ALMOST A TRAGEDY

Differences Between Two Well Known Youths End in a Quarrel That Came Near Being Marked by Disastrous Consequences—Gregory Higgins the Assailant of John Peel Arrested and Held in Jail.

Differences between two well-known youths of this city, Gregory Higgins, of the South Side, and John Peel, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Peel, of Wyoming street, led to an assault late on Monday night, which came near to having a tragic ending.

Constable Neary arrested Higgins, who waived a hearing, and entered bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance at court. John Higgins, of Canaan street, an uncle of the defendant, became his bondsman.

According to the stories of witnesses, companions of the young men, Higgins took offense at Peel whistling after him while in company with a young lady. When Higgins returned he took Peel to task and asked him to step behind the Anthracite building to settle the affair of honor.

When Peel rallied from the shock he was supported to his home, where his sufferings increased and to the extent that Drs. Gillis and Lowry were called.

Last night Peel was yet suffering from the violent shock, but he was considerably brighter than the night before, and the physicians believe he will recover from the ordeal with no permanent injury.

Both young men are members of prominent families and the unfortunate happening is generally deplored.
