A Chain of Circumstances.

Mrs. David Rorar, whose husband died in Los Angeles, Cal., about five weeks ago, has returned here with her two children, and they are now stopping at the home of Thomas E. Jones, on Twenty-third street. Mr. Rorar was a barber and worked in many of the leading shops in this city prior to his departure for the west.

Nearly a year ago he went to El Paso, Texas, for the benefit of his health. He engaged in business out there and then sent for his family. For a time Mr. Rorar's health improved, but later failed again, and finally death relieved his sufferings. The funeral was conducted in Los Angeles under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

While Mrs. Rorar and her children were returning to Scranton, together with an aged lady relative, the latter was missed from the train, and upon investigation it was learned that she had fallen from the train in some unaccountable manner. A search was made for her and she was found several miles back on the railroad.

When picked up the old lady was quite painfully injured, and she was removed to a hospital, where treatment was accorded her. Upon her recovery the party resumed their journey and arrived here safely recently.

A Seasonable Topic

Hosiery and Underwear are always subjects of interest to well bred, intelligent women, when the subject of dress is under consideration, for without perfection in fit, weight and finish, real comfort is impossible.

The Questions of Styles and Materials

Are purely a matter of taste, governed by the purse, and whichever way your inclinations may run, rest assured of this, we can fill your every want.

At this season of the year

Light Weight Hosiery and Underwear

Are most in demand. People with luxurious tastes and ample means show a preference for silk weaves in plain and fancy styles, but science has come to the rescue of people of moderate means, and the latest styles in Mercerized Hosiery and Underwear make an excellent substitute for silk.

But Your Thoughts May Run On

Lisle Thread, Maceo Yarns, Cotton, Merinos, Light Wools, Etc., and there isn't a style that's popular today in any or all of these that you can't find here.

Next time you're thinking of Ladies' Hosiery or Underwear, just remember that you'll get it best at the Oriental Diplomacy.

The presence of the Japanese crown prince in Paris has once more illustrated, reminded some one of a story.

It was at the time of the exhibition in 1867. A Japanese embassy went to Paris to treat for three free ports in France, in return for which France was to have three in Japan. The negotiations proved short and amiable.

"Make your choice," said Jotsu. "You will choose aprocaval."

The minister of foreign affairs selected Yokohama, Nesaki and Hiogo.

The embassy made no objections, they simply smiled and went on their way.

Some time afterward Japan sent word that the three ports mentioned were agreed to, and in return Japan invited Havre, Marseilles and Southampton.

This had never been the French officials' day. They never laughed so much before, and cordially never since. Southampton a French port! No, it was too good. Gently, but unmistakably they explained the situation.

"Why, Southampton is in England," they replied.

"We know that," came the cool response; "but then Hai-Yang is in Corea."

Whereupon the French officials collapsed.
