A decision on the proposition to call quits in the electio contest and save the court the year's rouble and $10,000 expense of opening the ballots and ascertaining whom the 2,000 illegal votes were cast for, is expected almost any day.

The parties to the contest and the attorneys have agreed that a finding shall be made that the contestant showed enough bad votes to slightly decrease the majority of his opponent, thereby making ground for a ruling that there was probable cause for the contest, which would put the costs on the county.

It will be shown at all events that hundreds of illegal votes were cast for the respondent, and this, under the aw, can be taken as evidence of probable cause. There being nothing at sue now save the disposition of the osts, it would be a waste of time and oney, it is contended, to go into the atter of opening the ballots.

Scranton, Pa., July 4.

S. D. Martino's Statement Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: Considerable has been printed in loca papers recently concerning the arrest of S. D. Mar-tino on a charge of forging the name of G. Obici, the secretary of the Victor Emanuel society, to a notice of the death of a member. A certain Sunday paper of a few days ago in devoting near-ly a column of space to the question published a number of mis-statements that I think should denied and corrected.

The paper in question makes it appear that Mr. Martino really did sign the name of Obici to the death notice referred to. As a matter o fact the name of Obici was added to the notice without the desire or knowledge of Mr. Martino The printer had a blank form of notice and the last previous one contained the name of Oblei In adding the name of Mr. Martino as presiden the printer forgot to lift out the name of Obici, and that is why Obler's name appeared on the death notice to which the secretary has taken exception. On account of the printer's error Mr. Martino was arraigned before Alderman dy on a charge of forgery and held in bail to an awer in court.

The whole trouble arms over the burial of members and the contrariness of the secretary in not consenting to any arrangement that would accommodate the members in attending the fune ral of a dead Impense member. In the end, de spite the reports to the contrary, the Dunmore member was buried in the morning and the cen tral city member in the afternoon of the same day, and all the members, with a few exceptions, attended both services. I desire it known that I seted as I did simply in the interests of all the members of the society and regard the charge of forgery made as more of an insult to the so ciety than to myself. In view of the facts, the harge of forgery raised in ridiculous, I also object to the breach of faith shown by Obici in inviting me to Obici's store, and then meeting there with a constable armed with a warrant fo

TWO THOUSAND DENIED FEES

INSOLVENTS CAN'T COLLECT FROM THE COUNTY.

Big Saving Effected by the Newly Created Office of Witness Clerk - No More Drawing of Fees for Two Cases on the One Day, and No One Man Can Get a Dollar for Working for the Commonwealth Who Is Owing the County Any Costs. Other Court Matters.

In the little more than a year that the county commissioners have had a "witness clerk" engaged, the county has been saved, according to Clerk Mahon's estimate, $7,000 directly, and probably as much more indirectly,

There was no question at any time but that the creation of this office would be an economy. The only question was as to how much of a saving would be effected.

Before the establishment of this office, witnesses would come into court on several cases and draw a dollar s day for each case. Very frequently case is set down for Monday but will not be reached until Friday. When this occurred formerly, the witnesses, as a rule, would put in a claim for fees for every day from the day the case was on the list to the day it was tried.

Only about one out of every fifty persons on whom costs are imposed do not take advantage of the insolvency laws to escape payment. The same day they would swear they were insolvents and thereby put the costs on the county, they would go down to the commissioners' office and get a warrant for fees as a witness for the commonwealth. In almost every municipality in the county there was a crowd of barrators who faked up cases of a more or less trivial nature for the sole purpose of having a loaf for a week in Scranton at the expense of the county.

STRONG BEFORE GRAND JURY. They would make out a strong case before the grand jury but when it came to the trial they would be just weak enough to have the prosecution defeated, and the county, either directly or indirectly, saddled with the

Now all this is changed. No witness an get fees if he does not register with Clerk Mahon every day and be on hand punctually when the case is called. If a case is set down for Tuesday and it is seen it will not be reached until Friday, the district attorney announces the fact and no fees will be paid in that case for Wednesday or Thursday. If a witness is summoned on more than one case, he can draw fees and mileage on only one case. This is a particularly sad blow to the magistrates and constables from a distance who were wont to draw fees and mileage on two or three cases in the one

But it is in the matter of insolvents that the greatest direct and indirect saving is made. Every insolvent since the day the county was organized is on record in the commissioners' office When a person comes in, now, with a bill for fees or mileage, this record is appealed to, and if it is found that he was one time saddled with costs which he avoided paying by pleading insolvency, Mr. Mahon courteously informs him that his claim will placed to his credit on the account he is owing, and that he can draw no money from the county until he has squared his old account. WON'T COME AGAIN.

That man isn't going to come into court again if he can help it. He doesn't relish the idea of paying railcoad fare, losing time and spending good money at restaurants just to work out what he owed the county in some costs that he supposed the county had forgotten all about long ago. Thus those barrators above referred to are discouraged from faking up cases for, as a rule, they sometime or another were saddled with costs, and they know that it is always there to confront them when they face the witness clerk.

Mr. Mahon's book containing the names of persons whose claims for witness fees have been refused, during the last year, because of their having in days gone by declared themselves insolvents and put the costs on the county, has nearly 2,000 entries. Before the advent of the witness clerk these 2,000 persons would have drawn anywhere from $1 to $10 in fees. Thanks to the witness clerk, not one of them drew a cent, and what is best of all, none of them will come into court again unless they are dragged there.

There is some talk of transferring the witness clerk from the commissioners' to the controller's office. In Luzerne he is an attache of the latter

There were only two Fourth of July es, one in Green Ridge and the other in West Scranton. The first was at 2.30 yesterday af-

Neighbors sent in an alarm from box 68, bringing the General Phinney and Liberty companies to the scene Much difficulty was experienced in locating the heart of the blaze, and as consequence about $1,000 worth of damage resulted from fire and water. The building is owned by A. C. Nettleton and is insured. The alarm of fire sounded shortly after midnight from box 32, was caused by a blaze at the small confectionery store of Mrs. Stevens at South Main avenue and Hampton street. A large amount of fireworks in the window were ignited by a Chinese lantern falling upon them. Druggist D. M. fire companies. The damage was but

BAND STAND IS FINISHED

The Free Concerts Which It Was Expected Would Be Given There Have Not Materalized.

Considerable disappointment has been eit among the members of the Bicycle club since the completion of their band stand, at the refusal of Bauer's band to give weekly concerts. The stand was completed about two weeks ago, it having been erected with the sole purpose in view of being utilized for a weekly band concert free for the club and the general public. Previous to work being started upon it. Mr. Bauer was asked whether he would be willing to give a concert once a week, if the club furnished him a stand, and is declared to have signified his will-

Whereat the club made arrangements with Mrs. Atherton, who owns the large lot at Olive street and Washington ave nue, immediately adjoining the club house, and set to work to transform the long, sloping piece of ground into a hand-ball court and site for a bane stand.

The necessary funds came out of the pockets of the club members, who enertained visions of warm summer nights spent on their porch, reclining at ease in comfortable chairs, their feet on the railing, while from the stand nearby floated the brisk airs heard in winter at the successful operas of the

The hand-ball court cost the least most of the funds being devoted to the stand, which is now proving a sort of white elephant on the hands of the club. The band belongs to the Musicians' union, and has scruples against free concerts. Hence the hitch.
