Mrs. Bevilacqua; that she had assaulted her and threatened to kill her several times; that on the day of the shooting Mrs. Rose picked a quarrel with her and attacked her with a poker, and that Mrs. Bevilacqua only fired when Mrs. Rose was about to strike her.

As to the subsequent shots, it was contended that under the law they were all part of the one act; that there was no time for cooling of the blood or reflection between the first and last shots, and that the last shot was just as much in self-defense as was the

Mrs. Anne Moreso Mueta, aged sixteen, swore positively that Mrs. Rose was not attacking Mrs. Revilacqua when the first shot was fired, and that Mrs. Rose did not even have a poker in her 'The women were quarreling Mrs. Mueta went on to tell, and while Mrs. Rose was on one side of the stove and Mrs. Bevilacqua on the other Mrs. Bevilacqua drew a revolver from her dress pocket, held it with both hands, and fired.

Every circumstance tends to show that Mrs. Rose fled; that while she was fleeing Mrs. Bevilacqua fired again, and that after she sought refnge in the farthest room, Mrs. Bevilequa followed her, held the revolver within two feet of her head and sent a bullet through her brain.

The comment most generally heard is that the verdict is a repetition of that in the Billiott case last week, in the matter of showing what skillful lawyers can do. The husband of Mrs. Bevilacoua, who was accused of being an accessory, is also freed by this verdict. He was released on his own recognizance until the October sessions, when a verdict of not guilty will be taken. Mr. and Mrs. Bevilacqua, with their three-year-old babe, who so materially helped along the defense, went from the jury room with a party of friends. Mrs. Bevilacqua had to be helped along, and was taken from the court house to her home in a carriage. The friends of the slain women were deeply chagrined at the jury's finding. When a proposition was made Thursday to enter a plea of manslaughter they protested, and their attorneys, Jones and Daniels, conse quently had to decline to acquiesce.

George S. Horn, Cornelius Comegys and Frank E. Boyle, attorneys for the defense, were highly elated over the verdict. They hoped and worked for acquittal, but would doubtless have considered it a victory if a verdict of manslaughter was rendered.

Comparatively Few Sentences.

Parties convicted during the week. and some convicted the week before received their sentences Saturday There were comparatively few to feel the reputed "heavy hand" of the law, Joseph Walsh, who was found with t kit of tools and a stolen penny-inthe-slot machine in his possession, and who had been to the penitentiary twice before, was given two years more by Judge Kelly.

Mrs. Hannah Lally was sentenced to three months in the county jail and a fine of $500, for selling liquor without a license. She was convicted last October, and sentence was suspended upon her promise to quit selling. She broke her promise, and when this fact was established by the Municipal league officers, Judge Kelly sent her to George Wilson, colored, who plead guilty of breaking into B. Josephson's store, on Penn avenue, was sent up to the county jail for six months by Judge Carpenter.

On Saturday morning, verdicts of not guilty were returned in the case in which James Thomas was accused of btaining goods by false pretenses, and the case in which Stephen Markalski was charged with beating a board bill. A capias was issued for Fred Miller, who plead gailty of selling liquor without a license, at the October sessions and who, according to the Municipal league officers, has been doing business t the old stand ever since,

Dugas Must Stand Trial.

Judge Edwards on Saturday refused to release John Dugas, the Austin Heights man, accused of the murder of John Rushnock, despite the finding of the coroner's jury that Rushnock came to his death from heart disease.

Rushnock and Dugas quarreled and Dugas struck Rushnock over the head with a club. The coroner's autopsy evaled the fact that the deceased was afflicted with heart disease, and from the report of the coroner, the jury found that this, and not the blows on the head, caused death. The fact that Rushnock was found lead the morning after the quarrel with Dugas, moved the judge to hold tim for trial.

Strike of Linemen

Another strike is on. The officials of he Central Pennsylvania Telephone company last night admitted that two of their linemen had quit work. The company employs twelve of these men, four of whom are unionized. Wednesday the quartette petitioned Superlaendent Gaynor for a nine-hour day at an increased wage of from $2.25 to $2.50 per day.

They were told that the matter would be taken under advisement, and Saturday waited upon Mr. Gaynor and were told that company officials would be in the city Tuesday and they could onfer with them. This satisfied two of the men, but the other two struck. The report that all the men are out at Wilkes-Barre is characterized as alse by the company officials, who state that it was caused by a visit to this city of a delegation of Wilkes-Barre linemen, who conferred with the local union and then decided to walt or their officials.

ST. ANTHONY OF PADUA.

His Feast Day Observed by Italians of Dunmore - Nature of the Exercises.

It would have been an easy matter for an imaginative traveler had be been in Dunmore yesterday to have fancied himself in some old Italian city on the festal day of a saint, for yesterday was the feast day of St. Anthony of Padua, and the Italians of Dummore celebrated it as it is colebrated under the sunny skies of Italy. St. Anthony of Padua is recognized as the favorite saint of the Italian race and Italians throughout the world love to honor his memory and to plead for his intercession.

In Italy it is the custom on St. Anthony's day to earry an image of the saint through the streets, stopping in front of the house of any person who may desire to make an offering and who may wish to ask for the good saint's intercession. This custom was religiously observed in Dunmore yesterday afternoon, A procession headed by a number of little girls dressed in white and carry. ing candles started through the streets of the Italian district at clock, Pollowing the little girls ame four robust men in surplice and cassocks bearing upon their shoulders e statue of the Virgin Mary. Behind these came another group of men carrying a statue of St. Anthony when a boy and finally came six men carrying upon their shoulders a life-size image of the saint in the prime of life dressed in the habit of the Franciscan order. Four other men carried canopy supported on four poles and eld over the statue.

In front of the last statue walked the priest, his vestments held back by two attendants, while behind it came the Roma band, followed by an ever increasing crowd of bareheaded singing hymns.

The intense devotion and religious celing of the rough looking men who participated in the procession may be understood when it is chronicled that they walked bareheaded in the blazing sun for nearly five hours, it being ? o'clock before the procession had traversed all the streets.

Those people who desired to have the procession halt in front of their houses placed three tables decorated with white cloths on the street. The three statues would be rested on these tables and the mother or father of the family would come out and pin upon St. Anthony's robe the offering. Sometimes it would be a dollar bill. sometimes a two dollar bill, and in a lew instances a whole string of bank notes pinned to a long ribbon. offering made, the priest prayed for the blessing of the bouse and its ocequants and the procession moved on o the next house.

The streets were lined with people procession passed every man raised his hat and many of the women went down on their knees on the dirty street. It was altogether spectacle seldom seen out of Catholi-Europe and with a stretch imagination one could almost fancy himself away across the sens in the streets of some old Italian city.
The pretty little church, way up on the hill was beautifully decor ated and was thronged with devout worshippers during the day. was a general display of threworks on Saturday night, the celebration beginning at sundown on that evening and continuing until sunrise this morning
