The following stories (writes "Morien") re-late to the first colliers explesions in the Rhen-dela Valley. The first to happen was that at Walter Coffin's Dinas colliers, on Monday morn-ing, Jan. 1, 1841, and the other at insole and Son's, at Cymmer, on June 15, 1858. In the first twelve lost their lives; in the second 114 men and boys periahed, These turiling stories were given me by a

The memoy was placed in the handsome contour of his wife's my hands for rewards to whom I might deem most descring of "the bravest of the brave." While all were valiant I could not distinguish cal committee, of whom the late Rev. D. W.

"Sam" to be to was called by his intimated was the best known man in the valley. He had himself studied beply, and his incressant efforts were urging he rising generation of young Welshmen of the calleys to engage in the study of security here. mileys to engage in the study of scientine books nd other literary branches.

The then rising choral singing classes were

In short, he was one of these mys-serious class of Weighmen, who in his carry lays would walk half a dozen miles to some puter country village to impart lessons in singing to country youth of both sexes in "Y: Ysgol without any other reward than the pleas are of witnessing the success of his efforts. Sam was from Hendrevorgan, Glynogwy, and was known by that name as a surname, in secordance with a very old Welsh custom, in server of the sarly youth Som had been attracted by high rages to Dinas collicrica, then the property of Mr. Walter Coffin, uncle of Mr. Arthur Williams, late M. P., Coed-y-Mwestwr.

On Monday morning, Jan. 1, 1844, the first explosion in the Rhandda Valleys took place at Dinas, at the shaft just below Dinas T. V. S. across the River Rhondda. The pit was scaled by water power. The gearing of the pit, divided in the middle by a partition, as a down-cast and upcast airways, had been shattered to stome by the swful termed which had shot through from below. As seen as possible a rege was coiled round the whim, the drum being standing below. standing berizentally around a stout vpright seam. The end of the rope was passed through a hole in the gable of the house over the pit's outh. To this end, dangling over the awful smoking abyte of the shaft, a triangular chain and nervow from bar, the latter as a sent at the base of the triangle formed by it, and the two mult chains described.

But now came the test of valor. Who would dare descend to Hades, the sheel of Wales, on that alender bar? All the local community—the only one then in the entire Rhondda—were there only one then in the entire Rhondda were there in tears Who would dare, not the Excelsion heights in snow and ice, but the eighty-four yards through the smoke, and in possible fire, helow. Who! Who? Who? There stepped forth from the weeping wives and mothers a stalwart gallant son of old Siluria. It was Sam Hendregallant son of old Siluria. It was Sam Hendre-vorgan. "I will go," quoth he, "Ged helping

He was soon seated at the end of the slender hempen rope. He was going alone through the valley of death, without the shadow thereof. He was the earliest of the beroes of the coal mines of South Wales, "Ready," cried authoity, and off shot the horse on his circular round, around the whim track, shaped like the ring of a circus, At the same moment valiant Sun disappeared into the deep. Thoughts were now too intense for tears. The attitude of the horse attached to the whim was long remembered. the urgency of the moment. He galleped at such a rate around, proud that his belly was nearly touching the track. He seemed to feel descending triangle and its precious load for the moment it touched the bottom the gol-ant stord stopped suddenly of his own accord. Sum alighted on the top of hundreds of tons of Alpine height. Below he could hear painful greans and other sounds. In a few minutes be met D. Thomas, head manager, father of the late Lifmund Thomas, Maindy Hall. He had just reached the bottom of the shaft when the explosion occurred, and had been blown in an prosite direction, and had now just recovered onscionaness. He ascended on the iron bar, am, fresh from above, entered the workings. te was nearly done up, when he came to or standing on an unused track, which had t been touched by the thundersome blust. The rack was used as a short footpath from the inerior of the workings.

On the other side of the door, which, alas! he was unable to open, he overheard the voice operator in Welsh. It was that of Thomas Row nd, the first man to start a Sunday school, he he invitation of Vieur Prichard, in Vatradyf-dwg. He was the head deacon with the local Calvinistic Methodists. Sam was compelled to retreat, and went back to the surface and told e eager throng he had everheard Thomas Row and at prayer. The scene which enemed was overwhelming in is pathos. It appeared as if he had heard the older of Cranmer bidding farewell to his coun-ry from the fires of martyrdom. Some days ater Thomas Rowland was found dead on his with his two little boys, one on each side. Thus the three had ascended "O'r dyru minlwch, i'r beraidd baradwys i fyw." His randsons reside at Tenvrefail.

On the morning of June 15, 1856, Sam, ac

ananied by his little boy, descended into Porth-Cymmer pit. He worked upwards of a mile beyond the bottom the shaft, attended by his hey. All the morning after the explosion people in all directions were asking, "Has San scaped?" About 2 o'cleck in the day the ex-plorers, including Daniel Thomas and T. T. s stiffened arm, like an iron band, around the ame of his dear little boy. After much dif-ulty the boy was taken from his father's tight mbrace, and both were placed in a tram, which cas pushed towards the bottom of the shaft, 'Sam," said my informant, "was placed in a litting posture, and as the tram traveled the movement of the arm was like one eagerly beckening the rescuers as if saying, 'Give no back my mey.'"

But in his wife's greeting the mighty Peter detected omething lacking. He gazed at her long and then it donned upon him that perchance her loveliness might be as visible to others as to himself. Straightway the green-eyed monster ntered his soul, and ere long Peter had worked himself into a veritable The following interesting atory given Berserker's wrath, as he thought of a pelow appeared in a recent issue of the good looking young boarder in the South Wales Echo. PRESIDENT SCRANTON WRITES TO THE RECORDER.

Announces That He Has Tired of Waiting for Councils to Ratify the $12,000 a Year Contract and Withdraws His Offer, with a Further Announcement That the "Temporary" Rate Will Be $15,000 a Year Agitation for Municipal Water Plant May Be Started.

The expected has happened. Presilent W. W. Scranton, of the Scranton Gas and Water company, having tired of waiting for councils to force the ordinance providing for a five year contract for the supply of water to the city, yesterday sent a letter to Re-corder Conneil withdrawing the company's former offer of $12,000 a year and setting a new temporary figure of $15,000 a year until councils are willing to enter into a new agreement. The full text of Mr. Scranton's letter which makes most interesting reading is printed below:

THE SCRANTON GAS AND WATER CO. Scranton, Pa., July 29, 1901. Honorable William L. Connell, Recorder

Dear Sir: On Sept. 28, 1990, I wrote Mayfoir, calling his attention to the fact that the ast of the city's contracts with us for water ex nired Oct. 1, 1892, and that, owing to the growth the city and the enormously increased us water for street washing, flushing the sewers the previous rates were no longer equiaccordance with existing facts.

NAMED LOW FIGURE.

Later in the season I met by request a co mittee of the select council appointed for the purpose, and, by order of our board, named a ery low figure, compared with the prices paid by other cities of about this size, at which we would agree to furnish the city government with water for either five or ten years at its op tion. This price of $1,000 per month we under stood to be entirely satisfactory, both to the committee and the councils. At the special request of Mr. Roche, now director of public works, we also, in order to show our good will agreed to continue the then existing rate til

Although the matter of a new contract could sity have been put through in the two orece following meetings of councils, many nonths have now passed and the city author ties have yet brought the matter to no conclutos have yet orong to the matter than one pretext or another the matter has been held up till it is quite evident to us that for some reason or other unknown to us, the city does not desire the centract agreed upon. We also learn that the councils are emounting to 5 per cent, of our gross receipts han at any other place in this region from Forest City to Nanticoke, and who knows any thing of the cost of supplying water in thes coal regions, will see that the only way which we would meet such an increase of ou expenses would be by raising our rates, either the city government, or to our other is, or to both, to the level of other places it his valley. Under these circumstances, we re puest your honor to notify the councils that or ate offer for water to the city is hereby with

Should the councils choose to take the mat ter up again, we shall be pleased to meet, at their convenience, such committees as may be appointed. Temporarily, beginning Aug. 1, we will supply such water as the city government may need at $1,250 per month, provided our bills are paid promptly. I beg to call your boner's attention to the fact that our bills for April, May and June are not yet paid

W. W. Scranton, President,

ORDINANCE HELD UP. The ordinance providing for the $12. 00 contract, referred to in Mr. Scran ons' letter, was first introduced in select council last summer and had not peen passed when the councils reorganized last April. The result was that a new ordinance had to be introduced This was done, and the measure was quickly passed by select council. It went over to the common branch and has not been seen or heard from since As far as can be learned, it is still in he hands of the light and water committee. Just why the common counci has been so dilatory in considering the measure is not known, but ask anybody in city hall and a couple of dozen of different reasons will be advanced, The company's bills for April, May and June, referred to in Mr. Scranton's letter, have not been paid for the reason that Recorder Connell, in the absence of a contract, has refused to payment. These bills are at the rate of $1,000 per month. The action of Mr. Scranton in an nouncing an increase of the rate by $250 per month provoked no end of comment yesterday and served to make one very prominent member of the select a municipal water plant. "I think that just about one more letter along similar lines would create a public sentiment in favor of the establishment of a municipal water plant," said he, "which would enable us o secure an overwhelming majority at the polls, if we could ever get councils to vote on the proposition. HE HAS STATISTICS.

This councilman stands ready to oring the question to an issue, if he can secure the support of a few of his fellow-members in the select council. He Filipino wood-carver as has been seen has a series of statistics in his possession showing the approximate cost of bringing water to this city from the Susquehanna. These figures are based on surveys made by certain interested parties some few years ago. The estimated cost of bringing the water within the city limits and of constructing and equipping a pump house is $385,000. The councilman in question believes that the issuance of $500,000 worth of bonds at the outset would be sufficient, allowing, as he does, the sum of $115,000 for the laying of distributing mains.

Recorder Connell will send Mr. Scranton's letter to select council Thursday night.

WILL CEASE OPPOSITION

Select Councilman Chittenden Is Content to Have Railroad Alley Sewer Constructed.

Select Councilman C. E. Chittenden vesterday announced that he would make no further objection to the passage of the ordinance providing for the construction of a $12,000 sewer on Railroad alley to relieve the Lackawanna avenue sewer. Sunday night's heavy rain and its attendant results demonstrated to him, partly at least, that his plan of turning the water from Adams, Jefferson and Madison avenues into the sewer running down South Washington avenue, would not sufficiently relieve the Lackawanna avenue sewer as to prevent the flooding of basements. When seen yesterday, Mr. Chittenden said: "Yes, I have decided to make no further opposition to the ordinance providing for this new sewer. money is there and I'm about convinced that we might as well use it for this purpose as for any other. The water that came into these basements didn't do much damage, but as long as it keeps coming in we'll continue to have a general complaint from propcity owners, and if we can prevent this it may be for the best. I'm not altogether convinced that my plan was not the best, as Sunday night's rain was a phenomenal one and we may not have another like it for years," City Engineer Phillips, with whom Mr. Chittenden had such a discussion regarding the new sewer, said that of his conclusions. "The flooding of the cellars along Lackawanna avenue," 'proved that Mr. Chittenden's plan was not worth considering. I consider that my arguments are more than borne out by the results of the storm and the only thing I'm worrying about now is whether my plans for the new sewer provide for one of sufficient

Sunday night's rain proved the truth

Mr. Phillips sent out several of the ing with instructions to visit every business place on Lackawanna avenue below Wyoming and compile a list showing the height of the water in the basements of all those which were flooded by the backing up of the sewer water. The list given out yesterday afternoon, with the height of water in ach. was as follows:

J. D. Williams & Company, 6 inches: Four Cent Store, 1 inch: Goldsmith's Shoe store, 112 inches; Scranton House, inches; Cassesse's hotel, 4 inches; Lohmann's hotel, 6 inches; New York Department store, 7 inches: Krotosky Brothers, 6 inches; Hotel Scott, 8 iches; Coyne House, 6 Inches; Fred Durr's, 4 inches; Myer Davidow's, 4 inches; Hotel Carroll, 4 inches.

Some of the "strict constructionists," who oppose the construction of the sewer, say that it cannot be legally onstructed. They maintain that the wording of the sewer bond ordinance provided for the issuance of $12,000 worth of bonds for "the enlarging and reenstruction" of the First district countersign any warrants for their main sewer. It is contended that the construction of an entirely new sewer is neither "the enlarging or reconstruction" of the present one, and maintain that it cannot be done.
