HONSDALE WAS EASY.

The Crescents Have a Walk Over in Defeating the Players from the Maple City—Score 21 to 0.

The base ball cranks of Honesdale sent over a team yesterday that was the easiest proposition that the Crescents have handled this year.

The Maple City team's hopes were knocked into a cocked hat when they commenced and Knogler, their pitcher, was knocked skyward until the players behind him became dizzy trying to locate the balls.

The score was 21 to 0. It was shameful, really. The day the nine but it's a habit the Crescents have when a "good thing" is before, Honesdale was a "good thing" yesterday.

There were two new men on the Crescent team yesterday, John Hart, who covered second base, and Harry the Fort, a native, who was at short.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Crystal Camp, the First in This Section. Established by Organizer Bertwick.

Crystal camp, Woodmen of the World, the first of this order in this section, was established on Friday night in Sons of Temperance hall on Salem avenue.

The charter of the camp contains the names of a score of the prominent citizens of the town, and the prospects are bright for a prosperous career for the camp.

The booming of the semi-centennial celebration brings before the public eye the days gone, and when the credit for the great amount of work that has been done is passed around, this worker will merit a heap of it.

Mr. Sahm has had abundant experience in looking after public celebrations and this is the reason the semi-centennial association so eagerly sought his services and placed him at the helm to guide the enterprise to the goal of success that is aimed at reaching.

Mr. Sahm has set the people a talking, a semi-centennial until now, and this is just what was wanted, for everybody seems interested in the big jubilee that has been planned for Mr. Sahm has heaps of plans and schemes that he will put in practice.

Mr. Sahm is always ready to pass on information on any subject pertaining to the celebration, and it's so satisfying to the seeker of this information that he cordially received, as he always is, by Mr. Geary and to be intelligently informed as this gentleman can do so.

Mr. Geary is a member of the High school faculty, by whom his knowledge of educational matters is justly appreciated. He is a graduate of Bucknell and is possessed of a fine intellect that is sure to make its force known and to win a high place for its possessor.

William Collins, president of Common council, is a young man of the town who stands high in the favor of his colleagues and has earned the good will of his constituents and citizens generally.

The favor with which Mr. Collins is regarded among his co-workers in council was expressed at the reorganization of councils, when after looking over the election of a chairman for Mr. Collins' administration has been a candidate and was readily accepted and hastily called to the position. This action council has never had reason to regret, but on the contrary, the wisdom of his choice has been often attested.

Among his accomplishments dancing competitions, and he has attained a skill that has been his services as instructor greatly sought after hereabouts. Mr. Collins recently attended the national convention of dancing masters at Indianapolis and during the coming social season he will introduce the new dances that were there illustrated. Mr. Collins is genial and affable and is a capital story teller.

MORE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Further Evidence of the General Response of Citizens to the Appeal for Funds.

The subscriptions which continue to be made daily to the general fund of the semi-centennial celebration encourage the belief that sufficient money will be secured to carry out all the entertainments, all of the plans that were proposed and decided upon. At the beginning there was a fear that some of the programmes would have to be curtailed, but the fund is swelling so each day that the indications for an immense success become brighter and brighter.

All of the money needed has not been secured, for it will take a heap of it to carry out the plans proposed, but a number of citizens who usually contribute freely to public affairs have not been freed to yet, but will be this week.

The interest which it has been hoped that the ladies of the town would take in the public plans is beginning to manifest itself. Friday night the Companions of the Forest met and, besides electing Mrs. Joseph Jenkins as delegate to the general association, made a donation of $5.

The address contributions since the list was published in Friday's Tribune are: P. F. Connor, $25; B. A. Kelly, $10; Thomas E. Campbell, $10; Carbondale Gas Company, $25; E. H. W.
