GROCERS' DAY AT LODORE.

A Great Throng Will Attend the Excursion.

Grocers' day should have been named merchants' day, but the committee thought best not to change it this year, at least, because the day had jumped into public favor, and any change now might not tend to make the day as great a success as last year.

Grocers' day is a day set apart for he merchants, their families and friends to take an outing, and the committee in charge wish it understood that no loose characters will be allowed on the grounds. It is expected that this outing of the merchants at Lake Lodore will be one to which you may safely take your friends, and know you will be in company fitting to business people.

There will be Bauer's orchestra, also a brass band and amusements of different kinds, and enough of them to nake the day one long to be remempered. The catering is in the hands of ladden Brothers. There will be plenty eat and drink, and tanks of ice water will be placed in different parts of the grove. Arrangements have been made to have the first train leave at 4.30 p. m. and the last train no later than 7.30. Programme for the day follows;

MINERS HEARD MANY REPORTS

BUSINESS OF SECOND DAY OF THE CONVENTION.

Legislative Committee in an Exhaustive Report Told of the Efforts Made at Harrisburg to Pass Mining Bills-President Nicholle Said the Conferences of Employes and Operators Were Highly Unsatisfactory-Growth of the District Union During the Last Year.

The two sessions held by the Mine Workers of District No. 1, who are meeting here in regular quarterly convention, were marked yesterday by the transaction of a large amount of very important business and characterized by a general air of the keenest interest taken by the delegates.

The election of officers was held in the morning and the tellers were busied all day counting the vote, and will render their report this morning. reports were heard of President P. D. Nicholls, Secretary-Treasure: John T. Dempsey and the legislative and executive committees,

The balloting took up the greater part of the morning and in the afternoon the remainder of the business was transacted. Henry Collins, of Carbondale, one of the members of the district board, read the report of the legislative committee, which was signed by all its members. Following is the full text of the legisative committee's report, which was adopted by the convention: REPORT ON LEGISLATION

To the District Convention United Mine Workers of America, Brothers: Following is our report on work accomplished at the legislature since our last meeting:

On the minth of April last we reported bills Nos. 211, 214, 215, 219 and 217 as having passed the house and been committed to the committee on mines and mining in the senate. A heating was to be had before that committee on the tenth of April, but the chairman wired us that he had postponed the nocting until the 17th. His excuse was that some one in the family was regime to be married. On the 17th we may as going to be married. On the 17th we me was going to be marrier. On the 14th we feet in Harrisburg and were again informed that there would be no meeting, as a nicce of his was going to be married and that the meeting was deferred another week. On the 24th the committee met and heard argument on house bill No. 214 and adjourned to meet on May I.

bill No. 214 and adjourned to meet on May I. As this meeting arguments were continued on the inspectors bill and in order to strengthen their case the in-pectors brought twelve miners from our district to Harrisburg to argue against the measure, which they did. The committee of miners brought a petition which they said was signed by members of a local union at Priceburg, and which they said was an appeal against the passage of the bill. The chairman of the committee on mines, Senator Heidelbaugh, refused to allow our committee to see the petition or have it read. This meeting was attended by representatives of the large operators, who assended against our measure. The representative of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Lawyer Wilson, who is the land agent of the company, furnished the chairman with a list of the names of the miners, who asserved to their names and made arguments against the bill. nes and made arguments against s and made arguments against and op-mine inspectors were also present and ophe inspectors bill as a means of delaying the onsideration of the weigh bills. It appears hat they were deceiving the mine inspectors and te trying to deceive our committee by making appear that they were more bitter against the spectors bill than anything else, while the it of the case was that they were trying to hase it the paramount issue in order to take the fight off the weigh bills and center it on this bill. The committee refused to consider the other bills and adjourned without taking action on the inspectors bill, promising to consider the other bills on May 7.

BILLS AMENDED. On the seventh of May bills Nos. 215, 216 and 217 were gone over and arguments made for and against them. The committee adjourned and re-ported to the senate bills Nos. 214 and 217. Afthe bills had first reading, Senator Heide r the bills had first reading. Senator frequen-ingh made a motion to re-commit the two bills c amendment and promised the senate that would again report them on the morrow, hen the morrow came he reported the inspec-es bill with amendments which practically illed the bill, but did not report the weigh flill, nor did he report that weight ill, nor did he report again at any time. The only objections which were made against he weigh bill was that it would force the men and the companies in Schuykill to pay by the on where places must be driven by the yard and counter cluste together. Those objections were ustained by the committee from that field and cemed reasonable to us, and when Smater Asughan called on us after the meeting and aid that the committee would report the bills said that the committee would report the bills if we agreed to an amendment which would remove this objection, we agreed to de so, and in company with the senator formulated an agreement which he said removed the objection and that the committee would now report the bills favorably. There was no objections raised against the other bills. Nos. 215 and 216. Notwithstanding what we had done in the matter the committee still held up the bills and continued to hold them until the legislature adjourned. Some of the committee sut the bills would cortainly be enacted into laws, but that is all that the promises amounted to. promises amounted to. On the third of June, after exhausting every flort to have the bills reported, we drow up a circular letter and mailed one to cach sonator, asking them to take the bills out of the hands of the committee. Following is a copy of the

THE LETTER SENT.

Scranton, Pa., June 3, 1991. To the Senators of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, 'Honorable Genilement On the second day of or the weighing and regulation thereof of an-hracite coal. These bills were committed to he senate committee on mines and mining, who all have them in their possession. At a hearing refere that committee an objection was raised to bill No. 215, that coal could not be weighted under certain conditions. We considered the observing, and when a senator called on our comnittee and stated that the committee would re-port the bills if an amendment was made to eatcommittee on mines and mining, whi The committee still continue to he he did. The committee still continue to hold this bill and also the other twe, against which no argument has been made at any time. Bill No. 217 was reported favorably to the senate along with house bill No. 214, and, upon a motion by chairman of the committee. Senator Heidelbaugh, who said he would report them both to the senate on the following day, they were re-committed and bill No. 217 has not been reported since. These hills are eminently fair and just. They do not contain anything that is unfair to the employers of the miners, and do not provide for any price on the ton, but simply provide an equitable system for weighing the enal which will be fair to the employer and employer. State Democratic Leaders Favor Him for Treasurer-Convention Will Be a Lively One.

It is not an improbability that ex-Sheriff Charles Robinson will be the Democratic candidate for state treasurer. National Committeeman Guffey, State Chairman Creasy, Representative Ikeler and other state leaders favor his selection, and it is believed if he will only say the word he can have the place, with scarcely a struggle. Mr. Robinson is not disposed to actively re-enter the political arena, but some of his most intimate personal and political friends are urging him to accept the honor and it is possible that he may. Representative Gray, of Cumberland, is spoken of as the likely choice of the convention in case Mr.

Robinson does not want it. Judge Yerkes, of Bucks county, is the most prominently mentioned candidate for the Supreme bench. He counts on a walkover in the convention, beause of assurances he will, it is claimed, be able to present that the Insurgent organization in Philadelphia will give him an endorsement. The convention will be enlivened this cear by a vigorous renewal of the effort to unseat the Ryan-Donnelly delegation from Philadelphia and read that hyphenated leadership out of the party. This was tried in a half-hearted nanner at the last convention, but failed of accomplishment by reason of the fact that the Ryan-Donnelly peo ple had anticipated it and were prepared to sidetrack the movement as soon as it was set afoot. Colonel F. J. Fitzsimmons, former state committeeman from this county was chairman of this convention, and did much to prevent the drastic measures that the anti-organization Philadelphians wanted to put through, or, at least, omitted to do much that would have helped them in the consummation of their design.

The fight against Ryan and Donnelly was lead then and will be lead again by J. Burwood Daly, a young attorney of Philadelphia, who is supposed to reflect the views of ex-Judge James Gay Gordon and others of the Wanamaker

It is highly improbable that the Lackawanna delegation will be anywhere near the fore front of the fight against Ryan and Donnelly. has been pretty preached here that the Ryan-Donnelly methods were nothing more or less than making the most out of a bad proposition. When Harrity was run-ning the Philadelphia end of the Cleveland distributing bureau, cleaned the post office, mint and other federal places of Republicans and put in their stead the active workers of the Democratic organization. Civil service intervened to save these men from being ousted, and having no further occasion to seek anything from any party they refuse to contribute anything or do any work. This was a hard blow to the organization and the eaders found that the best they could do would be to take the half loaf when it was offered. The fact that Ryan and Donnelly go all the minority positions that were given, was used by their opponents as an argument that they had affiliated with the regular Republican organization to work against the insurgents. The policy of the Ryan-Donnelly peo ple and the truth of the assertion that they had an affiliation with the Stalwarts are both questions here, more or less, but the fact remains that it has been drilled into the Democrats here quietly but, neverteheless, effectively, that the Ryan-Donnelly policy was not a bad expedient at all and New York, to supervise the work in when it comes to a show down on the question of ostracizing them Lackawanna will not be the first county to вау ауе.

Committeeman James O'Neill has made no move yet towards having delgates selected, but it is expected the district organizations will be stirred to activity in the course of a week. There is an increased represntation n Lackawanna this year, the First district coming in for an extra dele gate. The first district is now entitled to four: the Second, to three; the Third, to two, and the Fourth to four.
