THE PARK FOUNTAIN STIRS UP TALK

The Councilmen Discuss Nothing Else but How to Get Around the Question of Avoiding the Installing of Another Meter—What They Have to Say.

When you meet a Carbondale councilman these days, the topic that he is most likely to discuss with you is the question of the meter that the Consolidated Water company wants to install to measure the water that will pass through the water fountain in front of Memorial park.

As stated in this column last week, it is the insistence of the water company in the order for an additional meter that has kindled the fire of indignation. The water company would not brook the suggestion of allowing the water to flow through the fountain in question without a meter, and the councilmen fail to see any good reason for not allowing the meters that do service at the other fountains, one at either end of the city, be the guides for computing the cost of the park fountain.

Another phase of the middle that disturbs the councilmen and is the means of their waxing warm is the big difference between the combined expense of the park fountains and the other fountains. The fountain at the lower end of the city cost $40, last year. The fountain in the park and the fountain outside of the park cost $156, nearly four times as much, though the pipe of the latter is claimed to be smaller by an eighth of an inch.

THE FAIR STORE ENTERED

Youthful Thieves Climb Through an Inviting Open Window and Get at the Cash Drawer, Which Was Opened—The Police Investigating.

The "Fair," the novelty store on North Main street, was entered by burglars, presumably boys, some time Sunday night or early yesterday morning. Entrance was gained by piling boxes on top of each other until there were enough to reach a window which, the police say, was open.

After gaining entrance the lads made for the cash drawer, which they broke open. There was no money before them, the proprietor having wisely placed it in a safer place, where the thieves could not get at it.

A TERRIBLE ASSAULT.

The Fearful Beating Which John Latofsky Was Given at the Hands of George Wallik, Nicholas Andros, James Andros and a Countryman Who Has Evaded Arrest—Latofsky Waylaid and Hammered with a Stone.

John Latofsky, who was the victim of a race quarrel, and whose injuries were reported in yesterday's Tribune, was terribly assaulted by the quartette who waylaid him and hammered him over the head until he fell unconscious under their murderous blows.

Latofsky was on his way home from the city on Sunday, when he was intercepted and beaten by his four assailants. When he neared his house in the Last Chance settlement, the four men who are accused of the crime, sprung from a secreted spot along the highway and began to beat him. Three of the four, George Wallik and Joseph and Nicholas Andros, are in the toils. Wallik was arrested by Constable Moran and Patrolman McAndrew on Sunday evening. Early yesterday morning, the vigilante Constable Moran was arrested, and before noon he had two more of the quartette located and under arrest. These were the Andros brothers. One of them was arrested in the woods and the other at his home, where he was surrounded by the four men, while one of them beat him over the head until he was unconscious.

The assault on Latofsky was the climax of a quarrel of long standing between the Hungarian and Polish residents of the settlement. They have been at war with each other for months and have carried their troubles in the court of Alderman Atkinson for settlement. Latofsky happened to be a witness against the Andros brothers in one of these cases, and it was to revenge themselves on him for disclosures he made at the hearing, it is claimed, that the attack on Sunday was planned and carried out with such disastrous consequences.

CAR JUMPS TRACK.

Like the Happening at Jermyn a Few Weeks Ago, Car Leaves the Rails While Moving Along a Straight Track—Strikes Against a Pole, Which Snaps Off Close to the Ground—Passengers Shook Up, but No One Injured.

The street car accident at Jermyn, a few weeks ago, was duplicated last night, but on a smaller scale, when a north-bound car, due here about 8 o'clock, left the rails, while proceeding along a straight track, just south of the post-office at Mayfield, and ploughed into a pole, which it caused to snap off a foot or so above the ground. The passengers had a fortunate escape from injuries, though they were pretty well shaken up and showed signs of disturbed nervous systems after the summer of the event.

Like the Jermyn happening, last night's accident occurred while the car was moving along a straight track, clear of switches and frogs. It would appear that the car left the rails because of a depression in the roadbed, of which there are any number between Peckville and Forest City, and which are the means of causing the cars on this end of the Scranton Railway company's line, all but a few of which have been repaired.
